STEFFENS DRAWS LINE IN CRIMES; NONE JUSTIFIABLE

But He Places the Social Kind on a Different Basis from the Individual Sort.

"WORSE THAN ANARCHIST"

Writer at Darrow Trial Says He's Christian—"Which Demands More," He Asserts.

KNEW M'NAMARA WAS GUILTY

Los Angeles, Cal., July 19.—[Special.]—While giving his views on "philosophical anarchy" from the witness stand in the trial of Clarence Darrow today, Lincoln Steffens, the magazine writer, rose to the occasion when District Attorney Fredericks asked with elaborate carelessness:

"By the way, Mr. Steffens, you are an avowed anarchist, aren't you?"

"Worse than that," rejoined Steffens in a flash. "I am a believer in Christianity, and that is more radical than anarchy."

A gasp ran around the room as the "muck rake" writer, who was under cross examination, warmed up to the subject. Fredericks tried to interrupt, but was unsuccessful, Earl Rogers, Darrow's counsel, saying: "It's not often that we have a chance like this to hear a lecture on Christianity. It may do us some good."

Christianity More Radical.

Steffens said that he was worse than an anarchist in the sense that he was more radical, for "while anarchy demanded justice, Christianity demanded love and charity in addition." He went on to define what he called "social crimes" as opposed to "individual crimes."

Time after time Prosecutor Fredericks sought to have the witness say the culmination of the McNamara case was caused by the arrest of Bert Franklin for bribery and as often Steffens insisted that all parties concerned in the defense had agreed to the settlement before the bribery exposé.

The witness told again of the conferences with local business men with a view of closing the labor prosecutions and bringing about an era of better understanding between labor and capital; of the futile efforts to have the district attorney agree to the plan of freeing J. J. McNamara after his brother pleaded guilty.

Not Willing for One to Hang.

Steffens said it was his belief at the time of the negotiations that the National Erectors' association was conducting the course of the district attorney. He knew the association had sent protests to Gen. Otis against the liberation of J. J. McNamara.

"You were willing, were you not, Mr. Steffens," asked the district attorney, "that James B. McNamara should be hanged and J. J. could go free?"

"No, sir; never for a minute," was the emphatic reply.

"Do you believe the doctrine of anarchy?" Fredericks asked Steffens.

"Not quite that."

"When did you learn that J. J. McNamara was guilty?"

"After I got here."

"Though you knew he was guilty, you insisted in trying to get him off?"

"Yes."

"And you think it is right to get a guilty man off?"

Social Crime Different.

"Well, I want to explain. Any one trying to get a man free who is guilty of the commission of the individual crime (the murder charge against the McNamaras) does wrong; but the McNamaras' crime was a social crime."

"You believe you were justified in going to any length to save such men?"

"No, not as far as murder. I believe no crimes are justifiable. The cause is what should be first considered, however, not the punishment. A social crime is different from an individual crime."

"You believe it would be right to go as far as bribing a jury to save them?"

"No. My feeling about bribery is the same as about murder—they are not justifiable, but understandable. The wrong lies in the fact that we don't understand them, and treat them from an understandable basis. Our system of punishment, our legal machinery, is not proper to solve the labor or social problem."

Sending to Jail Doesn't Solve.

"The sending of the McNamaras to jail does not solve the problem. When the state has a victim down it does not solve the social problem by sending society's individuals to jail for a crime that's a part of society."

"You tried to save J. J. McNamara?"

"Yes, I tried hard."

"After knowing he was guilty?"

"Yes, I tried hard."

"Was it because J. J. McNamara would suffer that you tried to get him off?"

"No; that labor would. The danger was that this community would suffer because they would be led to believe that satisfaction was gained by them just because a man was to be punished."

"You did not want J. J. McNamara to admit his guilt?"

Would Be "Soaked" if He Confessed.

"Not to the state, for then he would be soaked, but to the people—there was such a place once upon a time, but no more."

"You were deceiving them (the business committee) when you told them J. J. McNamara would not plead guilty?"

"Now, that's not a fair question. I was not deceiving them any more than you are deceiving me by this kind of questions. Now, Capt. Fredericks, you want to get this right, don't you? It was this way. I dealt

PORTE GIVES OUT NEWS OF 'VICTORY' TO CHECK REVOLT?

London Thinks Report Was Made to Aid Sultan's Plea to Army for Loyalty.

ROME DOUBTS BATTLE STORY

Officials Say Attempt to Run Dardanelles in Torpedo Boats Would Be Foolish.

FLURRY IN CHICAGO GRAIN PITS

LONDON, July 19.—The mystery surrounding the reported attack on the Dardanelles by Italian torpedo boats and their repulse with the loss of two vessels and the damage of six others, coupled with the proclamation of the sultan of Turkey exhorting the troops to remain loyal, suggests the possibility that another revolution is brewing in Constantinople.

The Italian government denies knowledge of an attack on the Dardanelles, and while independent dispatches confirm the fact that a cannonade took place, all reports concerning an Italian attack and of the damage inflicted on the Italian torpedo boats come from official Turkish sources and are not confirmed by press dispatches.

The suggestion is made that the bombardment was engineered by the Turkish government as a means of influencing the Turks, by reminding them that the enemy was at the doors of the capital, thus counteracting a military revolution.

Sultan's Plea to Army.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 19.—The grave nature of the government's difficulties is revealed in a proclamation of the sultan to the army which was read to the garrison here today.

After announcing the appointment of Tewfik Pasha as grand vizier, the proclamation reminds the troops of their oath of loyalty and, referring to demands made by certain officers as contrary to the constitution and supreme rights of the khalifate, exhorts the army not to mix in politics, but to devote itself exclusively to the defense of the country.

The proclamation concludes by pointing out that the officers' treasonable attitude had encouraged the enemy to the extent "that the enemy dared last night to approach the very gates of the capital. This should constitute a warning."

The proclamation was provoked by a meeting of officers at the war office which delegated Nazim Pasha and Hadi Pasha to submit to the sultan the officers' demands for the dissolution of the chamber of deputies and the appointment of Kiamil Pasha as grand vizier.

Officials Report Victory.

An official report, given out today, says eight Italian torpedo boats attacked the entrance of the Dardanelles this morning. The Turkish forts replied vigorously, sinking two of the Italian war vessels and damaging the other six. The cannonade lasted forty-five minutes.

Dispatches from the Dardanelles assert that after the Italian torpedo boats retired twenty-two large and small war vessels were sighted from the straits steaming a southerly course. Five cruisers are still reported off the Dardanelles.

Twenty-seven Italian warships on April 18 last bombarded the forts Kilid-Ul-Bahr and Sedd-Ul-Bahr, defending the gateway to Constantinople, for three and a half hours. The Italians fired 180 shells, but the forts were only slightly damaged. The land batteries returned the fire and one of the Italian warships was reported damaged by a shell. After three and a half hours' fighting the Italians withdrew.

Doubt Action in Rome.

ROME, July 19.—The Italian government knows nothing of the reported action between a flotilla of Italian torpedo boat destroyers and the Turkish forts at the entrance to the Dardanelles, except that several Turkish torpedo boats left the straits to hunt for Italian warships, and that it is possible, therefore, the Italian destroyers engaged these vessels in battle.

"The idea that the Italian destroyers would try to force the Dardanelles," a semi-official note says, "is ridiculous. If the Turkish forts bombarded the Italian warships it was probably a result of the panic now reigning in Turkey or was a pretext of the government again to close the straits."

FLURRY IN GRAIN PITS.

Reports of the bombardment of the Dardanelles caused a flurry on the Chicago board of trade yesterday. The shorts were hit hard.

Interest centered in the wheat pit, where the bears have been having things their own way for the last few days, although the excitement was partly duplicated in the corn pit. Wheat has been worked down about 18 cents in the last week or ten days, and those who had gone short Thursday were in a state of apprehension just before the opening yesterday.

September wheat was advanced 2½ cents on the first few sales yesterday. December showed a like advance and May climbed back above the $1 mark.

BEEF COMBINE IN MOVE TO DISSOLVE

Forty-six Components of National Packing Company Assigned to Armour & Co.

"SYSTEM" TO CONTINUE.

First details of a distribution of approximately 350 packing plants valued at $50,000,000 among the big three of the stockyards became known yesterday. Printed statements, showing the apportionment of forty-six companies to Armour & Co. to take effect July 28 were sent out to all department managers of that corporation.

Two copies of these notices were secured by THE TRIBUNE. They would indicate that the much heralded dissolution of the National Packing company is to be a matter of abandoning the corporation name. "The system"—whatever that is and whatever it means—will continue.

Wickersham Forces Dissolution.

The dissolution now being outlined was decided upon by the National Packing company directors at the close of the recent criminal trial in the federal courts, and after Attorney General Wickersham had served notice that if the "trust" did not dissolve he would institute civil proceedings to force it to do so.

One of the notices, sent out over the signature of E. Wilson, is as follows:

July 17, 1912.

Armour & Co.'s apportionment National Packing company houses in division now under way.

To the Departments: The following houses will be taken over and operated under the National Packing company system:

Baltimore, Eutaw Beef Co.
Lowell, Mass., Omaha Packing Co.
Philadelphia, Quaker City Beef Co.
Toledo, Hammond company.
Washington, G. H. Hammond Co.
Jacksonville, National Packing Co.
Macon, Ga., National Packing Co.
New Orleans, National Packing Co. Ltd.
Birmingham, Ala., National Packing Co.
Spokane, Wash., National Packing Co.

The Eutaw Beef company will operate under that name, as will the Quaker City Beef company. The others, with the exception of the National Package Co., Ltd., which will be known as the A. P. Co. of Louisiana, Ltd., will operate under the name of Armour & Co.

Second Order Issued.

Over the same date line is a second order to all departments, which states:

The following houses will be changed to Armour & Co., system, and operated under the names indicated, effective July 28.

Appended is a list of thirty-two packing houses in different parts of the United States. The firm name of twenty of these is to be changed to Armour & Co. Four plants of the National Packing company in Nacadoches, Marshall, and Brownwood, Tex., and Bluefield, W. Va., are included in this list.

Six plants of the Hammond system, including the Hammond Beef company, G. H. Hammond company, and Hammond Packing company, are also to be changed to Armour & Co. Other packing companies taken over include the Shamokin Beef company and Sunbury Beef company of Pennsylvania, the Woonsocket Beef company of Rhode Island, the Omaha Packing company of Grand Rapids, and the St. Louis D. B. & P. Co. of Jamaica, N. Y.

Companies to Retain Names.

Three plants of the Colorado Packing company, in that state, are to be operated under their present name by the Armour system. The four plants of the Adams Bros. company of New York, Brooklyn, and Philadelphia, and the plant of the New England Beef company of Boston will enter the Armour system, but retain their corporate names.

Four additional plants, it is stated, will be operated, neither under the system of the Armour nor the National Packing companies, nor will their corporate names be changed. However, they are to be owned by Armour & Co. The order says:

"The following houses will be transferred July 28, but will continue under present name and system: Cortland, N. Y., A. H. Winchell & Co.; Cortland, N. Y., Cortland Beef company; Detroit, Mich., Detroit Beef company; Lansing, Mich., Hammond Beef and Provision company."

Frederick W. Croll appeared surprised last night when he was told that the orders had been sent out.

"It was my understanding," he said, "that the details of the dissolution had not been decided on and would not be until some time after the first of August."

HERMIT LIES DOWN TO DIE; PENS TRIBUTE TO LOST LOVE.

Hammond Man Found Starving in Hovel with Crust of Bread Near His Side—Life Was a Mystery.

> "Den ob im kampf und schmerz kein hauch der jugend bliebe nie doch vergisst das herz, den traum der ersten liebe."
> "Strife and worry may fade the bloom of youth, but love's first dream remains forever in the heart."

After writing this tribute to the sweetheart of his youth, Adolph Hufenhauser of Hammond, Ind., bachelor, hermit, and miser, yesterday lay down to die in his little log shack on the outskirts of the town. He was found, emaciated and exhausted, by neighbors who had noticed he had not been about for several days, and hurried to St. Margaret's hospital.

"Go away and let me alone, for I want to die," pleaded the aged man when friends and the police broke in the door of his hovel. They found a loaf of musty rye bread and a few battered pieces of furniture. Little was known of Hufenhauser except that he came to Lake county before the civil war and bought a little farm.

It was said he then wrote back to the young woman who had promised to come from Germany to join him in making a home. But she failed to keep the promise. Hufenhauser served through the war, then returned and took up his life as a hermit.

GEORGIE SPEEDS AS POLICE HUNT

Four Year Old Boy Pedals from 801 Windsor Avenue to 3247 Armitage.

DODGES DANGERS ON WAY.

All long distance records, national, international, and interplanetary, for that matter, for little boys 4 years old riding tricycles bareheaded in black shoes and stockings and white jumper suits were smashed to smithereens yesterday afternoon.

The new champion is George Reis, also known as Jo and Georgie, son of Dr. George W. Reis. He pedalled continuously without let, stop, or hindrance from 801 Windsor avenue to his home at 3247 Armitage avenue. He triumphed over many perils of the road, including strange dogs and railroad and street car tracks, and arrived at the end of his marathon as fresh as a daisy.

When his mother and father announced early in the afternoon that they were going over to the residence of George Remus, at 801 Windsor avenue, for a visit in their automobile and that George had better get his face washed if he wanted to go along, the young athlete went out quietly to the back yard and brought his trusty tricycle around and placed it in the car. Then he performed his ablutions with a docility that astonished his mother.

When the Reis party arrived at the Remus domicile Georgie submitted to being chucked under the chin and asked what his name was and what he intended to be when he grew up to a man. He showed not one of his customary signs of discontent. But after all these tedious social formalities were over, Georgie made an announcement.

"I dess I'll do out and take a wide," said he.

And Georgie! Where Was He?

This was at about 4 o'clock. At about 5 it was discovered that Georgie was missing. By 5:30 Mrs. Reis was nearly distracted. At 6 Dr. Reis, who had been downtown on business, arrived at the Remus house in the car. Mrs. Reis promptly fell upon her husband's neck.

Dr. Reis called the police. He notified all the stations of the north and northwest sides and bulletins were sent out to look for a small boy bare headed and wearing a white jumper suit, with shoes and stockings of conventional black.

Meanwhile Georgie was attending strictly to his road work. His objective point was his own home at 3247 Armitage avenue, and he knew the road thoroughly, because he had traveled the route between it and the Remus house in his father's car dozens of times.

When the tricycle champion turned into Armitage avenue it was 8 o'clock and dusk was descending. Mrs. Reis was standing on the porch and straining her eyes into the distance, and her husband was standing beside her feeling just about as bad as it is possible for a father of a young "Tricycle Mike" to feel.

Small Figure in White Looms Up.

Suddenly there came from down at the corner the faint but steady "clank, clank, clank" of weary little legs pushing hard against stubborn pedals, and then a little figure in white loomed up in the twilight.

"O, Georgie!" exclaimed Mrs. Reis, clasping her small Marathoner.

"O, muvver," said Georgie, "div me somfink to eat."

MRS. MORROW FREE; HELD INNOCENT OF HUSBAND'S DEATH

South Side Woman Accused of Murdering Inventor Acquitted of Crime.

JURY OUT THREE HOURS

Church Members and Masonic Supporters Embrace Widow as Verdict Is Given.

DRAMATIC SCENE WHEN TRIAL ENDS

Mrs. Rena Bacon Morrow was acquitted last night of the charge that she murdered her husband, Charles B. Morrow. The verdict releasing the widow was reached by a jury in Judge Kersten's court after three hours of consideration.

The charge against Mrs. Morrow—as a result of which she was the central figure in one of the most sensational of recent Chicago trials—was that she shot her husband. His body was found on the back porch of their flat at 4545 Michigan avenue on the morning of Dec. 27, 1911. He had been shot through the head and heart. The body when found was frozen rigid. At his side was the revolver with which he had been shot. At an inquest held the next day Morrow was held by the coroner's jury to have committed suicide, but later developments resulted in the arrest on Dec. 31 of Mrs. Morrow.

The defense of the widow was based on a double theory of suicide or murder by a third unknown party.

Widow's Friends Surround Her.

When Clerk T. W. Henaghan read the finding of the jury at 9 o'clock last night there was a short, sharp cry of joy from the friends of the accused woman. There followed a wild scene of happiness. Mrs. Morrow grasped one arm of her attorney, Charles Erbstein, and her sister embraced her. In a moment she was surrounded by women who have sat behind her every day of the trial. Among them were members of the Forty-first Street Presbyterian church and of the Order of the Eastern Star, who have known Mrs. Morrow for years.

Among them all Mrs. Morrow seemed the calmest. She slipped away from them long enough to go over to the jury box and shake the hand and thank each of the men who found her innocent. Then she went to Judge Kersten to thank him.

"You have nothing to thank me for," replied the court. "I tried to give you a fair trial just as I do all accused persons who are brought before me."

Her sister, Mrs. Fred Foster of Los Angeles, took her in charge. There was more handshaking and congratulations, the women having recovered part of their composure and their voices.

Will Tell Story Later.

At first Mrs. Morrow could not collect her thoughts sufficiently to say anything to the reporters who besieged her.

"I would like to give my version of this case later," she finally said. "It has been distorted and misconstrued and I would like to have a say. My friends know I have been persecuted.

"The police department became convinced my husband was murdered. They could not find the murderer so they trumped up this case against me.

"Esther Johnson, the maid, telephoned me that she did not want to testify against me. She said that she knew nothing against me, but the police were telling her what to say and were going to make her say it. Mrs. Scanlan, the cook, also was the tool of Inspector Clancy."

The case was given to the jury at 6 o'clock last evening. Three hours later came the verdict. Just how many ballots were taken could not be learned.

"We all have decided not to talk about the case under any circumstances," asserted Albert H. Aylesworth of Wilmette, the foreman.

Widow Sits with Closed Eyes.

During the rebuttal argument of Assistant State's Attorney Northup in the afternoon, Mrs. Morrow gave up her attempt to face the jury during his scathing arraignment. She turned her chair so as to face Judge Kersten and closed her eyes. Only occasionally did she exhibit active interest. She watched the performance of Mr. Northup when, revolver in hand, he demonstrated his theory of how Morrow was shot by his wife.

"I have got it over Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde a thousand times if I am what counsel has said," answered Mr. Northup. "He has eulogized me and then turned and said that if I were successful in this case I would turn to Clancy and say: 'Well, we put her over.' I will not be able to take up all of these various statements. He has referred to me as an 'intellectual ocean.' I have heard him apply that term to every man in the state's attorney's office. If he were pitted against the office boy, I suppose the latter would suddenly attain the dimensions of an ocean.

"It is in the interest of the defense to create some confusion in the minds of the jurors. To no other motive can be traced Mr. Erbstein's enthusiasm. But instead of making his case better, he has made it worse. That is what comes of taking an unfair advantage.

Covers Face with Hands.

As he spoke the prosecutor turned to Mrs. Morrow, but she would not meet his eyes. Instead she put her black gloved hand over them, and appeared disinterested.

"Counsel went over in detail the testimony of the state's witnesses," continued Mr. Northup, "and enumerated the contradictions with the testimony of Mrs. Morrow. She stands contradicted thirty or forty times by several people. There are fourteen or fifteen facts and circumstances to which she swore falsely for no other reason than to exculpate herself.

"He said, 'The guilty flee when no man pursueth.' They also fabricate. Mrs. Morrow has fled in various ways. I want you to consider that when you decide on how much credence you will give it."

After describing the supposed events which led up to the actual shooting of Morrow, the prosecutor, with the weapon in his hand, gave a realistic demonstration of his theory of how Mrs. Morrow murdered her husband. Mrs. Morrow, wide eyed and motionless, watched him. Shuddering as he finished, she dropped her head in her hands and wept.

"It is up to you to fix the penalty," said Mr. Northup in his closing remarks, "so that such offenses will not be repeated."

Couple Married Seven Years.

Mr. Morrow was an inventor. The couple had been married seven years. It was the second matrimonial venture for both. The evidence produced at the trial was purely circumstantial. There was plenty of testimony to indicate the Morrows were not enjoying their married life as well as they might. Mrs. Morrow admitted they had a quarrel on the night of Dec. 27, when her husband was shot. He had been away for two weeks. On the evening he met his death he went to the dining room on the third floor, where he got into an argument with his wife.

She testified he went back to the second floor, where he slept in a bedroom off the kitchen. Mrs. Morrow insisted she then locked herself in her bedroom, on the third floor, and prepared to bathe. A roomer in the house swore she heard two shots and went to the rear of the flat on the third floor and called for Mrs. Morrow. There was no response. A light was burning in the kitchen.

About fifteen minutes later she again called Mrs. Morrow, who answered. The light in the kitchen was out. Mrs. Woods said she told her landlady about hearing the shots. The latter said she did not notice them.

W. H. Palmer, who occupied a room on the second floor, swore that about two minutes before he heard the shots he overheard a quarrel between Morrow and a woman in the room next to his.

ADMITS HE'S WORTH $20,000; WAS SCHEDULED FOR $500.

C. F. Nettleton of Cafe Lakota Nettles T. J. Webb of Board of Review by Defense of Restaurant Assessments.

After about twenty minutes of biting inquisition by Thomas J. Webb, member of the board of review, yesterday, C. F. Nettleton, president of the Café Lakota, 32 North La Salle street, admitted he should pay a tax on $20,000 worth of personalty.

Nettleton's restaurant was scheduled for $500 by the assessors. When the cafe's president was summoned before the reviewers he insisted $500 was a fair valuation, even though he admitted the business amounted to more than 1,000 people a day.

"Your assessment is a disgrace," said Mr. Webb, who "went for" Mr. Nettleton. The reviewer also learned that the tax complainant owns another restaurant on Jackson boulevard that he did not mention, "because no assessment schedule had been left there."

Mr. Webb noted a valuation of $5,000 on both places.

Other cases heard by the board in the morning consisted mostly of realty. There was no afternoon session.

CROWN PRINCESS CECILIE NEAR SHIPWRECK IN BALTIC.

German High Seas Fleet Sends Cruiser to Escort Kaiser's Yacht Comet Safely to Warnemunde.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, July 19.—The Crown Princess Cecilie, while on a holiday at Heilegendamm, a watering place on the Baltic coast, narrowly escaped shipwreck.

Accompanied by her brother, the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, she went out sailing in the old yacht Comet, owned by the kaiser. A heavy gale sprang up and the vessel was rocking badly, when the German high seas fleet hove in sight and, in response to signals, detailed a cruiser to escort the Comet to port.

As it was impossible for the Comet to make Heilegendamm, the vessel ran for Warnemunde, which it reached in safety.

As Charlotte Silsbee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Silsbee, 1044 Hollywood avenue, Mrs. Smith before her marriage in 1900 was prominent in Chicago and Philadelphia society. Her divorce was granted on the ground of cruelty and mental incompatibility. The suit was not contested and Mrs. Smith was the only witness.

SUFFRAGETS NEAR DUCKING IN RIVER

Attempt to Douse Dublin Manifestants Prevented by an Irish Official.

HAIL ASQUITH AS HERO.

Thousands Cheer British Premier, Who Promises Home Rule for Erin.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

DUBLIN, July 19.—Further activity by the militant suffragets formed the only adverse feature of a magnificent reception given to Premer Asquith tonight.

The police took great precautions to prevent outbreaks by the women. The Royal theater, where the prime minister spoke to 4,000 persons, was surrounded by policemen and neighboring streets were lined with the guardians of the peace.

Thousands of persons were unable to gain admission to the theater and through this throng a large number of suffragets attempted to parade while the meeting was in progress.

The crowd attacked the militant women and forced them to take refuge in the tram cars and the postoffice. Attempts were made to throw some of them into the River Liffey, but an inspector of police saved them by appealing to the crowd to "be Irishmen."

Despite the care exercised by the police a number of suffragets succeeded in getting into the hall. They, in company with men sympathizers, several times interrupted Mr. Asquith. Whenever they could be spotted they were violently ejected.

Asquith Promises Home Rule.

Enthusiasm marked the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Asquith, the crowd standing and cheering, and singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The prime minister said the democracies of Ireland and Great Britain had long been artificially separated.

"What has been, has been," he continued. "Though we cannot unwrite or rewrite we can open. We intend this year to open a new volume, upon the title page of which will be written, 'Those whom nature joined together man shall no longer put asunder'."

The opposition to the home rule bill, said the premier, was unique, but it would not wreck the measure which would go to the house of lords before Christmas. Whatever its immediate fortunes there might be, he said, the parliament act provided that the lords could not override the decision of the people.

Four Committed for Trial.

As a sequel to yesterday's suffraget assaults, four women in police court today were committed for trial.

Mary Leigh, Gladys Evans, Lizzie Baker and Mary Coffer were charged with throwing a hatchet at Prime Minister Asquith, with attempting to set fire to a theater, and with having in their possession inflammables for illegal purposes.

The police testified that a canister, which apparently contained gunpowder, had been exploded in the theater. Their testimony brought out the fact that many lives had been endangered by the fire.

Mary Leigh admitted hurling the hatchet at Mr. Asquith's carriage. She has long been a leader in the violent tactics adopted by the militant suffragets. She has been convicted eight times in connection with violences and has spent several months in jail.

Leader Scores Violence.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 19.—The violence used recently by the suffragets may lead to a serious division in the "votes for women" cause in Great Britain.

Following the attacks on the Asquith party yesterday in Dublin and on the Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna in England, Mrs. Henry Fawcett, on behalf of the executive committee of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies, today issued a protest against the militant tactics of the Women's Social and Political union, of which Mrs. Emmaline Pankhurst is the founder.

The union Mrs. Fawcett represents consists of over 200 societies, which have for their aim the procuring of the parliamentary franchise for women.

Mrs. Fawcett appeals to the members of the militant body to stop their violence, which she says is bound to be disastrous to the cause.

Mrs. Fawcett points out that when violence is resorted to it leads to crimes undreamed of at the beginning.

TOKIO, July 20.—Emperor Mutsuhito is critically ill.

His majesty is suffering from affections of the stomach and brain. He was unconscious on Friday.

He ascended the throne in 1867 on the death of his father, Emperor Komei. At the time of accession his majesty was 16 years old. The dynasty of which Mutsuhito is the descendant has been in control of Japan 2,568 years.

The restoration was effected in the same year by the resignation of his office by the shogun.

On April 6, 1868, he took an oath which promised that a deliberative assembly should be formed and all measures be decided by public opinion.

During his reign Japan has become the leading nation of the orient, developing a constitutional government and becoming tolerant of Christian missionaries.

ALLEGED CONFIDENCE MAN TAKEN AT CONGRESS HOTEL.

Clyde E. Cohn of Davenport, Ia., Charged with Obtaining Money Fraudulently from Joliet Contractor.

Clyde E. Cohn, who is a railroad promoter from Davenport, Ia., was arrested in the Congress hotel last night on a charge of obtaining money by means of a confidence game. John Romano, a wealthy contractor of Joliet, is the complainant.

According to Romano, he met Cohn at the hotel last month, where the latter interested him with a story of a railroad he was promoting near Davenport. The Joliet man was given the contract for part of the building of the road.

The contractor was to make a deposit of $5,000 as security that he would carry out his agreement and $1,000 was paid at the time.

Cohn returned yesterday to collect the remaining $4,000 and instead was taken into custody.

Romano told the police he became suspicious after Cohn left him a month ago and engaged an attorney to make an investigation. The latter reported Cohn was not promoting a railroad.

ROSENTHAL CLEWS RUN TRUE

Prosecutor Practically Solves Murder of Gambler.

CRIME COMMITTED BY GANG.

Instigated by Jack Rose Under Pressure of Police Lieutenant.

New York, July 19.—[Special.]—When District Attorney Whitman pieced together new and important evidence he gathered today in the Rosenthal murder he found he had in hand a complete outline of the case, and it is to be given to the grand jury on these charges:

That Herman Rosenthal, on the night before he was to have substantiated charges of grafting against Police Lieut. Becker, was murdered by a gang of east side thugs procured for that purpose by Jack Rose, the gambler, who had been put under pressure by Becker to see that Rosenthal's mouth was stopped.

That the gain from Rosenthal's death was greatest to one man, and to that man Rose owed a great obligation.

That Rose was a leading spirit in "getting" Rosenthal, but that he had arranged his plans so he would not be present at the actual crime.

That members of the Jack Seelig gang of gun men and black jackers were selected for the job at the usual market rates for such work.

Facts for Grand Jury.

This epitomizes the attitude of the district attorney and of the police and it is the ground on which the investigation is proceeding and upon which the prosecution is to rest.

Today's developments changed the situation from theories and beliefs to actual proof and legal evidence which, with the addition of certain details now being obtained, brings the case well on the road to indictments and trials for murder, even though the actual murderers have yet to be arrested.

A remarkable coincidence was discovered as to Lieut. Becker's and Jack Rose's proximity to each other as well as to the murder scene shortly before the killing.

Three Cars Near Murder Scene.

Becker says he dropped Jack Sullivan from his automobile in Forty-second street between Sixth avenue and Broadway at 1:30 o'clock. Rose says he left his automobile at Sixth avenue and Forty-second street to go to Bridgie Webber's gambling rooms at 1:30 o'clock. The gray murder car halted in Forty-third street across from the Metropole at 1:40 o'clock.

Rose surrendered at police headquarters after Lieut. Becker and a detective with a warrant for his arrest had gone to Far Rockaway after him on Wednesday night.

Rose objected to being arrested or to going to headquarters with Becker and the detective, so it was arranged that he should show up there alone the next morning.

WOULD RATHER WORK ON FARM THAN RUN ENGINE ON ALTON

Warren S. Stone Turns Down Offer of Job Made by B. A. Worthington at Wage Hearing.

New York, July 19.—The arbitration commission hearing the claims of the engineers of fifty-two railroads for increased pay, got around to the pension question today. Warren S. Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said:

"I have tried to keep away from the pension question. That is a live wire. I am 52 years old, and I could not get a job on any railroad, and yet there are mighty few railroads that have an age pension."

B. A. Worthington, president of the Chicago and Alton, promptly said:

"I think you are a good engineer, Mr. Stone, and any time you want a job come to me."

"I would go to work on a farm before I would run an engine on the Alton," replied Stone.

STEFFENS GIVES VIEWS ON CRIME

with both Darrow and the other side, and held back from both certain things until it was proper to let them go."

"On this same night did you say to Mr. Chandler: 'Now, let us get Fredericks to agree to drop any prosecution of Darrow and Franklin?'"

Fate of Individuals Unimportant.

"Yes, but I was acting for myself—Steffens—against the wish of Darrow. You see, the arrest of Franklin came like a thunderclap, so Darrow came to me and said: 'Now, I am still in favor of settling the McNamara cases. Don't let any fear of my connection with Franklin stand in the way of the settlement. Don't bother with me. Don't consider me in the negotiations at all.'"

"And though Franklin and Darrow might have been guilty you wanted them to go free?"

"I thought the fate of individuals unimportant aside of the big issue—labor. I wanted all the cases accruing from the Times dynamiting to be settled."

"Did you regard Franklin's crime as a social one?"

"No; but it was a part of the McNamara case, and I wanted the whole thing cleared up."

Thinks Darrow Innocent.

Steffens was asked by Juror Golding as to the manner in which Darrow had comported himself when the witness first saw him after the arrest of Franklin. He replied that Darrow was much depressed and was pacing the floor of his office.

They discussed the possible effect of the settlement, and the witness said he advised that it would be well to include the Franklin prosecution in the settlement if it were not for the fact that the public might construe it as an admission of Darrow's guilt.

"At that," continued the witness, "Darrow turned and said: 'O, if they think that, tell them to leave this case out of the settlement.'

"I could not but interpret that as the act of an innocent man," concluded the witness.

Talked to Judge in Club.

The witness surprised the prosecution when he said it was understood by him that Judge Bordwell would not hang James B. McNamara.

"The judge was very particular to have it appear that he knew nothing of an agreement," he said.

"How did you know that?" demanded Fredericks.

"Well, I saw the judge——"

"And he would not talk to you," interrupted the prosecutor.

"Yes, he did," declared Steffens; "he talked with me for a long time in his room at his own club, and I explained fully to him all the negotiations."

He said he knew the judge would not hang James B. McNamara because he knew the magistrate's frame of mind.

In a controversy which followed the publication of the newspaper article by Steffens soon after the pleadings of the McNamaras the writer was denounced in published interviews by Judge Bordwell and Fredericks, both of whom asserted that the bribery exposé was the sole cause of the dénouement.

The judge at the time denounced Steffens as an avowed anarchist and declared the latter had nothing to do with the culmination of the dynamiting cases.

Steffens testified further that he had sought to prevent any prosecution of Anton Johannsen and O. A. Tveitmoe.

New York, July 19.—[Special.]—C. K. G. Billings, who has been abroad for a couple of months, returned today. He says what struck him most forcibly while abroad was the unrest everywhere prevalent in Europe, which in some countries is explained by strikes and in others by a spread of socialism.

AUTO PHONE TITLE CLEARED

Council Committee Votes to File All Records of Inquiry.

FOLLOWS SEXTON OPINION.

Corporation Counsel Held City Could Not Declare Property Forfeited.

The city of Chicago will not declare forfeited the telephone property of the Illinois Tunnel company. This was finally decided yesterday before the council gas, oil, and electric light committee when all the material relative to the recent investigation of the company's books and plant was ordered filed.

Members of the committee declared themselves convinced the Illinois Tunnel company has fulfilled the provisions of its franchise. All the records of the investigation, including the opinion of the corporation counsel holding that the city had not a standing such as would warrant a court decree of forfeiture, will be published in the council proceedings, so that a complete record of the entire case will be on file.

Twigg Offers Filing Motion.

The material was filed on the motion of Ald. Twigg, who was chairman of the council committee on gas, oil, and electric light when former City Electrician William Carroll reported that the Illinois Tunnel company had fulfilled the provisions of the franchise.

Later the investigation was followed up and the property at one time declared forfeited, though the action was speedily reconsidered and the present investigation declaring the company to have filled the provision of the franchise contract resulted.

Harrison for Dual System.

Mayor Harrison just before the opinion of the corporation counsel was given to the committee expressed himself as believing that better service could be obtained from a dual telephone service than from a single one.

"In every instance that I have been personally informed of," he said, "the two systems have been about as cheap to the consumer as one. Competition seems to produce better service.

SET TRAP FOR "BLACK HAND" BUSY ON NORTHWEST SIDE.

Police Lay in Wait for Writers of Letters Which Demand Money from 3252 West North Avenue.

The police lay in wait last night for a supposed Black Hand aggregation, which has been attempting extortion on the northwest side.

Louis Marks, who lives at 3252 West North avenue, received a letter yesterday asking him to leave an envelope containing $100 at a point near the corner of Kedzie and North avenues. The letter was signed "Black Hand."

Lieut. Custy and Detectives Sheehan and Scully made an attempt to catch the blackmailers. The letter seemed to have been written in the same handwriting as others sent to John Engebreston, 3300 Beach avenue. Engebreston is a grocer, and is said to be well to do. He got a letter a week ago, demanding that he leave money. It read:

"Dear sir: Place $250 alongside the telephone pole back of the ice cream parlor at Spaulding and North avenues, between 9 and 10 o'clock tonight. Do not notify the police, because if any of us are caught we will blow up the place."

BOY HUNTER SHOOTS HIMSELF.

While hunting in the woods near his home yesterday, Joseph Grace of Palos Park, Ill., was shot in the chest when his shotgun accidentally exploded. He died at 11 o'clock at night in St. Barnard's hospital. It is thought that the trigger of the gun caught in a branch of a tree.

COUNCILMEN O. K. NEW STORAGE LAW

Contains Reform Provisions Proposed in Four Years of Food Protection Debate.

MOST STRINGENT IN U. S.

Few Articles Exempted; Ordinance Against Traction Kidnapers Approved.

A drastic ordinance governing cold storage warehouses and products taken from them was approved yesterday by the city council committee on judiciary.

Its unanimous indorsement by the committee marked the end of four years of debate on the subject, and the end came quickly. Without argument the committee recommended for passage a measure containing practically all the "reform" provisions urged during this period.

Here Are Provisions.

In brief they are that:

All articles entering cold storage must be marked plainly with date of entrance.

No articles can remain in storage longer than ten months, except butter products, which may remain twelve months.

Health department will inspect all warehouses at least every three months.

Reports showing quantities of foodstuffs in storage on Jan. 1, May 1 and Sept. 1 must be made by each warehouse.

No transfer of articles from one warehouse to another to evade ordinance will be permitted.

No articles may be returned to storage after they have been taken out for purpose of sale.

All cold storage products offered for sale must be marked to show they have been in cold storage and date of entrance and release must be plainly indicated.

The only "articles of food for man or animal" exempt from these restrictions are nuts, fruits, cheese and vegetables. The law is regarded as one of the most stringent on this subject drafted by any city council in the country.

Investigations have been made and members of the Association of Commerce have appeared before the committee from time to time and made recommendations.

O. K. Law Against Kidnaping.

The same committee recommended for passage the ordinance aimed against the kidnaping of victims of street car accidents. Its main provision is to require that the police be notified within half an hour of the accident by the street car company involved, the report to contain the place of the accident, the name of the victim, and the institution to which he is taken.

It was amended to provide that the injured person must be taken to the nearest licensed hospital that will accept the case, unless the victim is fully conscious and names a place to which he would prefer to be taken. It also was changed to bring public as well as private ambulances within its regulations.

Objects to Police Provision.

Ald. Mayer told the committee a sentence providing a person should be taken to the nearest hospital unless otherwise directed by a police officer should be stricken out. He said he knew of cases where such a provision might not be the best one to have.

"I used to be connected wtih the police department," he said, "and I know of one hospital that received 1,700 cases in six months. We knew how they got there, but could do nothing about it."

The corporation counsel will redraft and correct the ordinance before it is presented to the council on Monday.

GOVERNOR DENEEN REFUSES TO "FIRE" FRED W. POTTER.

Holds State Insurance Superintendent Was Not Hostile in Recent Modern Woodmen Rate Fight.

Springfield, Ill., July 19.—[Special.]—Gov. Deneen has given his answer to members of the Modern Woodmen of America, who have demanded the removal of Insurance Superintendent Potter because of the latter's attitude in the war among members of that fraternity. The governor refuses to dismiss the superintendent and intimates that the agitation is for political effect.

Potter was called into the Woodmen controversy while insurgent members were endeavoring to secure legislation designed to prevent the head officers from increasing insurance rates. He took the position that the pending bill was impracticable and largely through his efforts a new measure was finally agreed upon.

Some of the more radical insurgents became incensed at Potter during negotiations and continued to criticise him even after the compromise was agreed upon. Taking advantage of this feeling, politicians opposed to the state administration are believed to have inspired the demand for his removal.

Truth Wins Lighter Sentence.

"You are the first man who ever told the truth before me in a case of this kind and I'm going to let you off easy," said Municipal Judge Beitler yesterday to George Mass, a teamster, charged with cruelty to animals. Mass admitted his guilt and was fined $3 and costs. He was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Fred W. Packard.

HILD SWATTERS KILL 27,000 FLIES

in Park Ridge Crusade on Offer of Theater Ticket for 200 "Dead Ones."

rls and Boys Rush to Mrs. Martha Kimmit to Give Her "Batting Records."

eavy, heavy hangs over the heads of flies ark Ridge. In less than a week, 27,000 ve succumbed under children's swats, be se the village's only moving picture theater offered a bounty of one admission ticket very 200 dead flies.

is expected that in the approaching week death toll will reach 100,000—if there are many left in Park Ridge. Housewives merchants report there are only a few flies to be found.

What is broadening the work of fly extermination is a prize swatting contest started Mrs. Martha Clevenger Kimmit, manager the theater, after her ticket bounty proved a success. With Sept. 15 as the limit, has posted a prize list of $5, $3, and $2.

Fly "Batting Average."

Whether the children of the village are in competition can be learned by glancing Mrs. Kimmit's fly batting average. and items are as follows:

land Danforth, 16 years old..	3,800
bert Becken, 10 years old....	2,700
lla Weyrauch, 12 years old..	2,600
is Platt, 5 years old......	2,500
l Susen, 14 years old.......	1,600
arjorie Carroll, 13 years old..	900
ilfred Holbrook, 12 years old	700
en McEnery, 12 years old..	700
hard Ryerson, 12 years old..	700

Over fifty more have their names entered 100 to 500 flies. In bottles and boxes—ttles, mostly—they bring the trophies of swatters to Mrs. Kimmit's office in the ter in the mornings, because of a sign the window reading:

> BRING YOUR FLIES.
> Only
> From 9 a. m. until 12 m.
> No Fly Paper Flies
> Accepted.

Use Measure for Flies.

When the flies are surrendered to Mrs. Kimmit, she doesn't count them one by one. uses a measure. After the flies are measured and an entry is made in the book, Mrs. Kimmit ends the obsequies with a simple mation ceremony.

It was explained by Mrs. Kimmit yesterday that she had to confine the fly business mornings because she is director of the Park Ridge School of Music and Mr. Kimmit city clerk, and they have to have some time to attend to their business affairs.

"Otherwise we'd be busy every minute with these kids," she laughed. "When I first started the idea they chased us from morning night with their old flies.

"I thought the idea would be a good one get the families of the village interested my theater. We have had crowds all through the week since I started the fly contest. Every one has praised the idea."

Boy Tells of "Traps."

Louis Platt, 5 years old, was not at all hesitant about explaining the best ways of trapping the flies.

"I get most of mine around the store window," he said. "We haven't any more in house. And in the stores they're not slick, but just buzz around slow. Then I use a newspaper to swat 'em with, instead a regular swatter, cause it doesn't mash em so. I think THE TRIBUNE is a great swatter."

Girl Captures 600 Flies.

Stella Weyrauch ran four blocks at top speed yesterday afternoon to tell Mrs. Kimmit that her mother had released her from the day's dishwashing and sweeping and that during this recess she had captured 600 flies.

"That makes me 2,600 now," she exulted. "I'll soon catch up with Leland Danforth. I heard that some of the boys are saving up till they get 5,000 before they turn 'em in. Is that so, Mrs. Kimmit?"

This is not the first unusual competition in Park Ridge that has attracted attention. In the same village has been held the child calling contest, the men's weighing contest, girls walking contest and other prize games where the whole village participates.

DEATH NOTE' DISAPPEARANCE BRINGS DUAL LIFE TO LIGHT.

Second Woman with Marriage License Clears Mystery in the Flitting of A. R. Thollander, a Chauffeur.

The real reason why A. R. Thollander, a chauffeur, disappeared from his home at 428 West Fifty-eighth street, last Tuesday, leaving notes threatening suicide, became known yesterday, when a woman appeared at police headquarters with a marriage license, showing that Thollander had married her in Chicago on June 29 of last year. He had deserted his first wife and four children.

The first Mrs. Thollander said yesterday she had no idea that her husband had another wife until she read the letter he left on Tuesday, in which he said she should look the other woman up. She had kept that feature a secret from the police.

"That's why he left," she said. "I do not think he intended drowning himself, but just to go away, as he grew afraid that the truth would become known."

The other Mrs. Thollander, living with her mother at 4918 Potomac avenue, says she did not know of the dual life until told by the other woman yesterday.

Mrs. Thollander No. 1 said at night that No. 2 had admitted to her that she knew Thollander had a wife w[illegible]e was married to him, and that he said he was getting a divorce.

Mrs. Thollander No. 2 said she was married by the Rev. Eric P. Swan of 350 West Oak street. She had about $300 save up and Thollander gradually got the whole amount away from her. He told her he was working one night a week in a garage. He told wife No. 1 that he had to work six nights.

JUDGE FINDS GOOD CITIZEN.

Issues Papers to Man Who Thinks T. R. Would Be President Should Taft Die.

John Roach took the stand in Judge Brentano's court yesterday to be examined as to his qualifications to become a citizen.

"In the event of the death of the president of the United States who would take his place?" Morris Marks, the naturalization clerk, asked Roach.

"Roosevelt," came the answer.

"A good citizen," remarked an onlooker as the judge signed the court order making Roach a voter.

WAYMAN BARS WOMAN'S TALE

Suspicion Aroused by Masseuse's Volunteered Testimony.

FEARS PLOT TO DISCREDIT.

Prosecutor Investigates "Witness" in Funk Conspiracy.

After a two hours' examination of a volunteer witness in the Funk conspiracy case yesterday, State's Attorney Wayman frustrated what he believes to be a plot to discredit the state's case.

The witness is Eulalia M. Kearney, a masseuse. She had gone to the offices of Mr. Funk's attorneys with an elaborate story of how she had heard Mrs. Henning say:

"If I go to the penitentiary, a prominent politician and a big business man will go along with me. I am playing a game to blacken Mr. Funk's reputation for big money."

For a time the woman's testimony was believed to be valuable. Then detectives were put upon the trail of her antecedents. When they had concluded their investigation the prosecutors decided that the Kearney woman would not do.

Wayman's Office Suspicious.

The state has had more than one case shattered by putting witnesses on the stand in a prosecution, only to have the defense riddle the credibility of the whole case by "showing up the witness."

And the suspicion prevails in the state's attorney's office that perhaps Miss Kearney would have been used to break down the proof of the conspiracy against Mr. Funk. They feared that, had the masseuse been permitted to take the stand her past would be flaunted on cross examination.

This, they consider, a method of discrediting not only the Kearney testimony, but that of other state's witnesses, many of whom already have confessed they were bribed to perjure themselves that C. S. Funk's reputation might be ruined in John Henning's alienation suit.

Admissions Made by Woman.

Investigation by Mr. Wayman convinced him that Mrs. Kearney's credibility could be attacked. Mrs. Kearney is said to have admitted to the state's attorney that she practiced the "occult" and further:

That she harassed Mrs. Harriet A. Morton, a wealthy widow residing at 4934 Michigan avenue, and told this woman "what a lot of lovely diamonds she had."

That she "told Mrs. Morton's fortune" and practiced her alleged occult powers on the wealthy widow.

That when she roomed at the home of Mrs. Henry W. Hacke in Elm street two years ago she was requested to move.

Other details of her career discovered by Nicholas Hunt, former police inspector, convinced the state's attorney her evidence would not aid in bringing the truth to the light.

CUT FINES OF SPEEDERS WHILE AUTO JUDGE IS AWAY.

Penalties Decreased by Vacation Successor to Stewart and Another Jurist Goes Still Lower.

Fines in the speeders' court are decreasing. The average fine imposed yesterday was $8, as compared to an average of $60 when the court was opened on June 3.

The reduction has been made since Judge Stewart went on his vacation on July 14. His standard fine was $50. Often he made it $75 or $100.

Judge Robinson took charge of the court. His record shows as follows: July 15, $40; July 16, $32; July 17, $18; July 18, $17.

The amount of fines reached its lowest level yesterday when Judge Turnbaugh presided.

"It simply means sending some of these speeders to the bridewell to fine them $50," said Judge Turnbaugh, "and I haven't the heart to do it."

GEM THIEVES SHADOW PORTER

Suspect in $57,600 Robberies Says Pair Followed Him.

TALKS WHILE INTOXICATED?

Asserts He May Have Told Some One of Job Carrying Jewels.

Patrick McDermott, held by the police because suspected of being implicated in two recent loop district jewelry thefts, in which gems valued at $57,600 were stolen, said yesterday he has been followed night and day by two well dressed men whom he accuses of the most recent robbery—the one in front of the Silversmith building on Thursday.

The prisoner said he was intoxicated Wednesday night and may have told some one he had secured a job to carry some sample cases containing precious gems on the following day. He said when he left the Palmer house with the satchel of jewelry he noticed he was followed by the same men who had been watching him on previous occasions.

Porter for Twenty Years.

McDermott has done odd jobs around the Palmer house for twenty years. He has carried sample cases for all classes of traveling salesmen and is known as the "pioneer sample carrier."

He had been hired to carry two suitcases of jewelry to the Silversmith building on Thursday morning. While waiting for his employer, Jacob Levin of a Providence R. I., jewelry firm, one satchel, containing $20,000 worth of unset stones, was stolen.

The old "errand boy"—he is nearly 60 years old—was arrested after the robbery, but said he did not know who had stolen the gems. It was then discovered by the police he was the same man carrying samples for a salesman who had a satchel with $37,600 worth of jewelry stolen in the Spaulding & Co. store.

Resides in Dilapidated House.

The police do not believe McDermott shared in the plunder of the Spaulding robbery, as he resides in a dilapidated house on West Ontario street and has no money.

"There is nothing I can say," said McDermott. "I have done nothing to be pinched for. If I knew who took the jewels I would tell the police. I want to get out in the open again. A week in a cell would kill me. I don't know the names of the two men who have been watching me for the last couple of weeks."

SEE HEAT'S EFFECT ON BABIES

Infant Welfare Investigators Experiment in City.

SCIENCE RECORDS RESULT.

Many Residences Equipped with Devices to Watch Conditions.

Just what bearing has excessive heat on the death of so many babies in the midsummer months?

This question, long a mooted one with physicians and scientists, is the subject of interesting experiments now being carried on by the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago. The research department of the Sprague Memorial fund is providing the money for these experiments and has chosen the Infant Welfare society as the agency to carry them out. The experiments are to be carried on with utmost accuracy.

Thirty residences in the Seward Park district and five each in Davis square, Chicago commons, West Park No. 3, and Helen Day nursery districts have been equipped with minimum and maximum thermometers to measure the heat and with psychrometers to test the humidity. A nurse specially employed for the purpose will visit daily these fifty homes and for a period of weeks keep an exact record of the results.

In each home the temperature of the infant will be at the same time taken and recorded.

LAST MEETING OF UNION CLUB; MEMBERS CAN'T SUPPORT IT.

Property Reverts to Porter Estate, Which Holds $120,000 Bonds. Interest on Which Fees Will Not Pay.

What was probably the last meeting that ever will be held of the members of the Union club was held yesterday afternoon at the clubhouse at Dearborn avenue and Washington place.

At this meeting a resolution was adopted which in effect suspends the operations of the organization after Oct. 1. The real estate, building, furniture, fixtures, and bar license were transferred to the Porter estate. The estate owns the bonds of the club, which aggregate $120,000. The value of the club's property is estimated at about $60,000. The membership of the club has dwindled to such a point that the revenues are not sufficient to meet the interest on the bonds.

George Porter is vice president of the club. He agreed to take over the club's property and consider the transaction ended. Other officers are Edward F. Russell, president; Morris Metcalfe, treasurer; O. J. Willis, secretary. Directors are John M. Witherspoon, John Barton Payne, Fletcher Dobyns, Charles B. Deane, Frank Hamlin, George B. McCutcheon, G. F. Porter, Colin C. H. Fyffe, George M. Sheahan, and W. F. Martin.

WIDOW SUES TITANIC OWNERS

Mrs. A. Willer of Chicago Asks $10,000 for Husband's Death.

Red Cross Saves Them from Eviction; Company Refuses Settlement.

Suit to recover for a death as a result of the Titanic disaster was filed yesterday in the Superior court in behalf of the estate of Abe Willer, a tailor, against the Oceanic Steamship company, limited, the London branch of the White Star Line company, owners of the ill-fated steamer.

The sum of $10,000 is asked in the petition. Willer had made a trip to Europe to earn money by working as a tailor in Paris. A few days previous to the wreck of the Titanic Mrs. Willer, who lives at 1332 North Leavitt street with her three children, received a letter from her husband stating that he was coming home with the money. Willer's death left them penniless.

The family was on the point of being turned out of the house when the Red Cross society of New York came to their aid with $150, contributed by charitable persons in New York City. Attorney Albert Sabath said last night he had written the London branch of the White Star line asking for a settlement. In reply he received a letter inviting a suit and refusing to pay any death indemnity.

THOUSANDS KISS SAINT RELIC

Throng Aisles on Second Day of Annual Novena to Seek Cures.

SOME MIRACLES RELATED.

Poor Persons of Foreign Birth Travel Far on Years' Savings.

The second day of the annual novena of the Roman Catholic church in honor of St. Anne was opened yesterday by a 4 o'clock mass at the cathedral of St. Anne de Brighton Park, Thirty-ninth place and California avenue.

The services of the day, continuing until 9:30 at night, were in charge of Father J. V. La Marre. The sermons were preached by the Rev. Father John F. Daly of Milwaukee.

Approximately 10,000 persons have availed themselves of the chance of venerating the relic of St. Anne, a part of the wrist bone of the saint brought from Rome. All day the lame, the halt, the blind, and diseased thronged the aisles to kiss the relic and by their expression of faith to seek cure of their ills.

Unable to Estimate Cured.

Father La Marre said he was unable to estimate the number who have said they were cured since the opening of the present novena. The diseases cured, it is said, range from slight ailments of the throat to paralysis and blindness. Little Maria Campagna an Italian girl, was cured of blindness three days before the opening of the novena, he said, through reverence for the relic and the aid of prayer. A Polish girl announced during the day her faith had cured a large goiter.

Father Daly explained the Catholic practice of honoring the relics of the saints. He said there was no inherent merit in the hem of a garment or of a bone from the wrist of St. Anne, and that they were only to be used as instruments of the will of God. He recounted the deeds of St. Anne and told of the loving sacrifices she and other saints had made.

Says Saints Were Human.

"The saints were human. They lived through the same trials we live through; they suffered the same ingratitudes; they, too, had false friends; they were compelled to resist temptations."

At the conclusion of the sermon the litany was observed and the great throng echoed the union of prayer. Then the crowds in the aisles moved toward the place where the relic is kept. On the wall near the image of St. Anne were some score of crutches, left there, it was said, as mementoes of the cures wrought by the expression of faith. A man paralyzed since early childhood was carried down to venerate the relic and offer his prayer. Men and women of high and low stations in life mingled in the service. Poor people, some of foreign birth and unable to speak English, have made the pilgrimage from long distances on the savings of years.

WIFE AND SPOUSE IN DUEL LAY ASIDE "ARMS" FOR ARMS.

Husband Waits for Woman with Revolver and She Waits for Him—Peace at Station.

Thomas W. Fish, 2116 West Ohio street, and his wife, are the principals in this story. Mrs. Fish went to the house of a friend in 2712 Wilcox avenue, leaving her two small children, aged 6 and 4, behind, for the reason, she said, that Mr. Fish had told her he would "knock her teeth down her throat," if she attempted to take them. The husband followed and caused a disturbance, it is said.

Yesterday Mrs. Fish went to a second friend's house—this time at 1774 Ogden avenue. Her trunk and suit case had barely preceded her when her friend's voice was heard over the telephone saying Mr. Fish was parading before the house with a gun.

Mrs. Fish then placed a pistol in her hand bag and sallied forth. She took the precaution, however, to notify the Legal Aid society. The superintendent telephoned Chief McWeeny for special protection to accompany Mrs. Fish to her destination. The officer detained Mrs. Fish in the station while a policeman went for Mr. Fish. When the two irate ones who had been looking for each other with deadly weapons met in the station they fell into each other's arms. Then they stacked their firearms and went home happy.

CRASH KILLS MAN IN WHEEL CHAIR

Street Car Strikes Auto, Which Overturns on Invalid 87 Years Old.

GIVES UP LIFE FOR HIS SON

Motorman, Arrested, Denies He Tried to Beat Chauffeur to Crossing.

Fred Camentz Jr., who is 59 years old, left his home at 2111 North Halsted street last evening to take his father, who is 87 years old and an invalid, out for an airing. The old man was in a wheel chair pushed by the son.

At Webster avenue they saw a Larrabee street car approaching rapidly. An auto truck bearing the name of H. Skerman, cleaners, of 3233 Armitage avenue, was on the tracks. Before the truck could be driven off the rails the car hit it. It was flung backward and toward the invalid chair.

Old Mr. Camentz stood up in the chair and tried to push his son out of danger. He succeeded partly before the truck toppled over and crushed the invalid.

Dies on Way to Hospital.

When the bystanders lifted the old man from the wreckage he was dying. The end came while he was being taken to Alexian Brothers' hospital. The younger Camentz was flung against a stone wall and incurred severe bruises and internal injuries.

C. M. Tinker, the driver of the autotruck, was flung from his seat and cut and bruised. H. Lawless, the motorman of the street car, was cut by falling glass. He was arrested by the police, who blame him for the accident.

Tinker told the police he had the right of way and the motorman tried to "beat him to" the crossing. Lawless denied this. He said his car brakes would not work.

Woman's Auto Injures Man.

George Wild, who is 60 years old and lives at 546 Wells street, was run down and seriously injured by an automobile while crossing Jackson boulevard at South State street in the afternoon. He incurred a fracture of the right leg and internal injuries.

The automobile was driven by Mrs. George Hartford, 838 Clifton avenue, Oak Park. She was not arrested, as the accident was said to have been unavoidable.

Wild was declared to have stepped from the curbing and walked directly in the path of the machine which knocked him down. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

Chicagoan Killed in Auto Crash.

R. W. Baradach, who lived at 1115 East Fifty-second street, was instantly killed early in the morning when his touring car turned turtle near Rensselaer, Ind., pinning his body to the ground. Dr. W. M. Barricklow, a dentist at 3901 Cottage Grove avenue, was with him at the time and incurred a broken leg, besides other minor injuries. Baradach was a special representative for the Federal Life Insurance company.

The two men were traveling from Chicago to Indianapolis when the accident happened. Baradach's body was brought to his home last night. He is survived by a widow and a boy six months old.

According to Isaac M. Hamilton, president of the Federal Life, Baradach had a speed mania.

"Several times he has driven me out to my home in his car," he said. "I was constantly in fear of some accident happening and repeatedly told him if he did not resist his desire to speed he would lose his life some day in a wreck. It proved to be true."

Woman Injured by Motorcycle.

Miss Emma Lasther, who lives at 5757 South Laflin street, was bruised about the body at night when she was knocked down by a motorcycle owned and ridden by Joseph Jordan of 948 West Fifty-fourth street.

Miss Lasther had stepped from a street car at Fifty-fifth street and South Ashland avenue when she was knocked down.

Another automobile accident in the evening had as its victim Mrs. R. Speckien of 6300 South Halsted street. She was bruised about the body when she was knocked down by an auto as she was crossing the street in front of her home. The machine was driven by Robert Stageman of 2025 South Laflin street.

BOY FALLS UNDER WAGON; DIES.

Lad Drops While Clinging to Side of Vehicle and Wheels Crush Him.

George Allen, a 2 year old boy living at 5619 Throop street, was fatally injured yesterday while clinging to the side of a wagon owned by Mitchell & Peterson, contractors, at East Sixty-eighth street and Michigan avenue. His spine was fractured and he was injured internally when he fell under the rear wheels. He died at the Englewood hospital. Cleil Ewing, 3017 South Wabash avenue, the driver, was not arrested.

WILD ANDY.

Andrew Reese, the "wild man of Sutro forest," now in jail in San Francisco allowing society to perform its periodic task of scrubbing him and clothing him, can claim kinship to the wild men of Wall street and elsewhere. Reese protests feebly that he does not want to be civilized. He does not mind being given the clothes, but he does not want to have his face washed. He wants to do as he pleases and live as he likes. He doesn't know anything about Roosevelt (his kinsmen wish they didn't), and ding Roosevelt, anyway.

Andy is regarded as a wild man because he adopts this attitude towards society. A majority of the Republican national committee could be committed for that.

NOT AS REPORTED.

March 25, 1911, there appeared in THE TRIBUNE the statement of a former alderman charging Mayor Harrison with accepting a campaign contribution from Albert Friedrich, the former keeper of a disreputable dive.

THE TRIBUNE has carefully investigated the charge, and finds that Mayor Harrison had no knowledge of such contribution, if one was made. THE TRIBUNE, having given this charge publicity, owes to its readers the statement that it believes the charge baseless.

THE MISSISSIPPI PROBLEM.

To solve the Mississippi problem would be probably the greatest engineering feat of modern times. But American engineers are capable of this achievement. What also is needed is a statesman-executive powerful and farsighted enough to get this great work on foot. Col. Roosevelt has proved again his possession of that large vision which has marked the leaders of the American march across the continent.

We shall not fully have realized the chief achievement of Thomas Jefferson, nor have realized upon his great legacy to posterity, the Louisiana purchase, until the Mississippi is harnessed for the American people. Col. Roosevelt, who made the Panama canal project a reality, who raised conservation to the plane of a national issue and made it a great popular cause, is naturally the first of our national leaders to conceive of the Mississippi problem as it should be conceived, in continental terms, as a mighty work which, for the welfare of the nation in our time and in the times to come, the genius of the American people should now set about accomplishing.

MAKING IT CRIMINAL.

If the suffraget leaders countenance the continued application of direct action methods in the suffrage campaign they need not be astonished if the British government comes to look upon the whole movement as criminal. So long as the activities of the suffragets in getting themselves jailed were confined within the broad field of disorderly conduct they were given good naturedly the advertising they were seeking. When the concerted window smashing campaign was undertaken, and property loss resulted, the government viewed the affair as something more serious, prosecuted on a conspiracy charge, and succeeded in having a severe imprisonment penalty imposed on Mrs. Pankhurst and a few of her aids.

These outbreaks, however, become trivialities when compared with the attempted crimes in Dublin, where an enraged suffraget is reported to have thrown an ax at Asquith and cut John Redmond over the eye, and where another endeavored to set fire to a theater full of people.

Any sacrifice of innocent lives may be warranted in the wild minds of the enthusiasts, but the government hardly will be questioned if it be resolved that the question is not one of a political propaganda, but of criminals.

THE PUBLIC BE ——?

A reader of THE TRIBUNE having suffered by the error and discourtesy of an employé of the Chicago Railways company, wrote to our "Friend of the People" department of his experience. The complaint was forwarded to the company and received the following comment:

> There is no question but what the conductor should have examined the transfer and should have issued a new transfer punched in the same direction. WILLISTON FISH,
> First vice president and general manager.

The patron of this corporation, who had been inconvenienced and insulted, will doubtless feel fully rewarded by this valuable information, and the treatment of the public by the Chicago Railways employés will be distinctly bettered by the rebuke subtly implied in Mr. Fish's letter.

It is encouraging to note such evidence of the change in the attitude of public service management toward the public. Mr. Fish admits freely that the conductor was wrong. He might have refused to admit it. He might have written harshly about the complaint and have demanded that he be bothered no more with such trivialities.

How fortunate it is for all concerned that our transportation monopolies are so anxious nowadays to have their employés treat their patrons with courtesy and fairness. If an employé punches a patron instead of a transfer or uses profanity and abuse in controversy with him, the up to date Chicago official will admit in most cases that the employé was wrong. Thus a warm attachment toward the management and the corporation, and even toward public service monopolies generally, grows up in the bosom of a grateful public.

PROTECTING OUR MILK SUPPLY.

A proposed ordinance pending in the council forbids the sale of other than "inspected" or pasteurized milk in Chicago. No one objects to "inspected" milk, which means a clean product, from healthy cows, produced, transported, and distributed in a hygienic and sanitary manner. Certain aldermen are opposing pasteurization. Their chief reasons are: [1] That experts do not favor it; [2] that it gives a false security of the purity of milk, and [3] that it will drive the small dealers out of business. The answers to each are:

1. Health Commissioner Young asserts that pasteurization is the only preventive known of milk-fed epidemics of septic sore throat, diphtheria, typhoid and scarlet fevers. The New York milk commission, composed of the seventeen best experts which the Russell Sage Foundation could obtain in this country, asserted in January last:

"The commission thinks that pasteurization is necessary for all milk at all times, excepting certified milk or its equivalent. The majority of the commission voted in favor of pasteurizing all milk, including certified."

That is the last word on pasteurization. It has been printed and is being distributed by the federal government.

2. Lactic acid causes milk to sour. Certain aldermen claim that pasteurization destroys lactic acid, and therefore a pasteurized milk may be old without being detected. The recent government reports assert that pasteurized milk will sour as soon as raw milk.

3. It was claimed, when the ordinance prohibiting the sale of bulk milk in stores was adopted, that the stores would be driven out of business. The fact is, there are over 200 more small stores selling milk today than when this ordinance was passed. It was also claimed, when the previous ordinance requiring pasteurization was passed, it would destroy the small dealers. The fact is, there are slightly more small dealers today than when the ordinance was passed.

Those who desire to vote against the ordinance should concoct some other reason for their act.

STAGE THUNDER.

At Baltimore the Democratic party declared that "We favor the establishment of a parcels post or postal express, and also the extension of the rural delivery system."

But the Democratic party in the house of representatives, under the enlightened and masterful leadership of those two tribunes of the plain people, the Hon. Beauchamp Clark and the Hon. Oscar King Underwood, did what it could to juggle the parcels post into an admirable semblance of nothing. It is only in the Republican senate that a Republican senator—Bourne of Oregon—has been able to keep a real parcels post measure alive.

At Baltimore the Democratic party declared that "the party that proclaimed and has always enforced the Monroe doctrine, and was sponsor for the new navy, will continue faithfully to observe the constitutional requirements to provide and maintain an adequate and well proportioned navy sufficient to defend American policies, protect our citizens, and uphold the honor and dignity of the nation."

The full value of this ringing utterance may be estimated in the light of the labors of the Democratic house, as led by the aforesaid tribunes of the plain people, whose devotion to the navy has been shown by a measure which will promote it downward from the second to the fifth rank of the world navies.

THE importance of electing a good legislature is so manifest that perhaps the average citizen may be impelled to use as much care in selecting his representatives at Springfield as he ordinarily does in picking out a necktie or a new pair of gloves.

THERE may be an element of comedy in a suffraget breaking a shop window, but when she begins throwing axes at prime ministers and starting fires in crowded theaters, only tragedy is discernible.

IT is to be feared the grievance of A. Piatt Andrew against Secretary MacVeagh is a matter of considerable more interest to A. Piatt Andrew than to the general public.

MAYOR HARRISON'S explanation that Frank Solon was made superintendent of streets because he is "acceptable to the administration" will not be taken by the average citizen as much of a compliment to the administration.

SHOEMAKERS are proverbially ill shod, but it would seem as if the men in the Pittsburgh factory who struck because while they turned out 600 bathtubs a day they had none to use themselves had something to complain of.

SPARE YOUR SKIN.

TANNING is a process by which the skin protects the underlying tissues from the effects of light. This is accomplished by the development of a heavier pigment layer. The point to keep clearly in mind is that violent light is a harming agent. If the skin covering does not stop the work of this agent the underlying tissues are harmed; if the skin stops it, the skin is harmed; the tissues below are spared. If the skin is much hurt it blisters, swells, becomes edematous. If less so, it becomes red and sore and eventually peels. If still less so, it tans.

Pusey says: "As a result of long continued tanning and other results of the action of light, very positive deterioration in the skin occurs. It is due very largely to the effects of light that the skin of the hands and face shows those changes which we recognize as those of increasing years."

This does not mean that people should not go in swimming, or lie on the beach, or fish, or hunt. It does mean that they should try to avoid being sunburned and tanned. Of course, there is no justification for sun blistering. Such an excess limits the pleasure of the outing and gains nothing. But if tanning is brought about so gradually that the skin does not get sore it stops the light rays and makes one better able to stand the sun glare.

The skin is harmed, but the individual gains enough to compensate. To lie around on the beach just to tan is foolish. To tan as a means of increasing the pleasure of the out of doors is usually justified. The prospective resorter might well begin gradual tanning before he goes away. After going, it is well to so regulate the daily exposure that the skin does not get sore.

Nothing is gained by going bareheaded and exposing unnecessary parts of the skin. Tanning as a means, in a given case, may be justified; tanning as an end is never justified.

Going bareheaded, exposing the head to the heat and light in summer, is not good for the hair. It is possible that it may do no harm, and may even do good in the winter, spring, and fall; but the conditions are different in summer.

Baldness is a senility change. It may be contributed to by dandruff, by disease, and by bacteria. It may be in advance of and apart from general senility. A man may be old in the hair, but not demonstrably old elsewhere. As Pusey says, "Too much sunlight assists in bringing about senile changes in the skin. The hair is a part of the skin. Exposure of the bare head to the glaring sunlight in summer is more apt to cause than to prevent baldness.

Wear your hat in summer.

DRINK WATER FREELY.

L. H. T. writes: "1. Is it good to drink water the first thing when arising in the morning? 2. Is it good for the bowels? I'm troubled with constipation. 3. Is it bad to drink milk three times a day with meals in summer? I don't drink coffee or tea."

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. Yes. To drink water freely and to eat plenty of vegetables, fruit, and coarse food generally is better than taking medicine.
3. No, if you don't eat too much of other food.

WATER FOR THE BABY.

Mrs. B. A. writes: "1. I would like to know your opinion as to taking a six months' old breast baby, who drinks about eight ounces of sterilized lake water a day, to Grand Rapids, Mich., on a vacation of one week in August, where he will have to drink well water or none. 2. Does an internal lump ahead of one's ear, about the size of a dime, signify anything, especially when one is in poor health?"

REPLY.

1. It will be all right provided you warm the water just short of a simmer and then cool it. It is usually better, however, to keep babies at home.
2. I judge the lump is a gland. If so, it means absorption, maybe from a tooth, maybe the tonsils, maybe the nose. Have your physician find the point of absorption in your case.

RATTLESNAKE BITE.

R. E. E. writes: "Do you consider whisky a good antidote for rattlesnake poisoning?"

REPLY.

No. It is quite harmful and not in any sense an antidote.

HARDENING OF ARTERIES.

W. H. S. writes: "1. What causes hardening of arteries and high blood pressure in a middle aged man? 2. What can be done for a person who is said to be neurasthenic?"

REPLY.

1. Overeating, drinking stimulants, constipation, a tobacco heart, Bright's disease. There are other causes, but these five are the most important.
2. Exercise in the open air, a natural life, taking an interest in others, optimism. Many mild cases cure themselves by reading books on nerves. In these they learn that "there are others," that their experiences are no worse than thousands of others have had, that the condition in the main is due to bad mental inheritance or bad mental training or both, and that it yields to patient efforts at nerve control.

BRAN FOR HUMAN FOOD.

G. W. P. writes: "Kindly tell me what kind of bran to use and how to cook it. What is agar?"

REPLY.

Bran for human food is put up in packages. Ordinary bran, as sold in the feed store, is not so nice. It can be eaten like a cereal uncooked, but warmed, and served with cream and sugar, or it can be cooked in gems. Agar is a seaweed. Any druggist can get it for you. It comes in rough, shreddy strips. It is eaten raw. It is to be thoroughly chewed. Several handfuls can be eaten a day. It is just roughage without taste and with no food value. It acts by increasing the bulk of the intestinal content and by taking up moisture.

PRESENT WORK AGAINST YOU.

Reader writes: "I am a young man of 21 years, and am at present employed with an engineering concern in one of our skyscrapers as a draftsman. Now I feel I should be stronger than I am and should weigh more than I do, only 128 pounds for 5 feet 6 inches.

"I believe that the profession I have is partly to blame for this; for two years ago when I was outside almost constantly, I weighed much more and felt fifty per cent better. Some people have told me that the constant leaning over the drafting board and the absolute necessity for accuracy in everything will tend to make some people unhealthy.

"It almost is certain that an outside muscle building position will be open in a few days, it might be the thing to fatten me up, or should I stick to the drafting board?"

REPLY.

That is for you to decide. Your present work makes against you. If you stick to it you must take up some form of outdoor exercise to counteract it.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1912: By the Brentwood Company.]

NEWSPAPERS in this country should decline to concede to any foreign visitor a nobiliary title before making some effort to investigate its authenticity, for otherwise, in publishing more or less friendly articles concerning a stranger, they lend the weight of their approval to pretensions that often are bogus and even criminally fraudulent.

If I call attention to this it is because there has lately arrived in New York an individual who styles himself Prince Paul de Clairmont of Russia, serene highness, a cousin of the Duke of Norfolk, and who, like so many other nondescript adventurers, insists that he is the original "Paul"—the hero of a recent cheap and nasty novel by a woman, entitled "Three Weeks."

The "prince," who occupied an entire page of a number of American papers on a recent Sunday, his picture being given along with his alleged coat of arms, surmounted not by a princely coronet but by the five-pronged circlet of a mere German "von," is likewise known—in England, at any rate—as Joselyn Preston Arnott, and when arrested in London last winter on a charge of theft he gave at the Bow street police court his occupation as that of an actor.

The accusation of theft was preferred by Florence, Lady Abdy, who, a daughter of Lehmann Cohen of London, became the third wife of the late Sir William Abdy when he was completely crippled by paralysis, and who inherited his large fortune.

Since Sir William's death she has frequently invited the attention of the public, notably in connection with aviation, and at one time it was rumored that she was about to wed Alice Thaw's ex-husband, the Earl of Yarmouth, who has since become the Marquis of Hertford.

From evidence given in the police court at Bow street it would seem that the prisoner had scraped acquaintance with Lady Abdy during a trip from Paris to London, representing himself as "his serene highness, the Prince de Clairmont of Russia."

He became the guest of Lady Abdy at the Savoy hotel, and she continued to act as his hostess for several days until she found a jeweled butterfly brooch, valued at several thousand dollars, was missing. She accordingly accused him of having stolen it and had him arrested.

He admitted having taken away the brooch and also having pawned it, surrendering to the police the pawnticket, but declared that Lady Abdy had given it to him when he asked her for some money, because she had no cash in hand at the time.

As Lady Abdy is rich this excuse did not appeal to the magistrate, who committed the soi-disant prince for trial at the general sessions.

There the jury acquitted him, but the presiding judge took the opportunity to add, after the verdict had been given, that although an acquittal usually meant that the accused left the court without a stain upon his character, he wished it to be understood that this was far from being the case in this instance of the soi-disant prince.

In spite of this statement of the judge the man brought an action for damages for alleged false imprisonment against Florence, Lady Abdy, which was heard before Sir William Scrutton in the king's bench division of the high court of London.

The whole evidence of the police court and of the general sessions was produced once more, with the additional evidence on the part of the police that when they had taken the "prince," after his arrest, to Lady Abdy's apartments at the Savoy for identification he had exclaimed: "For God's sake, be lenient with me!"

In summing up, Justice Sir William Scrutton laid stress on the bogus character of the "prince's" title, and the jury rendered a verdict in his favor, with damages to the amount of 1 farthing, or half a cent, condemning him, however, to pay the costs.

This, then, is the precious youth who has been launched in a six column illustrated article by some of the biggest American newspapers upon the confiding people of the United States as a cousin of England's premier duke and as "Prince Paul de Clairmont of Russia." Needless to add, there is no such title in Russia or in any other country.

Sir Alan Johnstone, British minister at The Hague and married to the sister of Gifford Pinchot, formerly chief forester of the United States, has issued an appeal for subscriptions in aid of a fund for the erection on the battlefield of Zutphen of a monument to the memory of Sir Philip Sidney, who there received his death wound Sept. 22, 1586.

When Sidney died the Dutch government wished to honor him with splendid obsequies and offered to spend "half a ton of gold" on the memorial.

The offer was not accepted by Sidney's English relatives, who wished that he should sleep his last sleep on English soil.

That the Dutch have not forgotten him is shown by the fact that this present scheme for erecting a monument was initiated by them, the preparations being intrusted to an Anglo-Dutch committee.

Here is an opportunity for the many descendants of the Hollanders who emigrated to this country in colonial times from the district of Zutphen and bore its name as a patronymic.

If all those who, the heirs of mingled English and Dutch tradition, bear the ancient name of Sutphen, as it is now spelled, were to send their contributions to H. van Alphen, treasurer of the Sidney memorial fund, the project would prove an even greater success than is at present expected, and Sir Philip Sidney, the most courtly and fascinating figure of the Elizabethan era, whom the virgin queen described as "one of the jewels of her crown," would not lack a fitting monument on the scene of his noble death.

History relates that a quixotic impulse cost him his life. Having set out with a small party to intercept a convoy of provisions, he found that his comrade in arms, Sir William Pelham, had started for the fight without greaves.

Thereupon Sir Philip Sidney cast off his own leg armor, which would have defended him from the fatal wound in the thigh inflicted by the enemy's bullet.

His contemporaries speak in the highest praise of his "strong, warm, and lovable character," his memory being more especially preserved by the oft repeated story of his refusing, when wounded, a cup of water in favor of a dying soldier, with the words, "Thy need is greater than mine."

NO CARD PLAYING IN PARKS.

Chicago, July 12.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Last night I was sitting at the east end of Palmer square with ten of my chums. Four of us started to play a sociable game of "sixty-six." We had been playing about five minutes when two men ran up. Without telling us to quit playing, one of them kicked one of the players, showing a police star at the same time. He told another to give him the cards and when he received them he kicked him also. One of the players started to get up and walk away, and the "kicker" made a motion towards his hip pocket, telling the party who was getting up to stay where he was. Both men were clever enough not to let us see the numbers of their stars. This took place about 8 o'clock. About an hour after some of us ran around Palmer square a couple of times. We were all fully dressed and did not have on track suits. When we were through running we sat down on the grass again, and these two men came back and the "kicker" asked "Well, what are you guys trying to pull off now?"

I write this letter to inquire whether there is any law against playing a sociable game of cards when there is no gambling going on, and whether a plain clothes man, or any officer, has a right to confiscate the cards that are being used and refuse to return them. I would also like to know whether any officer has the right to kick a person? A READER.

I would say that on account of the many complaints of the citizens of Palmer square, Humboldt boulevard, and Logan square we have instructed the captain of police to place six men in citizens' clothes and clean out the rough men whom the citizens complained of. We do not allow card playing or shaking of dice along any of the boulevards or in any of the parks of the west park system, and the officers had a perfect right to order the young men to move on.
GEORGE A. MAGNER, Secretary.

NOTHING DONE ABOUT IT.

Chicago, July 17.—[To the Friend of the People.]—There has been some talk for several years of there being a car line run down Chicago avenue, east of State street, to the lake, and I write to ask if there is any such possibility in the near future. We need one very much, as it is a long walk to State street, and hope for a favorable answer from you. A RESIDENT.

PROPOSED CHANGE IN ROUTE NO. 1.

Chicago, July 14.—[To the Friend of the People.]—If the Chicago street railways people are going to run the No. 1 through route, why not put on cars enough so the people can ride? I would like to take that car at Randolph and Wabash every night, but by the time they arrive at that point the people are hanging on to the car like flies on a molasses barrel and the conductor refuses to take any more on, although he has taken on many more than can ride on the car proper and are simply hanging on and in danger of their lives. Certainly if so many people wish to get on as stand each night along Wabash avenue, the company could afford to put on more cars and run them nearer together. See what can be done. J. W. MARTIN.

If the recommendation of the local transportation committee reported to the city council July 15 is approved, through route No. 1 will be changed to run as follows:

Beginning at Clark street and Devon avenue, east on Devon avenue to Evanston avenue, south on Evanston avenue and Clark street to Division street, east to State street, south to Lake street, east to Wabash, south to Eighteenth street, east to Indiana avenue, south to Cottage Grove avenue, thence south on Cottage Grove avenue to Fifty-fifth street, and east to loop at Fifty-sixth street and Lake avenue.

There also will be an Indiana avenue through route, as follows:

Beginning on Lincoln avenue at Bowmanville, southeast on Lincoln avenue to Center street, thence to Clark street, south on Clark street to Kinzie street, east to State street, south to Lake street, east to Wabash avenue, south to Twenty-second street, east to Indiana avenue, south on Indiana avenue to Fifty-first street, and east to park.

Each of these routes will supplement the other, and the service is intended to be satisfactory.

QUESTION OF WOMEN'S HOURS.

Chicago July 19.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The question submitted by your correspondent is as follows:

Kindly oblige me by informing me whether or not a railroad is conforming to the ten hour law when they are compelling their girls to work from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. seven days a week, and whether being ouside of the city limits (Galewood) makes any difference.

From the question there is no way of reaching a conclusion as to whether it is a violation of law or not, because a woman may work from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. seven days a week and not be working in violation of the women's ten hour law—that is, if she receives each day between 9 a. m. and 8 p. m. a period of recess or lunch or supper time of at least one hour, for the time which is allowed for meals does not count among the hours worked. The law limiting the hours of women in this state does not have a weekly maximum limit. It is a law applicable to each day in the year, and says that a woman should not be employed in certain lines of business more than ten hours in any one day. She may work ten hours a day for seven days a week and this would not be a violation of law, but should she work from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., as stated by the questioner, it would be a violation of law unless during that period she had at least one hour off for meals or took at least an hour for some other cause.
EDGAR T. DAVIES, Chief.

CRITICISM OF C., B. & Q.

Oakville, Ia., July 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In regard to the recent wreck on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railway at Hinsdale, would suggest if the matter were looked into properly the interstate commerce commission would make some changes that are much needed. In the first place, they have put into use the telephone instead of telegraph wires, which is not nearly as accurate as the telegraph.

Presumably this was done in order to reduce expenses, for in so doing they can hire girls and boys to handle the phones at a small salary, where if they had to hire a good competent telegrapher they would have to pay him more money. Therefore the people's lives are sacrificed that the company may save a few dollars per month on each man's salary.

I am a telegrapher and know whereof I speak. If you will ask any telegrapher or train dispatcher he will tell you the same if he is not afraid of losing his position. Hope you will print this, as I want to get this before the people in its true light, for they little realize the danger their lives are in when on a train with incompetent boys and girls to handle the orders upon which it runs.

There should be a law to make telegraphers pass an examination and the companies to pay a fair wage, which they do not do at present; then they could get good men to fill all positions. C. W. GEORGE.

WANTS COMMISSION FOR CHICAGO.

Chicago, July 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Referring to your editorial of this morning, "The Old Alliance," in it you state that "the misrule of the cities is admitted to be one of the most serious of the failures of American democracy." I quite agree with you, but in order to remedy this condition THE TRIBUNE should advocate from now on the government of cities by commission. There are now 207 cities in this country governed by commission and none of them are willing to return to the old condition. Chicago could be managed at 25 per cent less expense than it is today with competent commissioners.

Let THE TRIBUNE keep up this fight until we have government by commission in all the cities of this country.

LAUDS "BACK TO LAND" MOVE.

Creston, Ia., July 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It is the opinion of the writer that of the many great things the "greatest newspaper in the world" has accomplished none is to be compared with the one that was announced in Sunday's issue, in the great good that will be done the people of the nation in the "back to the land bureau."

The information that your purpose to give regarding any section of the country will be a vast saving of wastage that will aid the settlers in selecting the section of the country they wish to go to, and their having this saving to "stock up" will be of immense benefit in more readily creating wealth and bettering their conditions.

As it is now, the "boosters" of the different sections and the railroads are issuing and putting out literature highly coloring their sections in order to induce settlers to come, who often find things more or less disappointing and have to leave for other sections, and if the settler has taken his family, to "move on" reduces his capital, so that he is handicapped and embarrassed so as to materially affect his prosperity and productive ability for several years. JOHN HALL.

NUISANCE OF PIANO PLAYING.

Chicago, July 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The writer is very much interested in music, in fact, becomes oblivious to surroundings when intently listening to the strains of the old masters; but I must say that I "draw the line" at any one engaging in practice exercises on the piano at the unseemly hour of 6:30 in the morning.

My object in addressing you is twofold: First, to ascertain if you can suggest some effectual method which would eliminate this annoyance when others are trying to rest; second, being cognizant of the wide circulation of your valuable medium, I hope that it may reach the eyes of the party alluded to.

Wishing you success, and that we may get relief from this source. SAM T. GREY.

We know of no recourse to suggest. You have our deepest sympathy. Have you ever considered buying a phonograph as an offset?

Certainly if so many people wish to get on as stand each night along Wabash avenue, the company could afford to put on more cars and run them nearer together. See what can be done.

J. W. MARTIN.

If the recommendation of the local transportation committee reported to the city council July 15 is approved, through route No. 1 will be changed to run as follows:

Beginning at Clark street and Devon avenue, east on Devon avenue to Evanston avenue, south on Evanston avenue and Clark street to Division street, east to State street, south to Lake street, east to Wabash, south to Eighteenth street, east to Indiana avenue, south to Cottage Grove avenue, thence south on Cottage Grove avenue to Fifty-fifth street, and east to loop at Fifty-sixth street and Lake avenue.

There also will be an Indiana avenue through route, as follows:

Beginning on Lincoln avenue at Bowmanville, southeast on Lincoln avenue to Center street, thence to Clark street, south on Clark street to Kinzie street, east to State street, south to Lake street, east to Wabash avenue, south to Twenty-second street, east to Indiana avenue, south on Indiana avenue to Fifty-first street, and east to park.

Each of these routes will supplement the other, and the service is intended to be satisfactory.

First Vice President and General Manager.

QUESTION OF WOMEN'S HOURS.

Chicago July 19.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The question submitted by your correspondent is as follows:

Kindly oblige me by informing me whether or not a railroad is conforming to the ten hour law when they are compelling their girls to work from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. seven days a week, and whether being ouside of the city limits (Galewood) makes any difference.

From the question there is no way of reaching a conclusion as to whether it is a violation of law or not, because a woman may work from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. seven days a week and not be working in violation of the women's ten hour law—that is, if she receives each day between 9 a. m. and 8 p. m. a period of recess of lunch or supper time of at least one hour, for the time which is allowed for meals does not count among the hours worked. The law limiting the hours of women in this state does not have a weekly maximum limit. It is a law applicable to each day in the year, and says that a woman should not be employed in certain lines of business more than ten hours in any one day. She may work ten hours a day for seven days a week and this would not be a violation of law, but should she work from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., as stated by the questioner, it would be a violation of law unless during that period she had at least one hour off for meals or took at least an hour for some other cause.

THE PEOPLE.

LAUDS "BACK TO LAND" MOVE.

Creston, Ia., July 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It is the opinion of the writer that of the many great things the "greatest newspaper in the world" has accomplished none is to be compared with the one that was announced in Sunday's issue, in the great good that will be done the people of the nation in the "back to the land bureau."

The information that your purpose to give regarding any section of the country will be a vast saving of wastage that will aid the settlers in selecting the section of the country they wish to go to, and their having this saving to "stock up" will be of immense benefit in more readily creating wealth and bettering their conditions.

As it is now, the "boosters" of the different sections and the railroads are issuing and putting out literature highly coloring their sections in order to induce settlers to come, who often find things more or less disappointing and have to leave for other sections, and, if the settler has taken his family, to "move on" reduces his capital, so that he is handicapped and embarrassed so as to materially affect his prosperity and productive ability for several years.

NUISANCE OF PIANO PLAYING.

Chicago, July 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The writer is very much interested in music, in fact, becomes oblivious to surroundings when intently listening to the strains of the old masters; but I must say that I "draw the line" at any one engaging in practice exercises on the piano at the unseemly hour of 6:30 in the morning.

My object in addressing you is twofold: First, to ascertain if you can suggest some effectual method which would eliminate this annoyance when others are trying to rest; second, being cognizant of the wide circulation of your valuable medium, I hope that it may reach the eyes of the party alluded to.

Wishing you success, and that we may get relief from this source,

SAM T. GREY.

We know of no recourse to suggest. You have our deepest sympathy. Have you ever considered buying a phonograph as an offset?

Chicago, July 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Will you kindly let me know through the Voice of the People column what, if any, premium there is on a penny of 1857—flying eagle design?

WORK OF "THE TRIBUNE."

[George Fitch in Peoria Herald-Transcript.]

Somewhere in the misty beyond Uncle Joseph Medill is smiling beatifically over the splendid work of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which began and stuck manfully to the job of un-Lorimerizing Illinois. THE TRIBUNE should henceforth be a subsidized newspaper—subsidized by about a million subscriptions from grateful citizens—and if it were not for the fact that we buy it at the news stand each morning, thus beating Uncle Sam's delivery boys by three hours, we would send in a money order tonight.

Other speakers were Dr. E. H. Abbott of Elgin, John L. Walker of Aurora, who recalled that the young man had elected Lincoln and predicted that the first voters would join the progressives; F. H. DEFENSE OF TAFT PLANNED

Question of Stolen Delegates Will Be Aired in Congress.

PRINCIPAL SPEECH BY ROOT.

Hope to Settle the Fraud Issue Before the Campaign Opens.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 19.—[Special.]—The question of the stolen Republican nomination at the Chicago convention is to be aired in both the house and the senate before congress adjourns. Both the Taft defenders and the progressives are planning a series of speeches, in which the charges of the theft of delegates will be discussed in detail.

President Taft realizes that steam roller tactics pursued by the Penrose-Crane machine at the Chicago convention have placed him on the defensive before the voters of the country. The cry of "theft" will not down in spite of the efforts of the Taft advisory board to bring out the tariff as the principal issue of the campaign.

Root to Defend Tactics.

Senator Root is to make the principal speech on behalf of the president in the senate. He will defend not only the manner in which the renomination of the president was procured but also his rulings as chairman of the convention.

Replies to Senator Root's defense of the exclusion of the Roosevelt delegates are scheduled to be made by Senators Dixon, Cummins, Poindexter, and Bristow.

In the house Representatives Bartholdt of Missouri and Mondell of Wyoming are to argue for the validity of the Taft nomination.

Norris to Reply in House.

Representative Norris of Nebraska and other progressives will reply to the Taft defense in the house.

It was stated tonight that the Iowa delegation, including the regular standpat Republicans with the exception of Charles A. Kennedy of the First district, has reached the conclusion that the nomination was fraudulently procured by means of more than sixty delegates illegally seated by steam roller methods.

Former Senator William E. Mason of Illinois, now a candidate for congressman at large, was at the White House today.

"We are going to carry Illinois for President Taft," he said. "The tariff will be the issue and the Democrats cannot possibly win in Illinois on the tariff for revenue plank of their platform."

Mr. Mason is seeking to induce the president to appoint his son, Lewis Mason, to the federal district bench in Chicago.

WOMEN OF HIBERNIAN ORDER HOLD HEATED FINAL SESSION.

Delegates Debate Until After Midnight Over Proposal to Raise Salaries of New Officers.

The closing session of the biennial meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the Hotel La Salle last night was marked with strife for official preferment that carried the session into the early morning hours.

For several hours during the afternoon several hundred delegates wrangled over changes in the constitution. The proposition to insert an insurance clause whereby the order could carry or provide insurance for its members, started an argument that lasted until the evening session, when it was finally left in an incompleted state.

Then a motion was introduced to increase the salaries of the incoming officers. This was fought by friends of the retiring officers, who contended that if an increase should be made it should not go into effect until 1913. This was finally accepted and the election of officers was called for at midnight.

DEMOCRATS O. K. TWO TICKETS.

Twenty-sixth Ward Club Adopts Resolutions Indorsing State and National Candidates.

The Twenty-sixth Ward Democratic club, at a meeting last night in the hall at Montrose and Lincoln avenues, adopted resolutions indorsing the state and national tickets.

In the resolution indorsing the national ticket W. J. Bryan is given credit for being "largely instrumental in shaping the policy and proclaiming the platform of principles that gives to the people so much hope."

JONES MEN DECIDE TUESDAY

Take Up Matter of 'Going Along' with Rooseveltites.

WANT THIRD STATE TICKET.

Organization of Cook County by Progressives Goes Along Rapidly.

The Jones-Merriam wing of the progressives will determine Tuesday night at the City club whether they will "go along" with the national Progressive movement. This was announced yesterday by Harold Ickes, at the conclusion of a conference at the Grand Pacific hotel, attended by the leaders in the Merriam mayoralty campaign and in the late primary campaign for Senator Jones for governor.

They are waiting to see what happens at the conference between Gov. Deneen and the committee of five representing the general progressive conference, now scheduled for 10 o'clock Monday morning at Springfield.

Medill McCormick, chairman of the committee, called on the governor in Springfield in the afternoon to learn when an answer will be given to the committee's inquiry as to whom the governor will support for president.

Senator Jones to Lead Fight.

The announced intention of Senator Jones is to lead a fight for the nomination of a third state ticket in the state convention. In this he may be joined by Prof. Merriam, although Mr. Merriam has declared that he was through with the progressive movement as it is progressing just now in Illinois, and prefers to continue to fight within the Republican lines.

The business of organizing Cook county in behalf of the Progressives was reported to be rapidly advancing by John F. Bass, who is in charge of this department of the campaign. He announced that massmeetings will be held in each ward next Saturday to elect delegates to the state convention.

Convention Plans Not Complete.

Plans for the state Progressive convention have not been completed. The hall probably will be announced today. The First Regiment armory and Orchestra hall are under consideration.

The result of the contests for Republican committeemen in the Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth wards, as determined yesterday by the Republican county executive committee, was the seating of the two anti-Lorimer men and the elimination, practically of William Lorimer and his friends from organized politics in Cook county.

ROOSEVELT WORKS ON SPEECH.

Leader of Progressive Republican Party Preparing Address to Be Delivered in Chicago.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 19.—Theodore Roosevelt put in most of his time today preparing the speech he is to deliver in Chicago.

His only political visitor was President F. S. Luther of Trinitly college, Hartford, Conn., who was one of the signers from Connecticut of the call for the national progressive convention in Chicago next month.

Mr. Luther discussed with Col. Roosevelt subjects bearing upon the campaign in which as an educator he is interested.

WRANGLE OVER STEEL REPORT

House Committee Stumbles in Tennessee Coal Angle.

WILL AMEND SHERMAN LAW.

Trusts to Be Forced to Prove They Are "Reasonable" in Operations.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—After a session lasting until midnight majority members of the house steel trust investigating committee failed to reach an agreement on their report to congress, the chief contention existing over the section of the report written by Chairman Stanley on the absorption by the United States Steel corporation of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company in 1907.

Representative Littleton of New York was reported to be particularly opposed to some of the chairman's conclusions.

Will Remedy Legislation.

Some features of the report upon which the committee are agreed include bills for remedial legislation, particularly that amending the Sherman anti-trust law. This will declare all restraint of trade to be "unreasonable" and put upon defendant corporations the burden of proof that they are "reasonable."

It will also grant to individuals the right to intervene in suits and to recover damages from corporations adjudged guilty of violating the anti-trust laws.

Disapproves "Gary Dinners."

The report will disapprove of the so-called "Gary dinners," characterizing them as "just as effective in dominating prices as old pools and agreements."

The plan suggested by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, for federal regulation of trusts, the report will disapprove, calling it "semi-socialistic, impracticable and unconstitutional."

MACK TURNS OVER RECORDS.

Retired Chairman of National Democratic Committee Transfers Official Documents to His Successor.

New York, July 19.—All papers and records of the Democratic national committee which had been in the possession of Norman E. Mack, recently retired as chairman, were turned over to William F. McCombs, the new chairman, late today.

Mr. McCombs, accompanied by National Secretary Joseph Davis, reached here this afternoon from Seagirt and held an extended conference with Mr. Mack, who expressed himself confident of a Democratic victory this fall.

Secretary Davies announced that Democratic headquarters in this city would be established within a week.

PROGRESSIVE PARTY NOTES.

TOPEKA, Kas.—Acting under instructions from Gov. Stubbs, the attorney general filed in the Supreme court an application for a writ of mandamus to compel county clerks to prepare the primary ballots for the election of Aug. 6 and to prevent the adherents of President Taft from hindering the work by injunction proceedings.

HONOLULU, H. I.—A movement has been begun here for the formation of a third party, which probably will send a representative to the national convention of the progressive party at Chicago.

INDUSTRIES GET SUBMERGED LAND

City Will Not Attack Grants by State to South Chicago Steel Mills.

NOT WANTED FOR HARBOR

Subcommittee Recommends Giving Last Parcel in 375 Acres to Corporation.

The grant of 375 acres of submerged lands to South Chicago industries by the state legislature will not be attacked by the city council. The committee on harbors placed on file yesterday an ordinance reserving for harbor purposes the submerged land from Seventy-ninth street to the Indiana state line. The grants to the Illinois Steel company, the Iroquois Iron company, and the American Smelting and Refining company lie within this district.

Had the ordinance passed the city would have had to test the validity of the act of the legislature two years ago. The committee was unanimous in its decision against a harbor reservation at this point. Its decision was on the advisability of a policy blocking the development of the three companies.

Residents Plead for Industries.

A large delegation of South Chicago residents opposed any such restriction on the growth of companies upon the existence of which the commercial welfare of that section depends.

Ald. Charles M. Thomson differed with his associates on the discarding of a substitute ordinance acceptable to the representatives of the companies. This excluded from the harbor district the lands given the corporations and Ald. Thomson contended the ordinance should be passed to prevent further encroachments on the submerged lands by these or other interests. The rest of the committee did not take up his recommendation, but answer was made that the city can act at any time such further encroachments are threatened.

Corporation Counsel Approves Grants.

Upon the advice of Corporation Counsel Sexton the committee also approved a resolution which he will draft for passage by the council. Although two of the campanies have obtained their permits for building up the land in their grants and have constructed several acres, the application of the third, the American Smelting and Refining company, has been held up because the harbor district ordinance was pending.

The resolution recites the action of the committee with the reasons for it and directs the commissioner of public works to issue the permit to the company.

Postoffice Robbers Keep Busy.

A band of postoffice thieves operating in Illinois has robbed three country postoffices this week. The cases have been reported to the authorities in Chicago. The robberies were at Walshville, Bishop, and Arrowsmith. Only small amounts were stolen at each place.

WOOD TO TACKLE EVANS FOR TITLE

Homewood Golfer Beats Neville in Western Semi-Final Play, 5 and 3.

LEGG ALSO A LOSER, 4-3.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Denver, Colo., July 19.—[Special.]—The big Thorne trophy, emblematic of the western amateur golf championship, which never has left Chicago in thirteen years, will repose there for another twelvemonth, either at the Edgewater or Homewood clubs.

Playing superlative golf against their sectional opponents, Warren K. Wood of Homewood and Charles Evans Jr. of Edgewater suppressed the ambitious outsiders and, having maintained Chicago's golfing supremacy in the west, will tomorrow engage in a thirty-six hole family duel for individual honors.

Although they have competed in many tournaments the men have not met in a tournament for over five years. Wood, who generally was picked to defeat Jack Neville, the Pacific coast champion, won 5 and 3, and Evans, who had a more formidable opponent in Harry G. Legg of Minneapolis, won 4 and 3.

Both Three Under Par.

If the finalists can produce tomorrow anything like the brand of golf they had on tap today the match will be a corker. Evans was three strokes under par on his three completed rounds, and Wood also was three under. Our little steam rollers worked smoothly. The course was faster than on the preceding days and the morning was tropically hot. It clouded up in the afternoon and during the play the wind shifted several times.

Evans and Legg halved their first two holes, but at the third Legg drove out of bounds. Legg holed a 20 foot putt for a four, but Evans sunk his putt from fifteen feet and won, 3—4. Evans was half stymied at the fifth hole and Legg squared 4 to 5. Evans was out of bounds on his second shot at the sixth hole, but Legg missed a short putt and they halved in 5.

A short approach cost Legg the eighth hole, 5—4. Both got fours on the ninth hole, 532 yards. Legg was down at the end of the round. Legg topped his next tee shot and was out short, Evans getting a perfect four. Evans putted close to the edge of the third cup and although Legg was half stymied, he made a 12 foot putt and won, 3—4. On the fifth hole, Legg drove 285 yards, but missed a 3 foot putt after Evans had holed from six feet.

Goes Into Watery Bunker.

Driving into a strong wind from the eighth tee, Evans hooked a low ball into a watery bunker and had to lose a stroke. Legg won, 4-6. He missed a 7 foot putt at the ninth green, Evans holing from 8 feet and winning, 4-5. This put him 2 up at the interval. Cards:

Evans	5	4	3	3	5	5	4	4	4	37
Legg	5	4	4	3	4	5	4	5	4	38
Par	5	4	4	3	4	4	4	5	5	38
Evans	5	4	4	3	3	4	4	6	4	37—74
Legg	6	3	4	3	3	4	4	4	5	37—75

They halved the first three holes in the afternoon. At the second Legg overapproached five feet, but laid a stymie. Evans tried to jump it but failed and they halved in 5. Both overpitched the short hole, but Evans approached downhill to one foot and Legg failed on a four footer, losing, 4—3. Legg overapproached at the next hole. Evans hit the cup from fifteen feet and stymied Legg, who tried a long putt and knocked Evans' ball in, giving him the hole, 3—5. Evans 4 up.

Evans' short pitch cost him the next hole, 5—4. Going to the ninth hole, 585 yards, Evans made a poor second, but with Legg dead to the hole Evans notched a half in 4 with a twelve foot putt. Evans 3 up.

Starting on the final round, Legg pulled his long iron pitch to the weeds. His approach hit Evans' ball and he lost, 6—5. Evans rimmed the cup for a 4 on the next green. A long putt at the third hole, 406 yards, gave him a 3, Legg taking one more. Legg won the fifth hole, 4—5 but a half in 6 at the sixth green spelled defeat for the Minnesota champion. Cards:

Evans	5	5	4	3	3	5	4	4	4	37

Neville Gives Wood Tussle.

For some time it looked as if young Neville would give Warren Wood a hard tussle. The coast player is as tall as Bobby Gardner and heavier. He outdrove Wood many times, but in the latter part of the morning's play he was as wild as Cherry creek last Sunday night. He blundered into bunkers on the last three holes and conceded all of them. Both went out in 39, Neville leading 1 up.

Wood played unbeatable golf on the second round, getting a 35 with all putts holed except one. He was 3 up at the interval. Morning cards:

Wood	5	5	5	3	3	4	4	5	5	39
Neville	6	4	4	2	4	4	4	4	7	39
Wood	5	4	4	3	3	5	4	4	3	35—74
Neville	5	4	5	3	4	5	6	6	6	44—83

Wood kept up his steady gait in the afternoon, and while Neville improved, the Chicagoan never was in real danger. Afternoon cards:

Wood	5	5	4	3	4	4	3	5	5	38
Neville	5	4	5	3	4	4	4	4	6	39
Wood	5	4	4	2	4	4

ENTERS CAR FOR ELGIN RACE.

Marhoefer Nominates Auto for Aurora Cup—May Name Machine for National Trophy Event.

Edward H. Marhoefer, president of the F. A. L. Motor company, yesterday nominated a Fal car for the Aurora cup race open to cars of 231-300 cubic inches piston displacement and signified his intention of entering a machine for the Elgin National trophy classic. The Marhoefer entry is the first received by the Chicago Automobile club.

The Fal has been out of the racing game for a year. Gelnaw and Pearce formerly were drivers for the company. The most notable victory gained by the concern was first and second places in the Wheatly Hills cup race at Savannah. The event was run in connection with the Vanderbilt and Grand Prize races. Fred Marhoefer, brother of the entrant, probably will pilot at Elgin. In case another machine is entered Harry Hastings will drive.

Fred J. Wagner says that he has signed with the Mercer company. The concern has not chosen the events in which it will compete. If the Mercer is entered Hughie Hughes probably will drive. Fred Jenkins, local agent for the King and Rayfield, has opened negotiations with the manufacturers relative to entering two machines, the King in a light car event and the Rayfield in the free for all.

PLAN NOVEL GOLF MEET TODAY

Members of Midlothian Invite Guests for Handicap.

RECORD FOR MISS HELMER.

Clips Former Mark in Mixed Foursome at Beverly by Four.

A novel golf tourney will be held at the Midlothian links this afternoon and tomorrow. Twenty-five of the more active members of the club have arranged for an invitation tournament, each of the home members to bring a guest not a member of the Midlothian club. A number of out of town golfers will be included in the list of visitors.

Competition will start today with an eighteen hole qualifying round, from which the handicaps will be determined. After the handicaps have been adjusted it is planned to auction off the players for a thirty-six hole prize tourney to be held tomorrow. Two prize lists have been arranged, one for the home players and another for the visitors.

Miss Myra Helmer set a new record at the Beverly course yesterday. Playing in a mixed foursome, Miss Helmer returned a card of 83, lowering the former mark, held jointly by herself and Miss Vida Llewellyn, by four strokes. Miss Helmer's card was:

Out	5	4	7	5	4	4	6	4	4	43
In	3	6	3	5	5	4	6	4	4	40—83

Paul Hunter established a new course record at Midlothian getting a count of 68 for the eighteen holes, one stroke better than the previous mark, held by Fred McLeod. Par for the course is 36—37—73. Hunter's card was:

Out	5	3	4	4	3	3	4	4	4	34

Waldner Unable to Defend Title.

Indianapolis, Minn., July 19.—With L. H. Waldner, Chicago, unable to be present to defend his title of champion in the singles of the Northwestern Tennis association, the title will go to Seyforde Stellwagen; Ward C. Burton, or J. H. Wheeler, all of Minneapolis. Tournament officials today received a telegram from Waldner announcing that because of illness in his family he would be unable to be present. Rain prevented play today.

HAYES VS. BYFORD FOR CITY HONORS

Champions to Meet Today in Deciding Contests for Tennis Title.

FAST PLAY MARKS GAMES

BY KEENE GARDINER.

The semi-final round of the men's singles in the city tennis tournament at the Kenwood Country club left Walter T. Hayes, state champion, and Heath Byford, city title holder, in the decisive round for the 1912 honors. Hayes yesterday defeated Burdick, 6—3, 8—6, 6—4, and Byford won from Knight, 6—3, 6—3, 6—0.

Burdick and Bailey qualified for the final round in the men's doubles by trouncing Ellinwood and MacNeal, 6—1, 6—1, 6—3. The pair will meet Squair and Green for the doubles championship.

Burdick gave the state champion the hardest battle he has had on local courts this year, but following his usual custom, Hayes resorted to his knowledge of the game to outpoint his antagonist. If anything Burdick was superior at the net, but both men made some remarkable returns of wicked shots. Hayes played his smashes to the side lines, as he did with Ludke a week ago at the Aztec club, and Burdick resorted to vicious smashing. Hayes lost few points because he seldom made errors. Burdick annexed more flashy marks because of his driving.

Knight gave Byford little serious trouble, although a majority of the games went to deuce. Knight does not equal the champion as a player, although he put up a game fight. Slowness was the chief cause for his defeat.

Burdick and Bailey played a splendid game against Ellinwood and MacNeal, although the latter pair was lamentably weak in most departments of the game. Bailey's carefulness and Burdick's terrific smashing netted them a majority of the points in the match. Their showing entitles Burdick and Bailey consideration as contestants for the title against Squair and Green, who put out Forstall and Hayes on Thursday. The older men play just the sort of a game to baffle the youngsters.

Miss May Sutton and Miss Carrie B. Neely played an exhibition match and the ease with which the Californian disposed of the local player leaves no doubt as to the outcome of today's battle for the city title.

ED CORRIGAN BACK 30 YEARS TO WORK HE LEFT FOR TURF.

Former "Master of Hawthorne" Leases Small Stone Quarry in Kansas City and Starts Anew.

Kansas City, Mo., July 19.—[Special.]—Edward Corrigan, former "master of Hawthorne," has come back to Kansas City to start life over again where he left it more than thirty years ago. With what little he could save from the wreck of his fortunes after the final crash three years ago, the former millionaire turfman has leased a few acres of land, set up a stone crusher, and settled down to devote the rest of his life to leveling the limestone cliffs—the same sort of work he was doing as a railroad contractor before taking up the racing game.

Corrigan returned to Kansas City three months ago. He is living with a sister, Mrs. B. C. Burke. Corrigan goes out to his little quarry every morning carrying a dinner pail, quite as contented, apparently, as if he had never been the most imposing figure on the western turf.

"It's a great little plant," he said today to a visitor who dropped in to see him. "I've got the land here leased for ten years. I'll have fifty men working before long, and the crusher can handle 350 yards a day. I'm glad to be settled down again."

Corrigan doesn't talk about the racing game any more. He's a stone contractor now.

BAN PLACED ON FIGHT FILMS.

House Passes Senate Bill Prohibiting Transportation of Motion Pictures of Boxing Bouts.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—Prize fight moving pictures today became a thing of the past in the United States when the house passed a senate bill prohibiting the transportation of such moving picture films between the various states and territories or from foreign countries. Heavy fines for violation of the proposed law are fixed by the bill.

The president, said to be in complete sympathy with the legislation, is expected to affix his signature to the measure. Southern members of congress were especially interested in the proposed law because of the race feeling stirred up by the exhibition of the Jeffries-Johnson moving pictures in their section of the country.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina and Representative Sims of Tennessee pressed the bill in the senate and house.

WHITE TO MEET MORAN TODAY.

Chicago Boxer Will Be Matched with Kilbane or Attel if He Defeats Englishman.

BY HARRY GILMORE JR.

Venice, Cal., July 19.—[Special.]—If Jack White comes out on top in his bout with Owen Moran today Promoter McCarey will try to satisfy Manager Fred Gilmore and his protégé by matching White with Feather Weight Champion Johnnie Kilbane or Abe Attel. It is going to be some battle, for the determined preparation made by Moran assures that he intends to be in condition. As a result White will be meeting a far better boy than the Owen Moran that came in on us a few months ago fresh from his unfavorable showing with Charley White. The Chicago boy is right on edge and bigger and stronger than ever before, just making the required weight of 128 pounds with comparative ease.

M. AND M. HORSES CAPTURE TROTS

Dorsch Medium and Dictator Todd Feature Races at Kalamazoo.

HEAT WINNERS FALTER.

BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 19.—[Special.]—The features of the racing today were the victories of two M. and M. horses. The Illinois mare Dorsch Medium, driven by Geers, took first place in the 2:24 trot over a fair field in rather slow time, while Dictator Todd, with Murphy up, performed brilliantly in the 2:15 class, his second heat in 2:08¼ being about the best race mile to the credit of any of the entrants in the big race next week.

The Dorsch Medium race was a mixed affair which went to the five heat limit. A remarkable circumstance in connection with the contest was that in the final mile two of the heat winners, Mary G. and Thistle Doune, were distanced in slow time. The mare is in the M. and M., but on today's showing hardly will start. She first drove Thistle Doune out in 2:11¼, then came back and beat him in the same time. After that kept going slower and slower until the red banner of disgrace was waved in her face.

Thistledown Slows Up.

Thistle Doune, which after the opening round looked like a winner, faded swiftly after trotting two decent miles and doesn't seem to be as good as he was several seasons back, when he performed as a 2 year old. He was prepared for this campaign by being driven twenty-eight miles a day all winter on a mail route. The veterinarians recommended that sort of treatment for his legs, which were ailing. Thistle Doune may be a classy rural router, but he is not quite of grand circuit caliber.

The free-for-all pace was pretty easy for Vernon McKinney after he got an even break. The starter gave him much the worst of the initial sendoff, and in trying to catch the others the big horse broke and was laid up, Sir R. winning in 2:05¾. Then the Murphy horse broke in the second heat and was distanced, making things easy for the Canuck stallion, which romped the third mile in 2:04½ to show the other heats were not up to his limit.

Dudie Archdale pleased the big crowd today by the easy manner in which she disposed of Billy Burke, 2:03¾, a stallion about which a lot has been said. He had a fair chance today, but the little mare, starting from the outside in the first heat, beat him all the way, and repeated like a real racehorse. The time of the miles, 2:05¼, 2:05¾, include a reduction of the black mare's record.

Pari-Mutuels at Cleveland.

The extinction of bookmaking on trotting tracks, which recently has been taken in hand by several grand circuit track managers, and which was exclusively announced in "The Tribune" last week, has progressed with such rapidity that it is announced pari-mutuel machines will be used at Cleveland the week after next, as well as at Lexington.

It is understood the Cleveland people have made a sort of compromise with the Rev. Mr. Greeg, who has been active against racetrack gambling, and as an opening wedge have agreed to use the machines. As a contract has been made with the books they will not be barred this year, but those who should know best say it is their last season. With Cleveland and Lexington already in line for the new movement and Grand Rapids ready to join next year it will not be difficult to get the other tracks in line.

There is no sensible argument in favor of book betting, which conduces to fraud in offering opportunities for cheating, while the mutuel machines simply register the amount of money bet on each horse and express the sentiment of the bettors, not of the bookmakers. The first instance this year of a stable starting two horses in a race occurred today with Vernon McKinney and Merry Widow of the Mackenzie string in the free for all pace and Gold Dollar and Country Jay in the free for all trot.

JEANETTE WINS TAME BOUT.

"Battling" Jim Johnson Bested in Slow Six Round Fight at Olympia in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 19.—[Special.]—Joe Jeanette bested "Battling" Jim Johnson in a tame six round bout at the Olympia tonight. Neither man was marked at the finish. Johnson continually hurled his huge frame at Jeanette and Joe could not do effective work.

FILMS TELL TALE OF ROUGH FIGHT

Exhibition of Johnson-Flynn Pictures Show Foul Work by Pueblo Man.

CHAMPION "UNDER PULL."

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Good pictures of a poor fight. This was the general opinion of those who yesterday saw the private exhibition of the moving pictures of the heavyweight championship battle between Jack Johnson and Jim Flynn which terminated in the ninth round at Las Vegas. A special permit was granted by the mayor for the exhibition, which was given at a local theater. A large number of local fight fans and critics saw the films.

That Flynn should have been disqualified for his butting tactics was agreed. In the ninth round when the fight was stopped by the chief of police, Flynn held on to Johnson, left his feet, and butted the champion several times. Once the referee stopped the mill and warned Flynn, but the Pueblo boxer paid no attention. When the principals resumed hostilities Flynn renewed the foul tactics which caused the fight to be stopped.

At no stage of the fight did Johnson appear to extend himself. He did not land a solid punch in the entire conflict and it looked as if he were under a "pll." He used his left hand in a tantalizing manner, and on only three occasions did he attempt to cross over his right or use that weapon for an uppercut.

Johnson was among those who watched the exhibition. "I had no chance to fight Flynn," said Johnson, "because he would not stand up and give me half a chance to hurt him. His butting tactics did not hurt me, but the pictures tell the story, so I needn't say any more."

Charley White, brother of Jack, who is matched to meet Owen Moran in a twenty round contest on the coast today, yesterday received a letter from Jack in which the latter stated he is confident of disposing of the Englishman. FILMS TELL TALE OF ROUGH FIGHT

Exhibition of Johnson-Flynn Pictures Show Foul Work by Pueblo Man.

CHAMPION "UNDER PULL."

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Good pictures of a poor fight. This was the general opinion of those who yesterday saw the private exhibition of the moving pictures of the heavyweight championship battle between Jack Johnson and Jim Flynn which terminated in the ninth round at Las Vegas. A special permit was granted by the mayor for the exhibition, which was given at a local theater. A large number of local fight fans and critics saw the films.

That Flynn should have been disqualified for his butting tactics was agreed. In the ninth round when the fight was stopped by the chief of police, Flynn held on to Johnson, left his feet, and butted the champion several times. Once the referee stopped the mill and warned Flynn, but the Pueblo boxer paid no attention. When the principals resumed hostilities Flynn renewed the foul tactics which caused the fight to be stopped.

At no stage of the fight did Johnson appear to extend himself. He did not land a solid punch in the entire conflict and it looked as if he were under a "pil." He used his left hand in a tantalizing manner, and on only three occasions did he attempt to cross over his right or use that weapon for an uppercut.

Johnson was among those who watched the exhibition. "I had no chance to fight Flynn," said Johnson, "because he would not stand up and give me half a chance to hurt him. His butting tactics did not hurt me, but the pictures tell the story, so I needn't say any more."

Patience Ceases to Be a Virtue When the Clock Goes Round Too Fast.

COLLEGE HURLER BLANKS CUBS, 4-0

Chance's Men Held to Three Hits by Rixey, Phillies' Southpaw Recruit.

FREAK PLAYS FEATURE.

Sheckard Kicks Ball Into Stand, Giving Paskert Homer; Lavender Banished.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Eppa Jephtha Rixey Jr. threw a monkey wrench into the transmission gear of the Cub machine yesterday and handed the Cubs another setback in their Algonquinesque task by pitching Philadelphia to a 4 to 0 victory over Chance's men in the fourth game of the set. This pitcher, whose name sounds like a cross between a Greek letter fraternity and a college yell, and whose architecture resembles an Eiffel tower in miniature, shut the Cubs out with three single hits, only one of which was made previous to the ninth inning.

Standing six feet four and 99-100 inches in his stocking feet and winding up a left arm as long as a flail, Eppa had the home boys completely at his mercy. Although so recently from the halls of the University of Virginia that he still wears his frat pin on his pajamas, Rixey not only turned loose a lot of pitching stuff but used it in a way that belied the fact he had worked in only five professional games previous to yesterday's.

Eppa Rixey "Has Everything."

He had a fast ball that came down from somewhere like a daring volplaner, a curve that swooped down over the plate as unexpectedly as a chicken hawk in a barnyard, and an occasional slow boy that looked as big as a grapefruit and turned into a mustard seed. This stock of goods Jephtha mixed up with a versatility that indicated the utter absence of ivory and also stood the Cubs on their figurative heads.

For eight innings Archer was the proud and deservedly chesty possessor of the only safe hit made off the collegian. That was a regular two base hit in the third inning. Nine of the Cubs, right and left handers alike, were set down on strikes by the giant southpaw, and two men walked. Chicago had less chance to score on him than it has for universal transfers.

Once the Cubs tried bunting on Rixey, under the impression it was so far from his shoulders to the ground that he would tire himself all out reaching for bunts. Once it looked as if Eppa had lost his moorings and was due to blow up with a loud explosion. That was when he started the eighth by giving Leach four straight bad balls and pitching three more of them in succession to Saier. But Rixey was merely kidding. He crossed Saier with three straight strikes, fanning Vic for the third time in succession, and completed the inning by striking out the whole side.

Cubs Threaten in Ninth.

In fact, Rixey was all to the Alpha Eppa Kappa, and also the Phi Chi Omega, up to the ninth. Then, with one gone, the Cubs annexed two safe hits, tripling their output in a jiffy. It did not matter, for Rixey turned on the volplaner again and completed the whitewash, getting Slugger Zim for his final victim.

Aside from Eppa, himself something of a freak, the game was full of them. Paskert was made the recipient of a home run which broke the west side freak record. In the third inning Paskert pulled a fast one between Tinker and Zimmy. Sheckard raced across in a desperate effort to hold it down to a single. He reached for the ball on the bound, but could not connect. Instead, the hit landed on his toe, and he made as perfect a drop kick as ever did an Eckersall or a Poe, booting the ball squarely between the uprights of the grandstand into the left field seats. It was a screamer, and everybody except the Cubs had to laugh.

Rixey was the medium of another freak play. In the seventh Tinker timed a bender and soaked it back at Eppa on the line. The pitcher ducked and turned his back. The ball struck him on the shoulder blade with a thud that could be heard in the county hospital and ricochetted off toward Knabe. Otto was so flabbergasted that he fell down on all fours scrambling for the hit, but got up in time to retire Tinker at first. Everybody laughed but Tinker, who wanted that hit.

Killifer started that inning behind the bat without his mask, and the crowd was the first to notice it. Schulte was at bat and, fortunately, did not send any of those foul tips for which he is famous hurtling against Killifer's map; otherwise, his own family never would have recognized it.

Phillies Try to Dope Ball.

The Phillies tried their despicable gag of doping the ball so as to put out of commission James Sanford Lavender, alias Jimmy, who started the game against them. They worked it on O'Toole a spell ago and caused Marty much inconvenience. Sometime between the time Killifer caught the third strike on Saier at the end of the second inning and the time Lavender picked up the same ball to warm up for the third period, a double dose of fiery liniment was smeared on the ball. The purpose was to get some of the burning stuff into Lavender's mouth when he wet his fingers to produce his moist deceiver. The plot failed, for the Cubs were on the watch for it.

Lavender noticed the foreign stuff on the ball, turned it over to Cap Tinker, who in turn showed the sphere to Rigler. The umpire gingerly sniffed at the ball a couple of times and threw it away. Then he walked over to the bench and gave Manager Dooin a few pointers on sportsmanship, combined with a threat or two as to what would happen if the trick was tried here again. Manager Chance from a position at the home plate also relieved himself of a burning idea or two concerning this kind of inside baseball.

As Rigler returned to the plate Dooin shot some burning language at his back. The umpire wheeled and fired Red out of the game. There was more burning oratory before the manager left the battlefield, and all the way out to the club house he and Cap Tinker indulged in a verbal duel that scorched the grass.

Although a perfectly clean new ball was given Lavender, this episode, so distasteful to the feelings of a southern gentleman and to any man who deals his cards above the table, apparently had its effect. The Phillies smashed out three long hits in that half inning, including Paskert's freak home run, and drove Jimmy from the slab.

Visitors Score in First.

The first tally was made in the opener. Paskert was passed. Lobert singled and was doubled up with Magee on the latter's smash to Tinker. Paskert perched on third and scored when Cravath bumped the first of his two doubles into right. Paskert opened up in the third with that drop kicked home run. Lobert skied out, but Magee and Cravath followed with doubles, scoring the former.

Lavender gave way to Richie in the fourth, and Lew held the visitors to five hits in the remaining six innings. Two of these got together in the sixth and gave the Phillies their fourth tally, with the help of a run out between first and second bases.

AGLER TO GET $40 FROM CUBS.

Salary Claim for $120 Reduced by Advance of $80—Despain Draws Fine of $200.

Cincinnati, O., July 19.—The national baseball commission promulgated a finding today, directing the Chicago National league club to forward $40 to Secretary Bruce for transmission to Player Joseph Agler in full settlement of his claim for salary.

Agler was released by Chicago to Jersey City early in April, recalled by direction of the commission and later transferred to Atlanta. The player submitted a claim of $120 for salary. The Chicago club presented a counter claim of $80 advanced to Agler while in its service. The commission allowed both claims.

Donald D. Despain, former president of the Lincoln Western league club, was fined $200 for violating the letter and spirit of the national agreement while a member of that league. Evidence was submitted which indicated that Despain had signed an agreement to pay Gagnier, at the close of the season of 1911, $25 a month in excess of the salary stipulated by his regular 1911 contract, in violation of the salary limit of the Western league.

Rixey also made a base hit in the fifth. It was a clean one to left, and he required only nine steps to cover the ninety feet to first base.

Rixey recently has blanked Boston and beaten Cincinnati 2 to 1. Before that he had worked in only parts of two games.

Smearing liniment on a baseball belongs to a lower class of sculduggery than the infamous buzzer batting signal bureau, which also was a product of Philadelphia sportsmanship.

With the score 4 to 0 against us, Needham was sent to bat for Richie in the last half, but grounded to Knabe. Sheckard peeled off a single. Schulte lofted out and Tinker singled. It was up to Zim, who hadn't a hit to show for his day's work. Zim poked a warm one at Doolan for the final out.

Saier made a great play to get Killifer in the ninth after the runner apparently had got away from the Cubs through Tinker's muff of a throw. Joe recovered the ball and tossed it to Saier just as Killifer was skittering past him close to first base. Vic caught the ball and dived after the runner, tagging him and falling to the ground.

Sheckard drew the first pass Rixey issued at the start of the first Cub round. Schulte sacrificed and Sheckard started to sneak up for a steal of third, but they wised Rixey and he trapped Jimmy off second. The next time the Cubs had a chance to count was when Archer doubled with one out in the third. Rixey struck out Pinch Hitter Cotter and Sheckard.

Paskert was on first, with one out, in the fifth, and overran second base on Lobert's long fly to Sheckard. On the way back to first Paskert omitted the formality of retouching second base. The Cubs claimed the point, but Finneran had been watching the play in left field and would not allow the out. On Thursday Finneran turned his back on Doolan and let Mike cut first base on a double to left. It's an important part of the field umpire's job to watch the base runners, and it is up to the other umps to see where batted balls go.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 19.—Cobb's batting again featured the double header, in which Detroit won the first game, 8 to 6, and Philadelphia the second, 14 to 6. In the first game Cobb made three singles and two home runs out of five times at bat, his second four bagger winning the game. In the second game he made a single and a triple, giving him seven successive hits for a total of fifteen bases. Detroit fielded poorly in both games. Scores:

BOSTON LEADERS BEAT SOX TWICE

Cicotte Goes Twelve Rounds in Second Session Against Heavy Odds.

SCORES 8 TO 0 AND 2 TO 1.

Medley of Errors and Failure to Hit When Needed Dissipate Only Chances.

BY SAM WELLER.

Boston, Mass., July 19.—[Special.]—Those rampant Red Sox played baseball like champions today and took both battles of a double header from the struggling White Sox. The first one was a snap, 8 to 0, with Ray Collins pitching against Joe Benz, but the second was a battle royal which went to the red hosed boys, 2 to 1, in twelve innings, with Hugh Bedient slabbing against his former teammate, Eddie Cicotte.

When it was all over the Boston management was at least convinced that it had disposed of a dandy pitcher, for Cicotte was the hero of the day, although beaten. He gave a wonderful exhibition of pitching and was applauded time after time for his gallant work. It was no fault of Cicotte that he was licked, for he was given about the most bunglesome support that it would be possible to give a pitcher and still keep the team in the fight for the game.

The men behind Cicotte made seven blunders. He pitched himself out of every hole except one. Two mistakes bunched in the second inning gave the Red Hose an undeserved run. They should not have counted at all until the twelfth, when they really earned the winning run.

White Sox Weak with Bat.

On the other hand, the Sox had numerous opportunities to put over tallies and failed miserably because of weak batting. The one run they did get was a gift. At least five other times when they could have scored with a base hit they could not produce the hit. Young Mr. Bedient had sparkling support except in the one inning in which the Sox counted.

The White Sox were so terribly weak in hitting in the first game that Manager Callahan made another shakeup between games. He took out Jacques Fournier, put Jack Collins back on first base, and sent Matty McIntyre to the outfield. Still the hitting was light, although it did show a bit of improvement.

One may know that something is wrong when a substitute batter is sent in for Ping Bodie, something that hadn't been done since the fence buster became a regular. But Ping hadn't made a hit in three games and had fanned six times, so in the twelfth inning of the second game Rollie Zeider was sent in to hit for him. A sacrifice hit was wanted, and Zeider is a better bunter than Bodie.

Cicotte in Hard Luck.

Five times in the first nine innings of the second game Cicotte was placed in a bad hole by blunders on the part of his mates. In four of the five he pitched himself out. Not a hit was made off him until the sixth inning. Then Gardner hit one for three bases with only one man out. Cicotte pitched himself out of that hole. In the seventh and eighth the first man up got a single. In both instances Cicotte got himself out by his splendid pitching. Again in the tenth the first man hit safely, but no one got beyond second base. Besides displaying a lot of "stuff" in his pitching the little slab artist gave a great exhibition of fielding his position with one putout and nine assists during the game.

There was more action in the twelfth inning than in any other three, for both teams had a chance to score. The Sox got the first man on when Shano Collins hit safely over second. Zeider batted for Bodie and sacrificed. McIntyre followed with a terrific line drive to center field, but Tris Speaker ran back like a race horse and pulled it down. Then Weaver, who already had made three singles, died on a fly to right field.

Carrigan was first up in the last round for Boston and lifted a fly to Mattick, who had replaced Bodie. Bedient connected for a Texas leaguer to right center for a single. After Cicotte had two strikes on Hooper the speedy outfielder lammed one squarely on the nose and it went to the fence in right center. Bedient traveled home from first base, while Hooper rounded second base, then turned off to the clubhouse.

First Game Easy for Boston.

In the first game the White Sox gave just as bad an exhibition of fielding as in the second, but the home team batted the curves of Joe Benz hard enough to have won by a big margin, while the Chicagoans couldn't score at all on Ray Collins.

It was a bright and cool day, and another big crowd of 15,000 persons was out to take advantage of the bargain matinée, and, so far as could be seen, no one left until that great second battle was finished.

The White Sox got two singles in the opening round of the first game, but their base running went amiss, so no runs counted. Rath started with a single. Callahan tried to hit instead of bunt. He hit the ball on a line, but Speaker got it. Lord singled to right, sending Rath to third. After Collins died on a pop fly Lord and Rath started a double steal. Rath never got away and Lord was run down.

In the second round the Sox handed Boston a run. Gardner led off with an infield single. Stahl bounded one straight at Lord. With a possible double play in sight, the Sox captain fumbled the ball, both men being safe. Wagner sacrificed. Carrigan bounced one to Lord, who started to shoot home, but fell. He got up in time to get Carrigan at first, but Gardner had scored. Ray Collins walked. Weaver made a great scoop of Hooper's smash to deep short, and shot to second in time to force R. Collins.

The Sox defense was bad in the third, and this with a timely swat gave Boston two runs. One was out when Speaker drew a base on balls after two strikes and no balls had been called. Lewis followed with a smash to Weaver back of third. "Buck" made a heave to first that was too late and also too low, and it caromed off of Fournier's hands into right field. Lewis got to second, and Speaker all the way home. Gardner grounded out, putting Lewis on third.

Then Stahl outguessed Benz and connected with a fast one for a single to center, scoring Lewis. Benz tried to pick Stahl off first, and made a wild throw, letting Jake go to third. Wagner obliged with a fly to J. Collins which retired the side.

Some erratic pitching by Benz and some more bad fielding helped by one base hit gave Boston two more in the fifth. With one out, Speaker walked and stole second. Lewis walked. Gardner singled to left, scoring Speaker. Lewis stopped at second. Stahl rolled one to Lord, who fumbled again, and the bases were filled. Wagner slapped one to Rath, who fumbled long enough to kill the chance for a double play. He got Wagner at first, but Lewis scored.

Another misplay by Capt. Lord gave Boston an opening in the seventh. Two runs resulted. Lewis bounded one to Lord, who made a wide throw to first that pulled Fournier off the bag. Gardner singled to right and took second on Bodie's throw. Stahl flied to J. Collins and Lewis scored after the catch. Wagner caromed a single off Benz' toes, scoring Gardner.

The Red Sox got one off Bell, who relieved Benz, by good base running in the eighth. Hooper singled and Yerkes flied out. Speaker walked. Lewis flied to Bodie and Hooper took third after the catch. Hooper and Speaker then executed a double steal, the former scoring.

Second Game Same Old Story.

The White Sox continued their bunglesome fielding in the second game and presented Boston with a run in the second round. Lewis was safe on Weaver's fumble. Gardner grounded out to Rath. Stahl walked. Wagner cut a hot one to Weaver, and a double play should have resulted, but Weaver fumbled again, and all were safe, filling the bases. Carrigan grounded out to Weaver and Lewis scored. Bedient fanned, ending the round.

The Sox started a brilliant attack in the fourth, then fizzled out. Callahan began with a single. Lord followed with a smash inside of first for a double, sending Cal to third. Cal should have scored, but thought Gleason, coaching at third, signaled a foul and came to a stop at second base, then had to scoot on to third. With men on second and third and none out it looked rosy. Collins died on a short fly to left. Bodie fanned. McIntyre was passed. Weaver ended it when Bedient stopped his smash and tossed it to first.

In the fifth the Sox got a run, tying the score. Sullivan reached second when Wagner heaved to the stand. Cicotte bunted and was safe at first on Bedient's bad peg, Sullivan going to third. Rath tapped to the pitcher and was out at first, Cicotte going to second and Sully staying at third. Callahan bunted along the third base line and "Sully" tried to score, but was caught at the plate. Cicotte took third on the play. Callahan started to steal second and Carrigan's peg was bad, Wagner dropping it as Cicotte scooted home. Cal was trapped, however, between first and second.

Buck Weaver opened the tenth for Chicago with a smash inside of third base and tried to make a double off it, but a wonderful throw from foul ground by Lewis nipped the young Sox by a hair at second. Hooper opened the tenth for the home team with a single, but when Yerkes bounced one to Cicotte, Hooper was forced at second. The next two grounded out and saved trouble.

SAM WELLERISMS.

Boston, Mass., July 19.—[Special.]—The White Sox-Red Sox combats wind up tomorrow with one game. Ed Walsh is booked to pitch against Joe Wood.

Capt. Lord did not have anything on Buck Weaver in foozling the ball today. The captain got three boots in the first game and Buck the same number in the second.

Ed Walsh has his motor car here and took some of the boys out for a fifty mile spin this morning. Ed will motor to Meriden after tomorrow's game and will spend Sunday at home.

Boston's outfield showed great class in the series against the White Sox. Duffy Lewis made two wonderful plays today, once when he caught a tremendous drive by Callahan while lying on his back on the left field terrace and once when he went to foul ground and got Weaver's hit and shot him dead at second. Hooper caught a foul fly by Sullivan in the second game within a foot of the stand, bumping against the wall after getting the ball. Speaker saved the game by a sparkling running catch of McIntyre's drive in the twelfth.

Where society is gathered for games means there also will be dinners given. Mr. and Mrs. William R. Linn with their party of twenty will have one of the largest dinner groups of the evening. N. B. Judah Jr. is to have fourteen guests and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brown, who have returned from their honeymoon journey within the fortnight, also will have fourteen. F. H. Scott, B. Walker, J. T. Pirie Jr., W. S. Gaylord, G. H. Taylor, C. C. Adsit, Stewart Johnson, H. J. Bryant, Mrs. Thomas Prindiville, and W. P. Martin each have engaged tables for dinner parties also, the companies ranging in size from three to twelve. Following the feasting there will be an informal dance.

The Lake Forest open air horse show is to be a late summer event—or perhaps it might better be termed an early fall event this year. As in former years, it will be held on the grounds of the Onwentsia club and Arthur Meeker again is president of the association. This year Joseph Cudahy is the secretary, Laurance Armour assistant secretary, and Edward S. Moore treasurer. J. O. Heyworth is the chairman of the grounds and transportation committee, with Arthur Bissell in charge of the music plans. J. Dorr Bradley is scheduled to preside over the ring and Frederic McLaughlin will be chairman of the polo class arrangements. Mrs. Mark Cummings is chairman of the committee on decorations and Mrs. Samuel Chase has been put in control of two of the divisions of the preliminary work of the show—the decorated vehicles (yearly one of the children's features) and the children's saddle class events. Mrs. Prentiss Coonley is chairman of the arrangements for the ladies' saddle class events.

Miss Gertrude Tenk of Quincy was the maid of honor and Rudolph Starmann of Lincoln, Neb., was the best man. A reception at the family residence followed. The bride's gown was of embroidered batiste combined with charmeuse satin and trimmed in Valenciennes lace. Instead of a veil the bride wore a large picture hat of white trimmed in French plumes and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Interest in Ice Fund Continues to Grow.

WITH presidents of big packing industries and children at lemonade stands working to increase THE TRIBUNE ice fund, the work bids for great success.

Up to the present time no less than five little "firms" of lemonade and popcorn dispensers have contributed their earnings to help the poor babies of the tenement districts. President Louis F. Swift of Swift & Co. has given a carload of ice, and another benefactor wrote yesterday inquiring what facilities there were for distributing a carload of ice which he intended to give.

Still another way of helping boost the ice fund was started during the day by P. B. Moseman of Joliet, Ill., who sent in a Knickerbocker company book containing unused coupons which called for 150 pounds of ice.

The Knickerbocker company has agreed to give full credit to THE TRIBUNE fund for any paid up books that may be given to the ice fund.

Honor for Prof. E. B. Frost.

LONDON, July 19.—Prof. Edwin B. Frost of the University of Chicago was the recipient of the degree of doctor of science at Cambridge university today in connection with the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Royal society.

Find Chicago Women Wear 'Socks' in Summer.

CHICAGO women have been wearing socks—men's socks—all summer. Neither St. Louis nor Berlin can claim credit for establishing this novelty in the fashions—at least Chicago women say so and the reports of the largest stores on State street bear them out.

Following yesterday's reports from St. Louis that the city at the other end of the drainage canal had "started something" in the wearing of socks by women, inquiry showed that Chicago women had long ago adopted the new mode and that today hundreds are wearing the abbreviated stockings. The fact is not known generally—unless a strong wind comes up—but it is true, just the same. Furthermore, they are wearing men's garters.

At one big store it was declared by the manager of the hosiery department there had been a strong demand for sox by women since the warm spell started.

"We have sold several hundred pair of sox to women this summer," he said. "At first we thought the women were merely making purchases for their husbands, but they also bought men's garters and we knew that the fad was on."

Other department stores had the same comment to make. It was easily shown Chicago women have decided that during the heated spell socks are much more comfortable than the regulation length hose.

One woman who has been wearing short length hose all summer said yesterday they are much more comfortable and more economical.

"I have been buying short hose all summer," she declared, "and I don't think any one knows that I have been wearing them, and my skirt is short length at that. I find that the socks are much more comfortable than the usual full length stockings—even than the silk ones. I know many girl friends who are wearing socks and for the summertime we would not change for anything."

According to the clerks at the department stores and haberdasheries, the women who purchase socks are always careful to explain that they are for "husband or brother." But the secret comes out when the size of the socks are mentioned.

"And every time I smile when a woman buys a pair of socks of a small size," declared one clerk, "the woman usually blushes and then I know just who she is purchasing them for."

Real Gold Thread Stockings.

New York, July 19.—According to a fashion paper women's stockings made from real gold thread and silk are to be the proper thing abroad this season. They come from Vienna and cost $25 a pair. Another novelty will be black or white silk stockings which, above the ankles, will be worked in elaborate designs, such as a peacock with its tail outstretched, in gorgeous colors. To enable these embellishments to be visible shorter skirts are to be insisted upon by the dressmakers, it is announced.

Evanston Women for Clean Foods.

The women of Evanston believe they have solved the problem of procuring clean foods.

The Woman's club of that city, composed of more than 500 members, has appointed a sanitary food committee to inspect the groceries, markets, soda fountains, and fruit and candy stores.

Any infraction of the sanitary laws is reported to the Commercial club of Evanston, which is composed almost entirely of merchants, and if no cognizance is taken of the complaint the merchant in question realizes he is threatened with the loss of the trade of the members of the Woman's club. This has served to give Evanston, the women think, clean and sanitary stores.

The sanitary committee is composed of Mrs. W. M. Turner, Mrs. Frank Geroul, Mrs. John Quilliams, Mrs. E. A. Fargo, Mrs. A. H. Gross, Mrs. John Long, Mrs. Sherman Kingsley, and Mrs. C. E. Clifton, president of the club.

Desplaines Campmeeting Entertains Young Today.

THIS is Young People's day at the Desplaines campmeeting. As large a crowd as attended Woman's day on Thursday is expected. A special train will be run at 1:30 o'clock, which will carry the large number of young people, but they will go out to the campground on all the trains.

For a month the Epworth leagues of the city and suburbs have been arousing interest in the day. It is believed the largest Epworth league rally in years will result.

Special prayer for young people will characterize the early 6 o'clock consecration meeting. Dr. Ostrom will speak at 10:30 o'clock on "Choosing an Occupation." At 1 o'clock "convention hour" will start and a conference will be held on city work. At 2 o'clock the principal address of the day will be given by the Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Sheridan, general secretary of the Epworth league of the Methodist Episcopal church. At 4 o'clock Dr. E. S. Dunham will lead a Pentecostal service. The young people's meeting at 6:30 o'clock will be given to music and personal testimonials. The program includes selections by the Craven quartet, violin and cornet solos.

Important announcements for future services include the substitution of the Rev. Dr. T. P. Frost, pastor First Methodist Episcopal church, Evanston, for Bishop W. F. McDowell as the preacher for tomorrow morning. Bishop McDowell will preach on Tuesday morning.

The Rev. Dr. W. F. Oldham, corresponding secretary of the board of foreign missions, will preach on Friday. Dr. Oldham was for years known as Bishop Oldham of India. He voluntarily resigned the office of bishop at the meeting of the recent general conference of the Methodist church.

Suffragists Plan for Petition Day.

As soon as Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch returns from her campaign through Wisconsin she and others of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association will set a date for observing Petition day. The women who are planning to get 100,000 signatures of voters are finding they have something of an undertaking before them. This does not mean, however, that they are not progressing with their work.

In the Seventh ward women take their stand at the church doors on Sundays, with the consent of the pastors, and get signers. The Rev. M. P. Boynton of the Lexington Avenue Baptist church last Sunday preached on suffrage and the number of men signing the petitions later was large. Two Catholic churches have given their consent to the presence of the women at the doors. The Woodlawn Presbyterian church also has allowed them to pursue their work there.

Dr. Boynton in his address said: "The assumption of the inequality of the rights of women is purely a male assumption and reflects no credit upon man's judgment."

Feast of Tabernacles at Zion City.

Zion City's feast of tabernacles, an annual observance of the Christian Catholic Apostolic church, has brought thousands to Zion City, where Wilbur Glenn Voliva, the general overseer, and the elders have been preaching in Shiloh tabernacle. Twenty-two states are represented by visitors and some came from Canada. The largest and most important service of the feast will be held tomorrow afternoon. The white robed choir of 350 will be part of the attraction. The general overseer will preach.

Condemns Way Women Dress.

Greeley, Colo., July 19.—[Special.]—Dr. G. Stanley Hall, noted psychologist and president of Clark university of Worcester, Mass., declared tonight in a lecture at the Colorado Normal school that the immodesty of woman's dress by arousing sex consciousness undoubtedly was the impelling motive in the recent New York and Denver shootings in which women were the victims.

Cleveland, O., July 19.—[Special.]—Inharmonious conditions, which caused Miss Mary E. Rudd, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, to sever her connection as one of the secretaries of the Young Women's Christian association, may result in Mr. Rockefeller ceasing to be a generous contributor to the institution. To date Rockefeller has given upward of $75,000 to the institution.

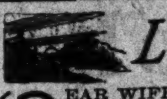
Speaks on American Life.

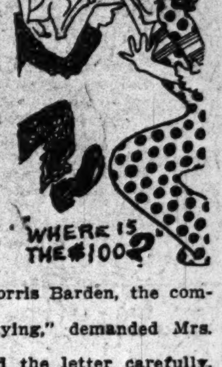
The course of open lectures arranged for Sinai temple will be continued each Sunday at 11 a. m. in July and August. This Sunday Prof. Albion Small of the University of Chicago will speak on "Some Factors in American Life." The lecture will be preceded by an organ recital by Arthur Dunham. Doors are open to all.



Lights and Shadows of the Day.

"DEAR WIFE: New York is a bad city and I have had troubles. A pocket pick stole my purse and I am broke, all but a little small change. So send me $100 by next mail so I can come home. Mail the money quick because I must eat. With best regards and hoping you are the same. Your affectionate.

"HARRY ALBERT."



WHERE IS THE $100?

Albert, in New York, wrote the above letter painfully and with much anguish of spirit about four weeks ago. In due time it reached his better half at the Albert residence at 1306 Waller street. But unfortunately it was written in Yiddish and Mrs. Albert is not familiar with that language. The only thing she could make out in the epistle was the "$100."

After much cogitation she took the letter to Morris Barden, the community interpreter.

"What is my man saying," demanded Mrs. Albert.

Barden, she says, read the letter carefully. Then he stated:

"This is plain. Your man has been lucky in New York. His business has been good. He wants you to give me $100 to buy him another horse. He says you can use it to go driving on Sundays."

Much pleased with the idea of a driving horse Mrs. Albert went to the family strong box and extracted $100. She turned it over to Barden.

Meanwhile Albert was waiting to hear from his wife. No letter came. His money ran out. At last hunger compelled him to turn his face homeward. He arrived in Chicago a few days ago. He had come on the under side of a box car. He was dirty, dishevelled and starving when he reached the Albert residence.

"Wife," he demanded in a terrible voice, "where is the $100 I asked you for."

"The $100," answered the woman, "I gave to Barden to buy a horse."

Thus the alleged duplicity of the interpreter was revealed. Yesterday Albert and his wife told their stories to Judge Walker and the court held Barden to the grand jury under bonds of $800.

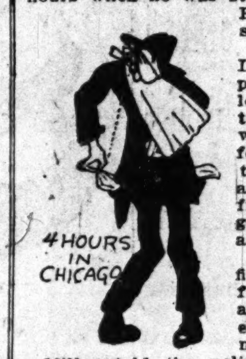
WILLIAM MILLER, who is a machinist from Centralia, Ill., will have a hard luck story to tell the folks when he is able to return home. He arrived in Chicago at 7 o'clock yesterday morning with $200. He had been in the city only four hours when he was struck by a street car at Polk and South State streets.



When taken to St. Luke's hospital by the police it was found Miller's left arm was fractured. After his injury was attended to and he felt more at ease he thought of his money and reached to take it from his pocket. It was gone and in its place was a wad of tissue paper.

The police were notified of this additional feature of the accident and went to work in an effort to find the lost money.

Miller told the police he was positive he had the money when he arrived in Chicago. He said he had heard of pickpockets, but never had known of a case before where the thief put something back in the place of that which he had taken.

A MOTHER-IN-LAW must support her daughter-in-law and the children—in case her son cannot be found to do the supporting. This is the law, but Mrs. Bertha Jarolien, who lives at 1729 West Fifteenth street, has a hard time in keeping her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Jarolien, 733 West Taylor street, complying with it. From Feb. 10 to May 3, mother-in-law obeyed court orders and paid $4 a week to daughter-in-law and the four grandchildren regularly. Then she suddenly stopped the weekly payments. Daughter-in-law went to court for the second time to complain. Judge Owens yesterday refused to cause the arrest of the grandparent. He said he would write her a letter instead.

Two years ago Joseph Jarolien, son of Mrs. Mary Jarolien, deserted his wife and their four small children. The wife then began sewing in a tailor shop. She could earn only $4 a week—not nearly enough to support herself and the four children. Then she took advantage of the law which makes the grandparents liable for the support of the grandchildren—when the parents are not competent, by complaining in court on Feb. 3. Her complaints were sustained.

The mother-in-law, who has an income from the rentals of two buildings at 733 West Taylor street, and only herself to support, was directed to help provide for her grandchildren. This she did up to two months ago. Now the grandparent contends that she has a mortgage on her property and cannot afford to keep up the payments.

On the other hand the daughter-in-law says she owes two months' rent, is in debt to her sister, and is unable to earn even the $4 a week in the tailor shop as she used to do because she can get no work.

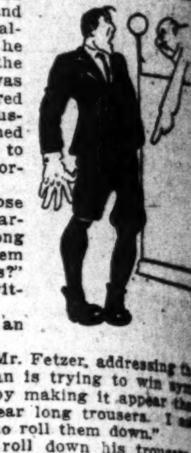
HALE O'RILEY, who lives at 3110 South Michigan avenue, and says he is 17 years old, was compelled to assume the dignity of a man and wear his trousers "long" in the Court of Domestic Relations yesterday.



O'Riley was charged with contributing to the delinquency of Anna Waugh, who is 17 and lives at 3701 South Halsted street. When he took his place on the witness stand he was wearing what appeared to be knee length trousers. Miss Waugh leaned over and whispered to Assistant State's Attorney Fetzer:

"Isn't it true those trousers you are wearing are in reality long and that you have them rolled up to your knees?" Mr. Fetzer asked the witness.

O'Riley stammered an affirmative reply.

"Your honor," said Mr. Fetzer, addressing the court, "this young man is trying to win sympathy from the jury by making it appear that he is too young to wear long trousers. I ask that he be compelled to roll them down."

"The witness may roll down his trousers," said the court. O'Riley did so. He is a singer in moving picture theaters and the evidence showed he first met Miss Waugh at one of these places. He induced her to leave home. The jury found him guilty and Judge Gemmill will fix the penalty today. A similar charge has been preferred against Mrs. Catherine O'Riley, the boy's mother.

BECAUSE she persisted in proposing to him at every opportunity Herman Berg of Evanston, an employé of the United States Express company, had Hannah Siol, who lives at 1203 Michigan avenue, arrested, and she was arraigned before Police Magistrate John F. Boyer yesterday.

"Not only did she follow me about the streets and ask for my hand in marriage," said Berg in court, "but on Tuesday night her passion reached such a height that she endeavored to choke a young lady when she met us in a street car whom I was escorting home. And believe me, it's embarrassing."

"How old are you, Hannah?" asked the judge.

"Thirty-two."

"Ever had a beau?"

"No."

"Then why this sudden outbreak?"

"Well," answered Hannah, "there's spirits knocking—knocking at my heart all the time. They are trying to break in and they tell me that Herman needs me and so I go to him."

"Gentlemen," said the judge, addressing the crowd in the back benches, "I confess I am baffled. Hannah can't have Herman, evidently, and if any one of you gentlemen would like to take his place——" the rest of his remarks were lost in the shuffle of the exodus that followed.

"Leap year is too much for you, I am afraid," said the judge to the defendant. "I shall put you under peace bonds for six months and you must promise to leave Berg alone."

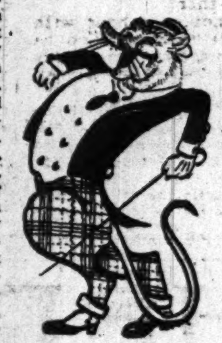
THE Chicago postal authorities are discouraged over their attempt to get rid of the rats infesting the Jackson park substation. The animals appeared some time ago and complaint was made to Col. Steward, general superintendent of city delivery.

"I'm not the city rat catcher," said the colonel. "Catch 'em yourself or get a cat."



The substation superintendent said nothing, but he thought a good deal. Yesterday he sent Col. Steward the wrapper of a package, the contents of which the rats had made away with. The colonel looked at the printing on it and groaned. The parcel had once contained a considerable quantity of health restorative.

"Those rats will be so strong they can lick any cat we send down," he said. "Abandon the chase."

Consequently any rat needing a home may find one at the Jackson Park substation.

J. LAWRENCE MOTT III. CAUGHT AFTER CHASE AROUND WORLD.

Heir to Millions Stopped in Hongkong by Fuller, Who Followed Him from New York.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

HONGKONG, July 19.—Hector Fuller, once a war correspondent, who has been trailing J. Lawrence Mott III., heir to the millions left by his grandfather, founder of the Mott iron works of New York, overtook young Mott here today.

Fuller was engaged at a high salary as a kind of guardian for Mott, but the latter gave him the slip and shipped from New York as purser on the tramp steamship Indradeo, bound for China, on May 18. On the same ship there sailed an actress, wife of a wealthy Long Island man. She had booked as stewardess and Mott as purser to evade the anti-passenger carrying laws.

Fuller gave chase and arrived at successive ports in the Mediterranean, the Red sea, and the Indian ocean only a few hours behind his quarry. It is uncertain, however, what he can do with his man, now that he has caught him. Mott says he is going to settle in Japan.

THROWS PORK CHOPS AT WIFE.

Then Richard Hughes Goes Home to His Mother and Lands in Court.

Richard Hughes, who lives at 1221 East Sixty-second street, was fined $200 and costs by Municipal Judge Newcomer yesterday. His wife, Mrs. Frances Hughes, told the court he beat her, threw pork chops at her, and then left her penniless and went home to his mother. The pork chops were the principal bones of contention.

"On Wednesday he left me 15 cents when he started for work and told me to have his supper prepared when he returned home," said Mrs. Hughes. "I had pork chops cooked for him when he came home. He threw them in my hair and struck me. I gave him no cause."

Louis Hoffman Tells Judge Dicker He Was Forced to "Run for His Life."

Beaten, bitten, and kicked by two women, one of whom weighs nearly 200 pounds, was the experience of Louis Hoffman, 323 Loomis street, last Monday morning, he told Municipal Judge Dicker yesterday. He accused Mrs. Mary Meyers and her mother, Mrs. Clara Hannah, 1153 Washington boulevard. Hoffman told the judge he was forced to "run for his life."

A charge of disorderly conduct against Mrs. Meyers was dismissed after the court had warned her he would fine her $100 if she "did not let Hoffman alone."

Mrs. Hannah was not arrested. She was in court as a witness.

STOLE TO FEED FAMILY; FREED.

John Redding's Plea of Need and Eight Children Touches Judge Caverly's Heart.

A man who stole in order to provide food for his eight hungry children was freed by Municipal Judge Caverly yesterday. The man is John Redding, who lives at 914 Sedgwick street, and was charged with stealing a phonograph, which he sold for $2.

"I've been out of work, judge, and my eight children were hungry," Redding said. "I bought food with the money I got for the phonograph. I'm guilty, but what is a man in my circumstances going to do? I tramped around looking for work until my feet were sore."

"You are discharged," said the court.

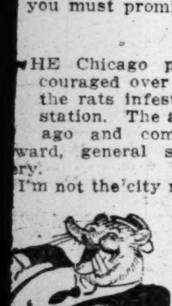
HE Chicago postal authorities are discouraged over their attempt to get rid of the rats infesting the Jackson park substation. The animals appeared some time ago and complaint was made to Col. ward, general superintendent of city de- ry.

I'm not the city rat catcher," said the colonel. "Catch 'em yourself or get a cat."



The substation superindent said nothing, but he thought a good deal. Yesterday he sent Col. Steward the wrapper of a package, the contents of which the rats had made away with. The colonel looked at the printing on it and groaned. The parcel had once contained a considerable quantity of health restorative.

"Those rats will be so strong they can lick any cat we send down," he said. "Abandon the se."

onsequently any rat needing a home may one at the Jackson Park substation.

Marion Harland's Helping Hand.

By Marion Harland

Our Week End Helping Hand.

Wants Cylinder Records.

"I WRITE asking if you should know of any one having cylinder records for the Edison phonograph which they have no use for? I should be most grateful to receive them, no matter how old. My [illegible] has been very ill with nervous prostration for two years, compelling me to take a position on which I am on duty from 10 p. m. to 6:30 a. m. I regret to say there are times when I could play a few pieces to brighten both him and my little ones with less effort than I [illegible] to force a smile, as Iam usually tired and [illegible] often a little silent when I reach home. My [illegible] child, a bright little girl of 9, trying to [illegible] mamma's place, destroyed from time to [illegible] what of the records we had left.

"MRS. M. D."

Note, please, that the request is for records and not for the phonograph itself. That is already in the house the toiling wife would have given for the shutin. There must be some that are not in active use in a home and which could be easily spared.

Offering of Magazine.

"I have six copies of the Nautilus, a new thought magazine for 1910; also the Progress magazine for 1909. If any one desires them and will send postage for them, or if in my city, will call, I shall gladly give them.

"MARY A. R."

It is a Kansas City member who tenders the magazine. They will find appreciative readers among our constituents, many of whom are like minded with the donor.

Dress Form Needed.

"I am a poor woman left with three small children. I am trying to make a living for them by sewing. I can sew well and fit well, but it is difficult to fit a dress without a dress form. Could any of your many readers supply me with one, preferably size 34, but 36 or 38 will do?

"MARY T."

One of our mottoes we never let slide out of sight is, "We help those who want to help themselves." This is a case in point—so sharp a point we cannot miss it. Has a dressmaker whose name is on our roll a form that she will donate to the sister craftswoman?

Theatrical Magazines Given.

"Thank you for helping me to give my theatrical magazines where they would be appreciated. 'Miss H.' received them from me.

"I now have a number of New Thought magazines. They are fine, and any one who really cares for them is welcome to them. How much happiness your Helping Hand dispenses!

"M. L. T."

When women of willing minds lend impetus to the Hand, it cannot fall short of dispensing magazines.

Your New Thought magazines are increasingly popular. We thank you for putting them into circulation through the Corner.

I am glad you found a pleased recipient of the other batch of magazines.

Gets Package of Patterns.

"I received the package of Battenberg patterns yesterday. Thank you very much. I was much pleased with them. CLARA S."

An echo that falls pleasantly upon the ear. Now and then we pause to catch one as it passes. It is a tonic.

Will Send Out Poem.

Constant readers and those who know a good thing when they see it will tender me a vote of thanks for inserting the following letter. Tone and subject matter go well with "Old Glory."

"Some time ago I wrote to ask you whether I could obtain a copy of 'Old Glory' from some member of your Corner. I was made very happy when I received the inclosed kind and interesting letter from one of the members. I am grateful for her kindness in copying 'Old Glory' and for sending this to me. There is no limit to the good, splendid work that your blessed Corner is doing everywhere. I shall send copies of 'Old Glory' to three shutins, to a boys' club, and to several boys living on farms in the far west.

"ELLEN D. K."

Girl Hopes for Camera.

"I have a little daughter 13 years old who is living with her grandmother in Norway. Three years ago I was home on a visit and I promised her a folding camera when she got bigger and able to understand how to work it. We agreed upon the thirteenth birthday. This little girl has looked forward with the hope of a 'sure thing' to be sent to her on that day. There may be some one who has a camera he is not using. Bad luck, sickness, and other things have gone against me, so I cannot send her the camera. She will be sad and disappointed. I am sure this girl will gladly send pictures from the land of the midnight sun to the donor when she is clever enough to work the camera. O. J. B."

The camera that is to redeem the mother's promise to the wee lassie waiting in far off Norway need not be large or expensive. That of a man who had it when a boy will serve her until she can get a finer instrument. Send for her address.

More Pictures to Give.

"Thank you for sending me 'Mrs. M. E. E.'s' address. I have sent her a number of pictures. I hope she received them. I still have some left and should like that club of girls to have them. Will you send me their address?

A. M. H."

The address of the secretary of the girls' club has gone to you by mail. They have a strong and tender claim upon us, being coworkers of the right stamp.

Laura Jean Libbey's Advice

By Laura Jean Libbey

No Obligation Incurred.

"Dear Miss Libbey: A young girl, just the average happy girl of today, who is fond of having good times and going to nice places, goes out with several different young men. All seem to be quite taken up with her and take her to theaters, etc., spending quite a sum trying to give her pleasure. In return for this, as is the custom nowadays, she jollies them and makes each one think he is the favorite, when in truth she really cares for none of them. Now, what I want to know is this: Should a girl allow a man to spend money on her when she knows he is not the kind of a man she would want to marry?

"BROWN EYES."

Any young man who has the company of a charming and attractive girl as you describe this girl to be gets the full worth of the money he spends on taking her out to places of entertainment. She does not hold him up and demand that he takes her to places of amusement. He gets as much pleasure out of it you may depend upon it or he wouldn't bother taking her.

"Only a Boy of 16."

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am only a boy of 16. I have no chum, but I have many nice friends whom I see and meet only at school. There is no one in the neighborhood near my age who does not smoke and swear. In another city where I used to live I have relatives whom I visit about every month or two. In that city I became friendly with a nice girl of my own age and with whom I have recently been corresponding.

"Now, since I have been lonesome without a chum or intimate friend, do you think that the lack of companionship would awaken love at my age? It seems as if it has, for I thrill at the thought of her. Would it be proper for me to call on her while on a visit to my relatives? She has said in a letter that she would like to see me (I haven't seen her for over a year and a half), but I don't know if it would be right, as my parents do not know her or her parents. I do not know her parents either, but would like to get acquainted. LONESOME."

No, I don't think so. I do think, however, that you are too young to give any thoughts to going about with girls. You have plenty of time yet. You had better study your lessons so as to be prepared to make a success of life instead of wasting your time with girls. Plenty of time for girls.

It's All Right If She's Willing.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am in love with a handsome young widow who, I think, is very lady like and would make me a fine companion. She has not been a widow long, possibly a year, and does not keep company with any one at present. She is familiar with my habits, character, etc., and has known me for a long time. Please advise me if it is proper to ask her for her company to some of the social entertainments of life?

"FRANK."

If you like her there is no reason why you should not take her about if she is willing to go with you.

Is He Jealous?

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am deeply in love with a young girl of 18, and up to a certain time I fully believed that she reciprocated my love. Recently, however, another young man has been around and she seems to show a desire for his company. She continues to be nice to me when we are alone, but there seems to be a difference in her feelings towards me, and although I have spoken to her on the subject, I cannot get a satisfactory reply from her. I am somewhat afraid that she is making a convenience of me, and as this is hardly a nice thought to entertain towards one you love I decided to write to you. Will you please advise me what to do?

"V."

I am afraid you are jealous. If you feel as you do towards the girl you better not be wasting any more time or money on her. Get interested in some other girl you have more confidence in.

He Doesn't Care for Her.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I'm a girl of 18 and for over a year have been engaged to a young man four years my senior. I was very happy while he was with me; we went together every Sunday for over a year, and I'm unhappy now. He took to another girl and they pay each other every attention and don't notice me. He speaks to me, but she won't speak at all. I just don't see how I can stand it any longer. It don't seem like I ever could love another. He seemed to love me very dearly all the time. O, what shall I do? I bear it as bravely as I can; it seems like my heart will burst with sorrow every minute. I can't think of such an awful thing. That girl treats me awful. E. G."

There is nothing that you can do. Simply make up your mind that he was not the one for you and that you will not ruin your life because some one that you care for does not seem to care anything about you. Be determined to make your life splendid in spite of such disappointment. I feel sure in a few years from now you will be glad the other girl took him away from you.

Little Quips and Quirks.

Rol-lo and His Pah-Pah.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

AH, Rol-lo, my child, I am in-deed pleased and proud to ob-serve you read-ing with such dil-i-gence. Read-ing, my son, as some one has so wit-ti-ly said, is like three drinks of red liq-uor; it mak-eth a full man.

Ha, ha, par-ent, that is ver-y clev-er and I shall in-scribe it on the tab-lets of my mem-o-ry. Yes, par-ent, I de-light in read-ing much, as I know that on-ly in this way can I be-come learn-ed and wise.

Quite true, my son. There is noth-ing so broad-ens the mind as read-ing. But what are you pe-rus-ing at pres-ent, my son?

I am read-ing all this month's mag-a-zines, fa-ther. At the mo-ment I was deep-ly en-grossed with this sto-ry, which is for ob-vi-ous rea-sons un-signed but which the ed-i-tors of the mag-a-zine say was writ-ten by one of the most suc-cess-ful mil-lion-aires in the coun-try. It tells just what he did and what any bright boy can do to make him-self a cap-tain of in-dus-try with-in a few short weeks.

Yes, my son, the rea-son why the writ-er does not sign his name is ex-treme-ly ob-vi-ous.

But do you know who the au-thor is, fa-ther?

O, yes, my child. The man who wrote that ar-ti-cle was in to see me last week. He want-ed to bor-row fif-ty cents to get the first square meal he had had in two months.

Well, well, par-ent, you in-deed sur-prise me. But here is an-oth-er ar-ti-cle by a man who ex-plains ex-act-ly the po-lit-i-cal sit-u-a-tion and tells who will be e-lect-ed pres-i-dent of our glo-ri-ous coun-try next No-vem-ber. Do you know him, fa-ther?

Yes, my son, but I will not go a-bout with him in pub-lic be-cause twelve years a-go he said he would not have his hair cut or his face shaved un-til Wil-liam Jen-nings Bry-an was liv-ing in the White House.

You in-ter-est me, par-ent. Con-verse to me about the au-thor of this oth-er ar-ti-cle. You see, it tells a-bout de-li-cious things to eat in all lands and how the va-ri-ous tooth-some dishes are pre-pared.

Yes, my son, that was writ-ten by a man who has nev-er been out-side of the loop in twen-ty-four years, the on-ly time he has trav-eled ex-ten-sive-ly a-broad be-ing sev-en years a-go when he went to a fu-ner-al in En-gle-wood. He does all his eat-ing at the free lunch coun-ters on Clark street.

Well, well, fa-ther. Then I shall not read any more of that ar-ti-cle. But what do you think of this splen-did sto-ry which I now hold be-fore you? It is the love sto-ry of a beau-ti-ful girl whose life was in-deed sad and hu-mil-i-at-ing be-cause her par-ents be-longed to the pred-a-to-ry rich. But the sto-ry is in-deed ed-u-ca-tion-al, as it por-trays with won-der-ful fi-del-i-ty the life of our wealth-y classes. The au-thor must have been raised with-in a stone's throw of the Lake Shore drive and known naught but ease and lux-u-ry and re-fine-ment all of his life, so faith-ful-ly does he de-scribe the life of the i-dle rich. Have you any-thing on this guy, par-ent?

No, my child, not nec-es-sar-i-ly; on-ly I hap-pen to be a-ware that the au-thor of the ar-ti-cle to which you so glow-ing-ly re-fer is now do-ing time for burg-la-ry at Jo-li-et and that the on-ly way he ev-er got in-to the homes of the i-dle rich was with a skel-e-ton key and a dark lan-tern.

I am in-deed sur-pri-sed, par-ent. But at least I know that the prin-ci-pal ar-ti-cle in this health mag-a-zine will do me much good. The wri-ter tells how he built him-self up to a weight of two hun-dred and ten pounds by eat-ing car-rots and es-chew-ing car-niv-or-ous food and al-so how he de-vel-o-ped so much mus-cle by a sim-ple sys-tem of ex-er-cise that he is now gen-er-al-ly rec-og-ni-zed as the white man's hope.

Yes, my son, I al-so am ac-quain-ted with that gifted au-thor. He is now wear-ing a black eye. Last Mon-day af-ter he had fin-ish-ed wash-ing the break-fast dish-es he took his lit-tle daugh-ter, aged 2 years, out for a ride in Edge-wa-ter. He con-ceiv-ed the i-de-a that his daugh-ter was drink-ing too deep-ly from her lit-tle milk bot-tle and at-temp-ted to take it a-way from the child. His daugh-ter at-tack-ed him with great fu-ry and black-ed his eye, and had not his wife ap-pear-ed in the nick of time the au-thor would have been bad-ly beat-en up. And his wife was so ex-as-per-ated be-cause of his fight-ing with his child in pub-lic that she took him home, spank-ed him sound-ly, and lock-ed him in a dark clos-et.

But, fa-ther, I know there can be noth-ing re-miss with this clev-er sto-ry in the mag-a-zine which you see there on the ta-ble. The au-thor tells ex-act-ly how she rais-ed her nine chil-dren and how oth-er moth-ers may bring up their young to be mod-els of de-port-ment, and al-so she tells how to man-age the home, and re-move freck-les from the nose, and make a hob-ble skirt out of your hus-band's old au-to-mo-bile coat. Do you know this bril-li-ant la-dy au-thor, par-ent?

I cer-tain-ly do, my child. I hate to have him come in-to my of-fice, for he chews to-bac-co and spits up-on the floor, and he has whis-kers down to his belt and talks like some one was mov-ing a ton of coal down in the sub-base-ment.

Well, par-ent, you dis-cour-age me from fur-ther read-ing of the mag-a-zines. But you said at the be-gin-ning of our dis-course that read-ing was most ben-e-fi-ci-al. What can I read, par-ent, with a firm be-lief that the writer knows what he is talk-ing about?

Read the tel-e-phone di-rec-to-ry, my child. The facts which you cull there are large-ly true.

Thank you, par-ent. I will be more care-ful of my read-ing in the fu-ture.

Fully Baked Apple Pie.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

GREEN apple pie is with us. The new apple, whether fully ripe or still green, makes the best of pies, sauces, whips, etc. These have such genuine character that the addition of lemon juice is entirely superfluous and no great number of spices are acceptable.

Apple pies are made the country over, but these vary as much in kind as the California oyster varies in size from the gulf oyster. The incredible difference between a poor apple pie and a good one is almost wholly due to the differences in baking

In general apple pies are not baked long and slowly enough. Even evaporated apples, if cleaned and soaked well, put into a pie and cooked for two hours, will have that fine red color characteristic of the best pies and be superior to any pie of sliced fresh apple but half baked, especially if the cook in making the latter did not choose a cooking apple. Some apples were never made to be cooked.

An oven does not need to be hot enough to boil the juices of an apple pie violently, but cooks who make the best pies take great pains to prevent any possible loss of juices because they boil at a rather low oven temperature.

Some in order to prevent this loss put all the sweetening next to the bottom crust; then they tie a piece of cheesecloth around the edge of the pie, feeling that this is the surest way of having a nice firm crust, and one that is not overbrown from the long baking. This makes a less bulky and pleasanter edge than when the lower crust is turned up over the apple before the upper is put on.

A pie with the apple half raw and with seasonings as isolated and unrelated to it as though they were still in their cans or canisters is a crude affair. The best tasting apple pie is one that nearly approaches the pandowdy in color and taste.

The pandowdy was ideally cooked in a brick oven, but in the fireless cooker containing stones the condition of the old oven can be somewhat approximated, although the airy size of the old ovens was an element that contributed to the excellence of the products that came out of them.

To make the pandowdy a well greased pudding dish was filled with slices of good cooking apples, well seasoned, covered with a crust, and then baked for three or four hours. With cream or even with good milk this is a dish fit for those who sit upon Olympus.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets.

By Lillian Russell

Overdoing.

[Copyright: 1912: By Lillian Russell.]

ENOUGH has been said of the want of fresh air and sunshine in women's lives to last the century for all the heed the sex give to it.

If women will live fifteen hours a day in apartments where the sun seldom enters and take their only out of door recreation shopping in overheated stores the skin will become anæmic, lose its functions, and grow pallid, dead, and full of wrinkles, which form most in dull flesh.

If they would only be sure to sit in sunny windows and to keep the rooms well aired the dial would turn back at least ten years out of forty. I hope that they will reach this wisdom in this generation, but most women task themselves too hard to keep young.

Many women at 28 have three or four children, go into society, attend dinners, luncheons, dancing parties, keep house, and sit up nights with sick children. Yet they wonder why they tire quickly at dances, look badly wrinkled and faded.

Men say that women will drive the best horses to death and that they are not less kind to themselves.

"Obedience is better than sacrifice," should be written on every door, that it might be heeded going and coming, both for the written law of morals as well as the unwritten moralities of natural law. Obedience day by day and hour by hour to simple duties is more a test of sound brain and moral fiber than any amount of the heroics young women are fond of essaying.

Here in the heat of summer young women are using pots of extravagant cosmetics in hopes of securing a blameless complexion when nature would help them quickly to clear skins and bright eyes if they would only work with her.

Summer is the time of all the year to lay in a store of beauty. The free perspiration, the warmth, the open air, all lead to health and physical perfection if not thwarted by slovenly neglect.

Sleep with windows wide open, hange clothing thoroughly daily. If there is an unpleasant taste in the mouth take a spoonful of powdered charcoal in water before breakfast.

If any food or drink seems to disagree with you leave it off till the heat of the season is over, when you will find its relish in no way impaired for the slight abstinence. Show firmness of determination, will power, and character. Do only what you know you can do and do well.

Take pleasure in being perfectly well and young. Don't crush to accomplish more than you can do; you will live happier and longer if you do just a few things well.

Remember: Overdoing takes the spice and joy away from well doing.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

READER: Use the household ammonia. Take two-thirds peroxide and one-third ammonia. There is not enough ammonia in the mixture to burn the skin, but in case it should add a little more peroxide. If the bone of the ankle is large there is no way of reducing it, but if it is just fat you can reduce it by massage, or the following exercise is beneficial: Stand on the toes, then bend the knees as far as possible, still keeping on the toes. Do this about ten times, then lower the heels. Do not wear shoes. Do you use powder? Perhaps this is the cause of your face getting rough. If this is the case then change the brand of powder or stop its use for awhile. Perhaps the soap you use is too strong for your skin, as it seems to be tender. Castile soap is usually good and agrees with a thin skin. I would advise you to use almond meal instead of soap for awhile. This is excellent for cleansing the skin and leaves it soft and smooth. Apply a good cold cream to the face before retiring or before applying powder to the face. I shall be glad to send you the formula for a good cold cream, also the formula for bath bags, which can be substituted for soap, if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

LEEBEL: I would not advise you to massage the face more than once daily. Go over the entire face with a rotary motion, using the skin food. This will take about ten minutes. Thank you for your kind words of appreciation. I am delighted to hear that you enjoy my columns so much.

LILLIAN: If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall send you a bleach for freckles and my treatment for blackheads, also an astringent lotion which will remedy an oily complexion. I cannot recommend a face powder to you, but advise you to get a good grade of powder, for the cheap powders are nothing but chalk and will ruin the complexion. It is not good to sleep through the night with powder on your face. The face should be cleansed thoroughly before retiring—first with a good cleansing cream and then with plenty of soap and water. Castile or any of the floating soaps are good and usually agree with any skin.

Among the New Books

Is Viereck Deserting the Muse?

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

"THE CANDLE AND THE FLAME" [Moffet, Yard & Co.] is the title of Mr. George Sylvester Viereck's latest book of poetry—nay, his last book of poetry, so he threatens us. For Mr. Viereck avers that he no longer worships beauty. "Art for art's sake seems a jest," declares the poet. "Literature only a sickly mirage of life. My temperament is more dynamic than esthetic. Activity as such allures me. Brooklyn bridge seems to me a far more marvelous accomplishment than the most precious of sonnets. If I were not Viereck I would gladly be Edison. I sometimes suspect that I would rather have reared the Metropolitan building than written my poem, 'Queen Lileth.' The spirit of America has written into my heart. Wall street is more interesting to me than Parnassus."

It would seem as if Mr. Viereck had gone over to the great majority, but we sincerely hope that he will reflect, and pause, and after one or two bouts with dynamics will return to his early love, the muse, and give us, if not another poem like "Queen Lileth," at least another like "The Ballad of the Golden Boy," which has lines as lovely, as fervid and as haunting as one could wish to read. Indeed, there are many beauties in Mr. Viereck's book. Through all he writes there gleams the indescribable thing that we call poetry. What its essentials are no man may quite affirm, try as he may. It is neither great purpose, nor pure ethics, nor technical skill, but something native, wild, wonderful, baffling and unmistakable. Mr. Viereck has it—he has the mellow, singing line; the attitude defiant of all things ordered and arranged; the purple phraseology of the conscious rebel. Sometimes he says a splendid thing; sometimes a worthless one. But invariably he says it as a poet would. He sings "because he must."

And does he really mean that he will build Brooklyn bridges and Metropolitan buildings? Please, Mr. Viereck, refrain!

A volume unique and important to estheticians comes from the collaborating pens of Vernon Lee and C. Anstruther-Thomson. It's title is "BEAUTY AND UGLINESS," and John Lane is its publisher. Nearly four hundred pages in length, excellently indexed and moderately illustrated, it bears at first glance the look of a book which takes itself very seriously. Vernon Lee knows, if any writer knows, how to be insouciant, but here is no mere pleasure volume, no pretty brochure with which the idle art student or the blasé connaisseur may divert himself. Here, rather, is a work to which the artist, the psychologist, the philosopher, may turn and find food for his best and most concentrated thought. Although the writers have consulted and have to some extent quoted from the previous writers upon the subject, the volume is in no way weighted down with other men's opinions. On the contrary, it bears on every page the indubitable evidences of originality.

The prime inquiry is "What is agreeable to the normal human being" In entering upon an investigation so specific it was inevitable that the large poetic idea of "The Beautiful" should be discarded. "There is in reality," the book says, "no such thing as 'The Beautiful.' There are only separate and different beautiful forms." In a study so extensive and detailed of esthetic preferences innumerable interesting points of possible discussion arise, but the columns of a daily paper are not the place for a consideration of them. The book will make a tremendous appeal to those who are interested in the motives which underly great art; and it is not too much to say that they will be strengthened in their determination to give of the best of their inspiration and effort when they have completed this volume. "There never has been and never can be an art purely esthetic," is the conclusion reached; "the art for art's sake, of which we used to hear, being preëminently an art for the display of technical skill or scientific novelty of problem, or for the stimulation of emotions very far from esthetic, in fact, an art covering the futility or perversity of its appeal by the excuse that everything is permissible and dignified in the service of itself."

In other words, art is, after all, not a great enough thing to stand alone. Behind it, above it, beneath it, are those greater and more fundamental things which the spirit and not the hands nor the brain can produce, which make it the most delicate and exquisite handmaiden of man.

Shuster's "Strangling of Persia."

BY JEANETTE L. GILDER.

THE Hon. Morgan Shuster's long expected book, "THE STRANGLING OF PERSIA," has just been published by the Century company. Mr. Shuster dedicates his book to the Persian people.

"In the endeavor to repay in some slight measure the debt of gratitude imposed on me through their confidence in my purposes toward them and by their unwavering belief, under difficult and forbidding circumstances, in my desire to serve them for the regeneration of their nation, this book is dedicated by the author."

Mr. Shuster saw his book through the press and then sailed for South America. The interest shown by the public in the recent happenings in Persia and a desire to record these happenings while they were still fresh in his memory and to give a detailed account of the remarkable series of events which resulted in his expulsion from the post of treasurer general of Persia are the author's excuses for this book. No excuse is necessary, for the public has listened to everything that Mr. Shuster has had to say on the subject and it will be glad to read what he has written.

The facts here recorded are taken from the most authoritative sources available, supplemented by the author's private diary kept during the entire period of his sojourn in Persia. To these facts have been added sufficient historical references and explanations to give the average reader a fair understanding of recent events.

in charge of an American or European assistant who would have under him a European traveling inspector with the necessary Persian employés, and a European officer in command of the body of treasury gendarmes assigned to assist the subtreasurer in collecting the taxes in that province. In addition to carrying on the actual work of collection and local disbursements of the government, under the orders of the treasurer general, these subtreasurers were to make a careful study of the different sources of revenue within their provinces, coupled with a general estimate of the population, crops, industries, etc., and to get possession, if possible, of the kitabchs and other data held by the subcollectors and their various subordinates, as a basis for a general taxation scheme. This work would probably have required between one and two years, but, so far as Persia was concerned, there was no insurmountable obstacle to its accomplishment.

But he did not find his intention easy to carry out. The people did not understand European or American methods and a great many of them preferred the old fashioned way which has been in existence for centuries and the only one they had any knowledge of or any belief in.

The credit of Persia abroad would have required many years to restore, but I was careful throughout the entire time that I was in charge of her finances not to put my name to any order or check unless I had funds to meet it on presentation. No check of the American treasurer general was ever refused payment, and the Persians, on learning this, actually kept treasury checks instead of banknotes, whereas any former order or obligation of the Persian government had been cashed or passed off, even at a discount, without an instant's delay. In the treasury under our charge was the only set of central books which the Persian government had ever known. These books balanced exactly with the different banks with which the treasury transacted business, and a permanent record was kept of every receipt or disbursement. Persia never had this before—nor desired it.

Soon after taking charge I organized a Persian secret service, which did yeoman service in reporting frauds and occasional attempts at dishonesty by treasury employés.

It is Mr. Shuster's opinion that if the Persian people were given a chance they would make good.

As Mr. Shuster could not reform the financial condition of the country it was impossible to help the people. The rulers did not want it and the people were kept in ignorance, which they were taught to enjoy rather than to rebel against. The great mass of the population is composed of peasants and tribesmen, all densely ignorant. Many thousands have been educated abroad or have traveled after completing their education at home, but the rank and file are absolutely uninformed of what is going on in the world outside their own country.

The upshot of Mr. Shuster's deduction on the subject of Persia is, as the title of his book indicates, that it is a strangled country and that it is strangled by its rulers, who want to keep the people in ignorance of their ways. That Persia will ever be like European countries does not seem possible.

SENATORS AGREE ON PARCELS POST

Bourne and Bristow Reach a Compromise on Plan for Zone System.

MAXIMUM RATE 12 CENTS.

Change Made in Proposal Expected to Give Aid to the Small Dealer.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—After a dispute of more than two months, the senate committee on postoffices and postroads today agreed on the postoffice appropriation bill and the measure will be reported on Monday.

The parcels post provision, the principal matter in dispute, was finally thrashed out by Senator Bourne, the author of the original provision in the bill, and Senator Bristow of Kansas. The result was a compromise.

The compromise is a modified form of Senator Bourne's plan. It retains Senator Bourne's scheme for a division of the country into zones within which rates shall be the same. Senator Bristow believed the Bourne plan would place rates so low the project would be impracticable. To meet his objections, eight zones were outlined and the rates proposed by Senator Bourne were slightly increased. The maximum rate remains at 12 cents, the rate of the postal union.

Final Agreement on Zones.

Senators Bourne and Bristow agreed upon the parcels post zones as follows:

First zone, length fifty miles, rate 5 cents for the first pound, 3 cents for each additional pound; second zone, length 150 miles, rate 6 and 4 cents; third zone, length 300 miles, rate 7 and 5 cents; fourth zone, length 600 miles, rate 8 and 6 cents; fifth zone, length 1,000 miles, rate 9 and 7 cents; sixth zone, length 1,400 miles, rate 10 and 9 cents; seventh zone, length 1,800 miles, rate 11 and 10 cents; eighth zone, length over 1,800 miles, rate 12 cents per pound straight; maximum packages, 11 pounds.

Benefit to Small Dealer.

Senator Bourne originally proposed six zones, to range in length from 50 to 2,000 miles. The idea of shortening the zones is that it would be of benefit to the smaller merchants and that it would also increase the average income of the system.

Another provision is made for local delivery, fixing a charge of 5 cents for the first pound and 1 cent for each additional pound, or 15 cents for an eleven pound package. The proposal by Senator Bourne to combine the third and fourth class mails into one class is eliminated.

As completed by the senate committee, the bill carries about $262,000,000, or an increase of about $4,000,000 over the house provisions.

HOUSE COMMITTEE OPPOSES PUBLIC BUILDING SYSTEMS.

Possibility of Extravagance, Waste, and Fraud Under Methods Now in Force in America.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—Severe criticism of the government methods of erecting public buildings is contained in the report of the house committee on expenditures in public building which Chairman Cyrus Cline of Indiana submitted to the house today. The committee points out extravagance and waste and the possibilities of fraud in public expenditures.

The committee endeavors to point out what it considers the folly of maintaining a big force of draftsmen and architects to make plans for every building constructed by the government. The report finds that since 1902, 721 buildings have been erected and that there are now pending bills for 750 buildings, to cost an aggregate of $70,000,000.

"If this keeps up," the committee says, "there will be 1,520 public buildings inside of fifteen years."

The cost of maintenance alone will be $11,000,000 annually.

The office of the supervising architect of the treasury is criticised. This office is maintained at a cost of $3,000,000 annually. It has had no definite policy, the committee finds, and blame is attached to former supervising architect James Knox Taylor for some of the mistakes that have been discovered.

ARCHBALD ANSWER ON JULY 29.

Impeachment Court of Senate Sets Date for Reply from Commerce Judge—Trial May Be Delayed.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—Judge Robert W. Archbald of the United States Commerce court, charged with misconduct by the house of representatives, appeared before the impeachment court of the senate today and was given until July 29 to answer the impeachment charges against him. Attorney A. S. Worthington conducted the preliminary arrangements. The managers on the part of the house are required to file their reply to Judge Archbald's answer by Aug. 1, and all pleadings in the case must be completed by Aug. 3.

The time for the opening of the impeachment trial itself remains a subject of wide division in the senate. Senator Bailey in the proceedings of the impeachment court today asserted his determination to urge an immediate trial.

Notwithstanding Senator Bailey's attitude, which is shared by Senators Reed, Simmons, and some other Democrats, the majority of the senate, including many Democrats, favor the continuance of the case until November.

PRODUCE PRICES HOLD STEADY

Brisk Trade Clears Heavy Receipts; Values Unchanged.

POTATO SUPPLY IS SHORT.

Held Over Stock Prevents Advance; Eggs Show Weak Undertone.

Produce prices at Chicago yesterday showed no important changes from values quoted Thursday. Trade was brisk and heavy receipts of nearly all food products were taken almost as fast as placed on sale by city retailers, peddlers and shippers.

A shortage continued to exist in the potato supply, but most of the big buyers had fair stocks on hand and put off making additional purchases in the belief that heavy arrivals Monday would relieve the stringency and bring about reduced values. Rains, which interfered with digging and marketing of potatoes in the southwest, were held responsible for the present deficiency. Receipts for the day were only 20 cars.

GAIN CONFIDENCE IN TRADE GROWTH

Producers and Merchants See Improving Outlook in Heavier Demands.

MERCHANDISING ACTIVE.

Output of Steel Mills Gains Steadily; Railroad Earnings Increase.

Dun's review, published today by R. G. Dun & Co., will say:

"Confidence in the better outlook is sustained by wider demands upon the leading producers, improvement in monetary conditions and agricultural progress. While security markets show restricted volume, there is considerable investment in new enterprises, realty and construction, and in aggregate payments through the banks and smaller trading defaults the indications compare favorably with this time last year.

"In some lines of manufacture capacity is now wholly engaged well ahead and the disposition widens to enter into large commitments for the future. Weather conditions this week were more conducive to general activity. The markets for general merchandise were notably stimulated by a large influx of visiting buyers and operations had gratifying results, especially in furniture and collateral lines, textiles and dry goods specialties.

Steel Industry Gains Steadily.

"Outputs of the furnaces, mills, car shops, and forges mark steady gain. Other manufacturing shows further reduced curtailment and with the promising position of the crops, low supplies of finished products, increasing transportation needs involving heavy outlays, and the feeling that good times again are in sight, the prospect is distinctly more reassuring, although the presidential campaign may prolong hesitancy among the more conservative men of business.

"New contracts were numerous for medium quantities in iron, steel, structural shapes, wire, plates, track equipment, minor metals, leather and lumber. Most raw supplies for factory conversion exhibit firm values and in some rising tendencies. Building material of all kinds is in unprecedented demand. Deliveries gain in heavy hardware, machinery, electric, brass and woodworking, and expansion is probable in furniture making, footwear and clothing.

Steam Roads Increase Earnings.

"Despite low crop marketings the Chicago steam roads increase gross earnings and sustained increase appears in lake transportation, movements of mine and forest products being conspicuously heavy. The aggregate in breadstuffs is affected by unusually small wheat receipts, but the absorption is satisfactory of the leading cereals and recovery is apparent in live stock supplies, dairy products, hides and wool. Retail trade here and at the interior discloses successful clearance sales. Road and mail orders equal expectation in the principal jobbing branches, and mercantile collections show better than for June.

Bradstreet's Weekly Report.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"The keynote of this week's developments is quite accurately epitomized in the phrase 'favorable crop prospects.' As a natural result optimism as regards future trade has notably increased and some reflection of this sentiment has already been experienced in a heavier demand from the spring wheat northwest, where crops are especially promising.

"Moreover, retail trade has been stimulated by hot weather and clearance sales, the iron and steel trade retains all of its former life, the railways are beginning to talk of car shortages in the fall.

"There is somewhat more doing in dry goods, though demand has not yet expanded in a noteworthy way.

"Prices of textiles are firm and tend higher, with some lines in scant supply and the strike of operatives in New Bedford mills generates concern as to deliveries of fine goods.

"Leather is strong and new buying of shoes is quite moderate. It is said that some purveyors of relatively low priced shoes have substituted cheaper grades in preference to increasing prices which are deemed legitimate because of the high cost of labor and raw materials.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending July 18 were 253, against 252 last week, 239 in the like week of 1911, 215 in 1910, 239 in 1909, and 263 in 1908.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, July 19.—The stock market developed heaviness today, with pronounced weakness in consols, which fell 9-16 on liquidation in expectation of an Indian loan of $10,000,000. The bombardment of the Dardanelles also had a disturbing effect in the gilt edged and foreign bonds sections and Turkish securities fell from ½ to 1½ points. Home rails yielded under realizing, but copper shares were strong features.

American securities opened around parity but selling of Canadian Pacific depressed the list and prices during the forenoon ruled from ¼ above to ¾ below parity. In the afternoon the market improved under the lead of Union Pacific and Amalgamated Copper. The closing was steady.

Money rates were steady and discounts ruled quiet and unchanged.

SEE MENACE TO COTTON CROP IN RAIL-STEAMSHIP QUARREL.

Texas Business Men Tell Commerce Official Lack of Through Bills of Lading Means Financial Distress.

Business men of Galveston and Dallas, Tex., pleaded yesterday before Chairman Prouty of the interstate commerce commission that financial distress is feared in the state of Texas unless the railroads are compelled to provide through bills of lading on cotton at the port of Galveston. These assertions were made during a hearing to settle a controversy between the steamship lines and steam railroads over the question of demurrage and through bills of lading.

The differences developed when the steamship lines refused longer to pay demurrage charges, and the railroads retaliated by declining to issue through bills of lading. As a compromise, following a conference between the steamship and railroad interests, the railroads suggested that the shippers be required to pay the demurrage. To bring the matter to a settlement, the commercial bodies at Galveston and Dallas complained to the interstate commerce commission.

The civic bodies are reinforced by the banking interests of Texas, who aver they will not be able to finance the cotton crops unless their appeal is granted. The complainants are seeking restoration of service whereby cotton coming through the port by freight may be carried through to steamers without demurrage charges.

Announcement was made yesterday by the Illinois Central that this year the annual low rate excursion from the south which has heretofore been operated during August to Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, and Cincinnati, will be abandoned.

FIELD TUNNEL PLAN APPROVED.

Council Committee Recommends Ordinance to Allow Passageway Under Street for Rental.

Approval of Marshall Field & Co.'s request to construct a basement and passageway under Washington street from Wabash avenue to the alley west was voted by the city council committee on streets and alleys yesterday. The ordinance was recommended by a vote of 9 to 3, after City Engineer John Ericsson, chairman of the subway commission, had said he did not know of any construction difficulties that would be encountered in building a subway because of the renting of the space. The rental was fixed at $3,204 a year by the bureau of compensation. The ordinance will be presented to the council Monday afternoon as an emergency matter, and its passage under a suspension of the rules will be asked.

GO HIGHEST IN WEEKS.

Sheep and Lambs Hold Steady; Steer Trade Dull; Calves Get Fimer Prices.

Aggressive competition between packers, shippers, and butchers for the meager run of 10,000 hogs at Chicago yesterday sent prices to 10@15c higher than on Thursday, and the highest in nearly two months. Armour & Co. paid the appreciation with reluctance and bought only 800 hogs, but Swift & Co. took twice that number, smaller packers divided 6,300 head, and shippers bought 3,000, reducing the stale supply to less than 2,000 hogs. A top of $7.87½ was made and the average price was advanced 12c to $7.68.

Sheep and lambs sold at steady prices, with receipts of 11,000 head about equal to requirements, although one packing house was out of the trade and others took sparingly. Of the total arrivals, packers had about 6,000 lambs direct from Louisville. A top of $7.40 was made by native lambs. There were no fat rangers on sale.

MILLS PRESSED TO SUPPLY WIDE WALE WHITE PERCALES.

Marshall Field & Co. Say in Review Popular Demand for Material Has Outstripped Makers' Stocks.

Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Manufacturers are hard pressed to supply the demands of fashions for wide wale white percales. These goods are popular at present and as they are also suitable for fall wear their use is certain to continue for some time.

"Colored dress lines in coarse and ramie effects up to thirty-six and forty-seven inches wide are among the most popular fabrics of the season. All types of dress linens are selling well and the volume of distribution is limited only by the capacity for production."

U. S. GETS FACTS ON BUTTER TRUST

Witnesses at Inquiry Say Elgin, Chicago and N. Y. Boards Fix Prices.

CONTROL OUTPUT ALSO.

Declare Supplies Are Bought Up and Quotations Set to Yield Profit.

The resumption of the federal inquiry before Master in Chancery Charles B. Morrison into alleged methods employed by the butter and egg "trust" in artificially controlling prices brought out additional facts yesterday which may lead to criminal action by the government. The investigation is based upon the belief that wholesale contractors are able to monopolize the output of butter and eggs, fix the market quotations, and sell at prices which leave them a margin.

The result of last Tuesday's session of the inquiry, conducted by Assistant District Attorney Albert G. Welch, led to disclosure of methods by which "quotations" are secured through agreement between the Chicago butter and egg board, the Elgin board of trade, and the New York board of trade.

Say Output Is Controlled.

T. A. Summerville of the Hunter, Walton & Co. testified agents of his company are sent into the producing regions in April to buy up the outputs of the creameries at prices from one-fourth to one-half a cent above the Chicago or Elgin quotations. By a conspiracy with the Chicago, Elgin and New York boards, the government charges, "market" quotations are secured at from 1 to 2 cents above the actual selling price in Chicago.

Tells of Elgin Squabble.

F. M. Heggie of the Lepman & Heggie company, a member of the Chicago butter and egg boards, testified that last Monday at Elgin, when the price of creamery extras in the wholesale market was 26½ cents, an agreement was reached by the quotation committee at Elgin to make the "official" quotation 25½ cents. A controversy arose over the change and the matter was put to a vote. As a result the board reduced the "quotation" to 25 cents.

The inquiry will be resumed Tuesday morning.

BUSINESS, COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL SECTION

DIVIDEND A BOOST FOR CHICAGO RYS.

Resumption in Distribution Lifts Series I Certificates Sharply.

YERKES WRECK CLEARED

Company Is "Making Good" to Former Investors and Inspiring Confidence.

Chicago Railways series 1 certificates were, in price advance, the feature of trading on the local stock exchange. The ability of the company to resume dividends after three years of suspension, was an encouraging indication for the security holders of the company. It showed that out of the noisome wreck of the old Yerkes properties there had been built up an extensive railroad property, which, after two receiverships, was enabled to assume a position of respectability in corporation management and to invite the confidence of investors.

Because of the character of the material to be worked into the present company it was necessary to assume and create obligations at the beginning considered burdensome. But the field has been well cleaned and the company is successfully "making good" to former investors, whose money was used in the old properties.

Series 1 certificates advanced from an opening at 89¾ to a close of 93½. The movement was not speculative, but was based upon an estimate of the legitimate prospects of the company.

Sears-Roebuck Common Active.

In activity Sears-Roebuck common led the local list. The price movement was somewhat irregular, but from an opening at 190 the stock advanced to a close at 191¾. In sympathy with the bullish character of the New York market, the insiders in Sears moved up the price. The stock is something of a speculative favorite, although the price is too high for small traders.

National Biscuit common was up 1 point, but did not reach the previous day's close. Hart, Schaffner & Marx preferred again reached par, from an opening at 99½.

Public Service preferred was down ½ point from the opening, while Illinois Brick was up ½.

New York Banks Gain Cash.

Known movements of money for the week indicate a gain in cash by the New York banks of $6,044,000. The banks gained net from the interior $7,906,000, but lost to the subtreasury $1,862,000. The previous week the banks gained from the interior $8,258,000, but lost to the subtreasury $7,225,000.

No Cut in St. Paul.

In good quarters doubt is no longer entertained about the continuance of the St. Paul dividend at the present rate of 5 per cent. The crop outlook as well as the acknowledged improvement in general business make the directors feel certain that earnings will be such as to more than warrant the current rate of distribution.

Banks Lose in McCrum.

It appears that the indebtedness of the McCrum-Howell company to roundly 200 banks and amounting to between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000, will have to be scaled. How much is not announced, but in common with other creditors the banks must stand considerable losses.

As to the stockholders, the value of their present investment may be judged by the market quotation of 4 for the preferred issue.

Live Stock Exchange Dividend.

Gossip in La Salle street to the effect that the Live Stock Exchange National bank intends to increase its dividend appears to be based on earnings rather than present intention on the part of the directors. The bank is paying 10 per cent and earnings are reckoned to be the best since the bank was organized. While no increase is expected at the next quarterly distribution, it is considered not improbable that at the end of the year there may be an extra disbursement of 2 per cent. The stock was quoted yesterday around 250, an advance of 5 points within the week.

Electric May Reach Chicago.

It is announced that the Milwauke Electric Railway and Light company, owners of the Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha Electric railway, which has its southern terminus in Kenosha, will soon take steps to extend the interurban line south as far as Waukegan. It is added that the ultimate object is to reach Chicago.

Chemical Profits Off.

The Virginia-Carolina Chemical company showed in its last fiscal year net earnings of about $1 per ton from its fertilizer sales as against $2 per ton in previous years. Explaining this shrinkage in profits, President S. T. Morgan says:

"The depression in the fertilizer department of the business was more pronounced than it has been since the organization of the company. Not only were the merchants and farmers not disposed to buy as promptly and as largely as heretofore but on account of bad weather and the condition of the country roads, which made it impossible for farmers to move the fertilizers from the railroad stations with any degree of promptness."

Cities Service Earnings.

The income account of the Cities Service company for the year ended June 30 makes the following showing:

Gross earnings		$1,098,178
Expenses		74,742
Net earnings		$1,023,436
Preferred dividend	$565,874
Common dividend	183,005
		748,879
Surplus		$274,557

The company has declared the regular monthly dividends of one-half of 1 per cent on its preferred and one-third of 1 per cent on its common stock, both payable Aug. 1 to stock of record to July 20.

Dividends Declared.

The Houston Oil company declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent on its preferred stock trust certificates, payable Aug. 1.

The West Pennsylvania Railway company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent on its preferred stock, payable Aug. 1 to holders of record July 25.

The Trenton Potteries company declared regular quarterly dividends of 4 per cent on its noncumulative preferred and 5 per cent on its cumulative preferred stocks, both payable July 25 to holders of record July 18.

Yesterday's bank clearings were $47,670,031. New York exchange sold at 15c premium.

Financial News Notes.

About 90 per cent of the Hall Signal company stockholders have approved the modified plan for the readjustment of the company's finances.

The American Pipe and Construction Securities company, which has just been incorporated in Delaware, is a holdings concern to take over the $7,000,000 of American Pipe and Construction company's treasury bonds and to give them as security for $5,000,000 ten year 6 per cent collateral trust bonds.

The committee on stock list of the New York stock exchange has added $1,953,400 guaranteed special stock of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway company to the list, making the total amount listed $50,026,800.

Announcement is made of increased activity in the dry goods and textile industries, and buyers are said to be congregating in the important centers, such as New York, Chicago, and St. Louis.

Frisco Will Make Fair Record.

It is expected that the June statement of the St. Louis and San Francisco, which should be published about the end of this month, will show a smaller gross than last year and a net, after all charges, of about that of June, 1911.

In the twelve months ended June 30 the gross earnings of the road fell slightly below $42,000,000. This figure, however, is the second highest gross in the company's history.

WARD PROPERTY FIGURES IN DEAL

Negotiations Said to Involve Large Piece in Michigan Boulevard.

DETAILS STILL HIDDEN.

Local Capital Declared to Be Interested in Transaction Pending.

Negotiations involving the purchase of a large part of the Montgomery Ward property in the block between Madison and Washington streets in Michigan boulevard have reached a point which promises a successful conclusion, probably within a few days.

The name of the prospective purchaser is not known, but it is said local capital is behind the deal. A report has been in circulation that the entire block, with a frontage of a little over 375 feet, is sought.

It is authoritatively stated, however, the present deal involves only the 146 feet of inside frontage owned by Mr. Ward personally.

The Madison street corner, occupied by a twelve story building, and the Washington street corner, occupied by a fire engine house, are both held by the company. The building at the Madison street corner is under lease to Mandel Bros. and the four story structure adjoining on the north, covering the ground owned by Mr. Ward, is under lease to Marshall Field & Co. All the leases have cancellation clauses, it is understood, requiring twelve months' notice.

Property Sought by Many.

Since the removal of Ward & Co. to their present location on the north branch, several years ago, there has been much speculation as to the ultimate disposal of the property which comprises the largest single holding in the avenue north of the Otto Young estate holding at Hubbard court.

Many attempts have been made to acquire it either by purchase or long term lease. Several of these projects have involved the construction of a hotel, and one a hotel and theater.

One involved the remodeling of the building at the corner of Madison street and its conversion into a hotel, and tentative plans were prepared in this connection.

During the last few months reports have been in circulation that a syndicate was seeking to acquire the property with the purpose of erecting a high class hotel. While another report had it that local and foreign capital was after it with the purpose of establishing a big commercial enterprise in the nature of a British mercantile invasion, in line with Mr. Selfridge's American invasion of London.

It is reported that William Le Moyne has about concluded the purchase of the west side of Wabash avenue in the block between Thirty-ninth and Fortieth streets, 600x160 feet, from the Chicago City railway company, and that he plans to improve with a large storage warehouse. The east side of the street in the same block is said to have been acquired by the Ford Automobile company and will be improved with a large building.

Will Build in Wabash Avenue.

L. G. Tisher will construct a new building at 1414-1418 South Wabash avenue for furniture exhibition purposes. It will be seven stories high, with a frontage of 67 feet and a depth of 145 feet. It is said that the space was practically all rented for a term of five years before the architect, Peter J. Weber, had completed the plans for the building.

The structure will be known as the Central Market Furniture building and will have an attractive entrance hall fitted up as a lobby with chairs and tables for the convenience of patrons.

The property at the northeast corner of Hoyne avenue and Le Moyne street, 50x150 feet, west front, with flat improvements, has been sold by Samuel Nachenberg to Anna Cohen, the deed giving a consideration of $1 and the transfer being subject to an incumbrance of $30,730.

The property at the northwest corner of Hermitage and Haddon avenues, 25x127 feet, was in July, 1911, conveyed by Morris Isenberg to Max J. Frankel for a nominal consideration, subject to an incumbrance of $10,000. Mr. Frankel has conveyed it to Jacob H. Woldenberg for $24,500, subject to an incumbrance of $15,900.

Negotiates Loan of $37,500.

The Ohraman Mortgage company has negotiated a loan of $37,500, five years, at 5½ per cent, to Henry H. Sessions, secured by the property at the northeast corner of Woodlawn avenue and Forty-sixth place, lot 120x170 feet, improved with a three story eighteen apartment building.

S. H. Strawn is trustee in a loan of $33,000, for ten years, at 6 per cent, to the Zerega company, secured by the property in Ashland avenue, about 205 feet north of Thirty-seventh street, 75x150 feet, west front.

A. S. Peabody is trustee in a loan of $70,000 for eight years at 6 per cent to William Seymour, secured by the property on Johnson street, 216 feet south of Fourteenth street, 144x100 feet, west front.

SHORTS IN PANIC; GRAINS ADVANCE

Threatened Closing of the Dardanelles Checks Selling; Bulls More Aggressive.

EXPORT DEMAND GROWS.

Fair Sales Are Reported; Corn and Oats Are Higher in Sympathy with Wheat.

Unexpected political developments abroad yesterday checked the triumphant progress of the grain bears and caused a mild panic among the shorts for a time. A sharp advance at Liverpool on the report of the bombardment of the Turkish forts on the Dardanelles and the announcement the Dardanelles would be closed gave shorts a series of cold chills. At the opening there was little wheat for sale, with shorts scrambling to cover.

After the first rush to buy was over there were discovered to be quite liberal offerings and prices again eased. On the reaction shorts who had waited bought freely and there was also a little better demand from commission houses. Later in the day came reports that the Dardanelles would not be closed, but this announcement had little effect. Final prices were 1@2c higher.

Bull News Is Welcomed.

The trouble at the Dardanelles came in the nick of time to save the bulls. But for the encouragement of this new and unexpected development a lower range of prices had been predicted. With the possibilities of increased foreign buying and the unsettled conditions abroad shorts began to take more notice of other features in the situation than the northwest wheat crop. The Modern Miller report gave a bullish picture of the harvest conditions in the soft wheat states and said there was much damage from wheat sprouting in the shock. Spring wheat reports continued as bearish as ever.

All the reports from the crop experts were favorable. Cool and generally fair weather continued. In Canada, however, conditions were said to be less favorable. The cash demand here was moderate and there were sales of 40,000 bu. Receipts here were 85 cars, with 89 cars the estimate for today. Primary points had 883,000 bu, against 1,599,000 bu a year ago.

Liverpool was 2⅝d higher for the October at one time, but lost a good share of the advance, closing ¾@1⅜d up. Paris and Antwerp were 1¼c higher; Berlin, 1⅜c better, while Budapest was ¼c lower.

Export Sales Market Factor.

Increasing evidence was produced to show that prices were on close to an export basis. Judging from the reports there has been quite a little business done in red and new hard winters, as well as a fair amount of Manitoba wheat sold. The relatively firmer markets abroad resulted in acceptances of practically all the wheat offered to foreigners over night. There were also reports of quite a little flour sold for export from the southwest.

One report said that Kansas mills had sold 100,000 brls for export the last few days. In the northwest there was a little better inquiry for flour, and foreign buyers were said to be cabling for offers. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 1,025,000 bu for one week, and Duluth supplies decreased 520,000 bu. Indications are for another decrease in the visible. Clearances for the day were 232,000 bu.

Corn Price Course Erratic.

The course of corn prices was erratic in the extreme. Early shorts were in a panic, and bid prices up 2c above the previous close for September, after which there was a break of 2½c. Later the market again showed a hardening tendency, except for the July, which was relatively weak. Final quotations were ⅜c off to 1c higher.

Crop reports were favorable, except from southern Nebraska, but there was a good cash demand, and prices were not so weak in the cash crowd as they have been, except for poor grades. Sample prices were called steady to 1½c off, and shipping sales were 240,000 bu. Outside cash markets were a little lower. Receipts here were 108 cars, with 131 cars the estimate for today. Primary receipts were 332,000 bu, against 256,000 bu a year ago. Argentine shipments for the week were 5,873,000 bu. Cables were ⅜d higher at the close.

Kimball, Cutten, Bartlett-Frazier, and Harris-Winthrop were fair buyers on the last dip. Shorts in general were late buyers.

Steadier Tone in Oats.

Oats were affected by the foreign news to a less extent than other grains, but there was a steadier tone, and at the close prices were ⅛@⅝c to 1⅜c higher. The July was particularly strong. There was no specially heavy selling pressure, and shorts had to bid prices up a little in order to cover. Receipts were 110 cars, with 103 cars the estimate for today. Primary receipts had 233,000 bu, against [illegible]000 bu a year ago. Cash prices were about [illegible] higher, and sales were 175,000 bu.

Hog Products Irregular.

Provisions were irregular, but closed firm with small gains. Packers and foreigners were credited with selling early in the day, and there was some selling credited to stock yards houses. The strength in the grain list late in the day was a factor as well as the small receipts of hogs here and in west, with an advance of 10@15c at the yards. Local run was 12,000, with 9,000 the estimate for today. Western receipts were 56,500, against 68,500 a year ago.

Rye Market Irregular.

The market was firm for old and easier for new crop offerings. Old No. 2 sold at 74c and new at 70c for 10 days' shipment. Latter closed at 70c bid for August-September delivery. There were no other receipts on the market.

Barley was neglected and closed with malting at [illegible] for old and 65@70c for new. Feed was 65c bid for old and 30c bid and 55c sellers for new [illegible], October shipment. Screenings were 30@[illegible]. Receipts were estimated at 3 cars.

Timothyseed was easier, with August $7.25 bid and $7.50 sellers. October sold at $6.25@6.50. Cash lots were $6.00@10.00. Cloverseed was quiet at [illegible]18.00 for cash lots.

Duluth flax closed ⅛c higher to 1¼c lower, with on track and July $1.97; September, $1.87½; October, $1.80. Receipts, 13 cars. Minneapolis was ½c higher at $1.94 for cash on track. Receipts, 15 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE

The excited market at Liverpool due to the bombardment of the Turkish forts in the Dardanelles by the Italian warships and the reported sinking of two war vessels resulted in a big upturn in wheat prices here. Early reports were to the effect that the Turkish government had declared the Dardanelles closed to all traffic, but later advices said this decision had been revoked. The result of the news on the market was due more to the fact that all grains had been sold to a standstill for several days than to any fear of serious trouble. It gave the bulls a chance to make a stand against the bear leaders and made shorts nervous, especially those who have been pressing the short side. After the market had steadied down a little there was further buying by shorts, who waited until after the rush was over, and there was a decidedly healthier trend to speculative sentiment, the possibility of good export business being emphasized by the political developments abroad. The traders began to take into consideration other features than the fine spring wheat prospects and some account was taken of the big decline in prices of the last few weeks.

Argentine shipments of wheat this week were 2,944,000 bu, showing an increase of 1,392,000 bu. Corn shipments decreased 113,000 bu, and totaled 5,873,000 bu, while flaxseed shipments increased 458,000 bu and were 871,000 bu. Comparative totals follow:

	Wheat.	Corn.	Flaxseed.
This week	2,944,000	5,873,000	871,000
Last week	1,552,000	5,986,000	413,000
Last year	1,400,000	....	233,000
Since Jan. 1	75,478,000	57,211,000	14,502,000
Year ago	69,682,000	2,960,000	11,760,000

Argentine visible supply of wheat this week increased 328,000 bu. Corn visible increased 1,955,000 bu. Comparative totals follow:

	This week.	Last week.	Last yr.
Wheat	2,904,000	2,576,000	2,200,000
Corn	9,775,000	7,820,000	782,000

Export sales at the seaboard were reported as high as 50 loads, or 400,000 bu, in new hard winter. In addition to this there were said to have been sales of red winter and a few loads of Manitobas. Other reports were to the effect that total sales had been about 25 loads, about half of which was hard winter, while 30 loads were reported worked the previous day. A message to McKenna-Rodgers from New York said there had been 50 loads worked and orders for more within 1c of the market. Kansas City reported sales of 100,000 brls flour for export by Kansas mills the last few days, but this report was questioned by later advices. Minneapolis reported foreigners asking for offers of flour. Local exporters said a little business had been done probably over night as a result of advance at Liverpool, but that as a general thing prices for hard winter wheat were 2@5c out of line.

A Morganville, Kas., message to Bartlett-Frazier said: "Thrashing in north central Kansas, showing wheat yields much above highest estimate, 25 and 30 bu very common. Advices indicate same result all over state except extreme northwest counties."

It was reported yesterday that on Aug. 1 the freight rates on grain from Kansas City to gulf ports will be reduced 4c per 100 lbs. This will make considerable difference in the export business.

Indian shipments of wheat this week were 2,852,000 bu; last week, 2,632,000 bu; last year, 2,768,000 bu. Australian shipments were 440,000 bu, against 384,000 bu last week and 1,568,000 bu a year ago.

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were 1¼c higher; corn ½c lower to 1¼c higher; oats, ½@2c higher; rye, 1c lower to ½c higher.

Estimated receipts for today: Wheat, 89 cars; corn, 131 cars; oats, 103 cars; rye, none; barley, 3 cars; hogs, 9,000 head.

Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 1,025,000 bu for the week; Duluth stocks decreased 520,000 bu for the same time.
